Russia 'Revises' Europe Plan

Support Slash Due To Reduce Butter Prices

Order Cutting Props Eight Cents Pound Criticized, Endorsed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The government today announced a slash of about eight cents a pound in federal price supports for butter in a move to reduce its cost to housewives, spur sales and head off an increase in the already heavy surplus of dairy products.

The order is expected to bring an eight-cent drop in the price of butter on grocers' shelves.

The Agriculture Department's action, cutting dairy price supports to the legal minimum starting April 1, drew immediate protests from some milk producers and dairy state congressmen.

"It's a pity the Agriculture Department is so barren of ideas it can't come up with something better than this," said Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn).

Loss To Farmers Cited

He said the cut will cost dairy farmers 600 million dollars a year. At least, Humphrey commented, the Agriculture Department should have preserved the status quo until Congress acts on current price support legislation.

The National Milk Producers Federation announced it will ask Congress to limit the cut to nearly three cents a pound. This, it said, would be in line with President Eisenhower's farm message that downward price support adjustments would be gradual, limited to five per cent of parity a year.

A similar sentiment was expressed by Rep. August H. Andresen, second-ranking Republican on the House Agriculture Committee who represents the dairy state of Minnesota. Voicing surprise, Andresen said the cut "will affect the dairy farmers materially."

Sen. Thye (R-Minn) said he fears the Midwest will bear the brunt of the reduction and it will have a "drastic" effect on dairy income.

Aiken Endorses Action

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, supported Secretary of Agriculture Benson's action. He said in the long run he believes dairy farmers will gain as lower prices increase the demand for butter.

Benson told a news conference that supports for dairy products—butter, cheese and dried skim milk—will be reduced from the current 90 per cent of parity to the legal minimum of 75 per cent for the marketing year beginning April 1.

Parity is a measure of farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they must pay for necessities.

Agriculture Dept. Shakeup Hinted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson dropped a key holdover from the Truman regime today and hinted at a sweeping shake-up to oust hostile Democrats and replace them with Republicans in handling the administration's farm program.

Benson told a news conference that some Agriculture Department employes are working against the administration's farm policies and seeking to undermine both President Eisenhower and himself.

As a result, he said, the department will soon make a "careful study" of the entire situation in an effort to achieve "maximum efficiency and loyalty."

Benson conceded there have been "some expressions of dissatisfaction" from Republican party leaders and from some members of Congress over the department's personnel lineup.

"Some of these leaders said they felt we depended too heavily on holdover Democrats," he said.

Coincident with Benson's statement, the department announced the resignation of T. Roy Reid as director of personnel. Reid, a Democrat and onetime assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard during the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration, has been an employe of the Agriculture Department since 1935. He is a native of Greenville, S. C.

French Beat Off Red Attack North Of Laos Capital

SAIGON, Indochina, Feb. 15 (AP)—French forces beat off a fierce two-pronged Vietminh attack eight miles north of imperiled Luang Prabang today. Military observers said the Red invasion force appeared to be moving in for an assault on the royal Laotian capital.

The Union command said troops were rushed north from the Luang Prabang garrison to block a Vietminh battalion which slipped across the Mekong River and stabbed at the French defenses. The communique said the Reds were thrown back after fierce fighting marked by losses on both sides.

Red Thrust Halted

Northeast of the capital a second Red force swept down through the Suong River Valley below Paksuong and tried to pierce Luang Prabang's outer defenses. The French finally forced them back.

While ground forces fought off attacks on the capital's outskirts, Union warplanes were sent to the aid of Red-encircled Muong Sai, last French stronghold above the royal city, raked for the second day by rebel mortar fire. A French paratroop battalion was dropped yesterday to reinforce the beleaguered jungle fortress some 60 miles northwest of Luang Prabang.

Observers speculated whether the rebels were setting themselves for an attack on Luang Prabang.

Vietminh Force Bolstered

A French spokesman said some 1,500 Vietminh regional units which have been skirting the royal city's defense perimeter for the past week, have been suddenly bolstered by an undetermined number of regulars.

It is believed these reinforcements were drawn from the crack 308th Vietminh Division which was pulled out of the siege of Dien Bien Phu last week for the thrust into northern Laos apparently aimed at Luang Prabang.

Demos Ridicule GOP Treaty Proposal

Say Amendment To Force Record Votes Not Needed

Bricker Plan Debate Reaches Tally Stage

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP) — Democratic senators poured ridicule today on a proposal by the Republican leadership to amend the Constitution to require record, rollcall votes on all treaties acted upon by the Senate.

"It's like dropping an atomic bomb to kill a mosquito," said Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), who argued the same thing could be accomplished by a simple change in the Senate rules.

"I cannot conceive of anything more ridiculous than amending the Constitution to do this," said Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa). Other Democrats agreed.

Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the GOP Senate Policy Committee, proposes to tack the rollcall requirement onto the controversial amendment offered by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), which is designed to fence in the president's treaty-making powers.

Preliminary voting on the amendment today indicated there is a solid bloc of about 20 senators who oppose any change in the Constitution right now.

Bricker, George May Unite

Another development today was a statement by Bricker that it may be possible for him to join forces with Sen. George (D-Ga) in sponsoring some form of amendment to curb the scope of treaties and other pacts.

Bricker told reporters that he and George, each proposing different versions now, are in "substantial agreement" on the need for a curb and that they may get together later on precise language.

The rollcall requirement suggested by Ferguson has the approval of the White House and is supported in principle by many Democrats, since many treaties have been ratified in the past with only a handful of senators on the floor.

But many Democrats do not think it's necessary to go to the country on the issue with a constitutional amendment. A vote on the Ferguson proposal is expected tomorrow.

Bricker heads a group of senators who want a strong check on treaty-making powers. George has offered a modified amendment, which has substantial Democratic support.

Showdown Expected Thursday

Neither version is approved by the White House, however. President Eisenhower contends the language of both would infringe on the constitutional powers of the executive branch of the government and hamstring him in the conduct of foreign affairs.

Debate on the issue was resumed in the Senate today, with a showdown vote expected to come about Thursday.

There was a preliminary vote on a non-controversial clause of the Bricker version which shed some light on how the Senate stands on the whole complicated question.

By a 62-20 vote, the Senate approved a proposal by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) to make one clause of the proposed Bricker amendment read:

"A provision of a treaty or other international agreement which conflicts with this Constitution shall not be of any force or effect."

French Navy Bathyscafe Dives 13,288 Feet In Atlantic

The French Navy bathyscafe, shown leaving Dakar on the west coast of Africa to make a test dive January 27, yesterday plunged 13,288 feet below the surface of the Atlantic at that port. Two French naval officers, one of them Lt. Comdr. Georges Houot (right), rode the diving bell down, descending farther than man has gone before. The dive passed the record set last Sept. 30 by Prof. Auguste Piccard and his son, Jacques, who reached 10,339 feet. (Story at bottom of page)

Jimmy Roosevelt Says Wife Raided His Office Files

PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 15 (AP)—Jimmy Roosevelt testified today his wife broke into his office files on a Sunday last August and documents have since been missing.

Earlier, as the Roosevelts resumed their temporary support battle, her attorney introduced a torn-up document referring to a $2,500 trust payable on demand to Irene Owens.

The attorney, Arthur Schifferman, told a reporter later that this is Gladys Irene Owens, one of three women named as co-respondents in the separate maintenance suit of Mrs. Romelle Roosevelt, who accuses her husband of misconduct with 12 women. Schifferman said he understands she formerly was employed by one of Roosevelt's insurance firms.

Ring Figures In Case

Another highlight today was reference to a 2.83-carat, $5,000 diamond ring which Jimmy told the court he bought for his wife last November, three months after they separated. But one of her attorneys told newsmen she never received it and it was not her size.

Roosevelt also denied, in answer to question by Schifferman, that he scuttled a multimillion dollar business deal out of jealousy toward his late partner.

The eldest son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was on the stand all day as a hearing on his wife's demand for $3,500 monthly support for herself and three children resumed after a 10-day recess. She asks the sum pending trial of the couple's separate maintenance suits.

Schifferman introduced the torn-up document—reassembled under clear plastic sheets—"for impeachment—to show self-contradictory statements."

"Safeguard," Roosevelt Says

The document, in longhand and signed by Atty. John K. Sloan of Los Angeles, said he was holding in trust $2,500 payable on demand to Irene Owens.

Roosevelt said he placed the $2,500 in trust with Sloan "to try and safeguard some of my possessions which I believed were being tampered with." He said the money was for his use and not someone elses. He added that Sloan has repaid him the entire amount.

He accused his wife of breaking into his office when asked by his attorney, Samuel B. Picone:

"Why did you take the $2,500 and deposit it with Mr. Sloan?"

Roosevelt said he had lost confidence that his wife would not withdraw the entire amount they had in a joint account in New York.

Ike Acts To Restore 'Lindy's' Commission

Promotion To Brigadier General Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP) — President Eisenhower proposed today that the reserve commission of Charles A. Lindberg be restored, and that the flier be promoted to brigadier general.

In New York, retired Gen. George Kenney, Lindberg's "boss" during a part of World War II in the Pacific, called the proposal "highly deserved, and a long time coming."

Lindbergh himself had nothing to say. The Air Force said he had not sought the appointment, but had been consulted about it and had agreed to accept it if tendered.

Lindbergh resigned his commission as a colonel in the Army Air Corps reserve in 1941 after becoming "greatly distrubed" at implications by President Franklin D. Roosevelt "concerning my loyalty to my country."

Speeches Irked Roosevelt

Roosevelt, aroused by Lindbergh's 1940-41 speaking campaign against U. S. involvement in a European war, had by inference classed the famed aviator with Civi' War Copperheads (men who felt the North could not win).

At a news conference Roosevelt also had said there were appeasers at Valley Forge who urged George Washington to quit on the ground that he could not win against the British.

After the United States entered World War II, Lindbergh offered his services to the secretary of war, and joined aircraft companies as a consultant.

The late Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air Forces during World War II, told reporters Lindbergh provided a great amount of valuable information on German air strength, as the result of a tour he made of German installations before U.S. entry into the war.

Doubled P38's Range

Kenney, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's air chief in the Pacific theater throughout the war, told a reporter Lindbergh singlehandedly brought about the doubling of the range of the top fighter plane of World War II, the Lockheed P38.

Lindbergh taught the P38 pilots "cruise control" — how to 'hoard' precious fuel and dole it out carefully to their engines. Kenney said Lindbergh lived with P38 groups at bases at Port Moresby, Nadzab and Hollandia, in New Guinea, and on the nearby island of Biak.

Boy, 3, Who Never Tasted Food, Dies

OWOSSO, Mich., Feb. 15 (AP)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for three-year-old Rodney Dean Spencer, a boy who never tasted food.

Rodney, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Spencer of Owosso township, was born without an esophagus. A surgeon opened a small hole in his stomach and Rodney was fed through a tube all his life.

Rodney, who spent most of his life in hospitals, died Sunday of bronchial pneumonia.

Young Declares Odds Favor Him In Fight For NYC

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Robert R. Young said today the odds favor him three-to-one as he arrived from Florida to launch his proxy war for control of the mighty New York Central Railroad.

The scrappy, Texas-born financier dangled the hope of huge increases in dividends before the eyes of Central's 44,461 stockholders whose allegiance he seeks.

"New York Central stock," he said, "should be on a $7 to $10-a-year dividend basis and it would be if it had the right kind of management."

Young said the Pere Marquette and Nickel Plate roads which he previously controlled have been paying such dividends and are excellently run.

(Central paid $1 a share in 1953 on its common stock and has paid 50 cents thus far in 1954).

Comment from the Central on Young's remarks was not available immediately.

His first step, Young said, would be to run a newspaper advertisement tomorrow asking Central stockholders to submit their nominations "for anti-Morgan, pro-New York Central Board of Directors."

He reiterated claims that 90 per cent of the stockholders are for him, saying he would wage his fight against "a small clique of banking interests, the same group that brought on the 1929 crash."

Two Baby Sisters Die In Abandoned Ice Box

MADERA, Calif., Feb. 15 (AP)—An abandoned ice box proved a death trap for two baby sisters today and nearly suffocated their 6-year-old brother as well.

Sheriff W. O. Justice said 3-year-old Billie Jewel Craig and 19-month-old Onvie Gail Craig were found dead and their brother, Terry, almost lifeless in an old ice box behind the family home southeast of here.

Justice quoted Terry as saying he and his two sisters crawled into the box and a third sister, 5-year-old Betty, slammed the door shut. The children were found by their mother, Mrs. John Craig, after a 30-minute search.

Winter Heat Wave Sets More Records

[By The Associated Press]

A winter heat wave spread over the nation from the Mississippi River eastward to the Atlantic Coast Monday, breaking temperature records for February in several cities.

It was warmer in New York City and Chicago than it was in Phoenix, Ariz., and Los Angeles. The two northern cities reported 65 and 69, respectively, while Phoenix had 53 and Los Angeles 56.

At midday temperatures in the northeast quarter of the country were reported mostly in the 60s and 70s. South Bend, Ind., with 65 and Chicago reported all-time highs for February.

State And Local Regimes Emerge As Economy Prop

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—State and local governments, once impoverished but now rich, have suddenly emerged as a spending source which may about compensate for declining federal outlays and so serve as a major prop to the economy.

One of the big worries in Washington for years has been how to keep any significant cut in federal spending from throwing the economy into a nosedive.

No Reservoir Of Demand

The Korea buildup was a guns and butter affair. That is, consumers were able to buy about what they wanted most of the time. So there is not now, as after World War II, a huge reservoir of unsatisfied demand backed by enforced savings.

President Eisenhower's recently submitted budget estimated that federal spending in the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, would be approximately three billion dollars, or 4 per cent, less than the year before. And he forecast an additional drop of 5¼ billions, or 7½ per cent, in the coming fiscal year, which extends from next July 1 to June 30, 1955.

Darling Of Economists

A recent report from the Department of Commerce said rising state and local government spending is at present fully compensating for the decline in federal outlays. And, the President's economic report to Congress said, the further drop in federal spending "will probably be counteracted in large part by a rise in state and local purchases."

With those reports, state and local governments became a darling of government economists, who are now watching the financing, budgets, bank accounts and spending plans of states, counties and municipalities with a respectful attention they have seldom received here.

Teamster Boss Feels He Has Free Hand

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—AFL Teamsters Union President Dave Beck said today he feels he has a free hand in investing the union's 32 million dollar assets despite a union constitutional provision limiting bond holdings to $50,000 in any one company.

Beck, who says his million dollar "Loan" of union money to a Detroit trailer firm is "a damn sound investment," said he knew nothing of a formal protest made by an ousted West Coast union leader that Beck's financial operations violate the union's constitution.

Molotov Tries To 'Sell' West In Word Battle

Soviet Minister Put On Defensive As He Attempts To Kill NATO

BERLIN, Feb. 15 (AP)—Russia's V. M. Molotov tonight offered "modifications" of the Soviet proposal for a European security system. But he clung to demands that the European army must be banned, Germany neutralized and American troops sent home.

Molotov fought a four-hour running word battle with the Western ministers at the Berlin Big Four conference in an effort to sell his plan as securing "Europe for the Europeans."

France's Georges Bidault and Britain's Anthony Eden charged the Soviet plan would outlaw the North Atlantic Alliance as a keystone of Western defense. They said they would never agree to this.

Molotov Evades Query

Molotov retorted "The collective security treaty is an alternative project against the EDC (European Defense Community). The EDC is aimed at a rebirth of German militarism."

"It has been said the collective security treaty is aimed against NATO. Let's study this question, let's find out where and how this treaty is directed against any other treaty."

Trying to pin Molotov down, Bidault asked "Isn't the treaty incompatible with NATO? What is your answer?"

Molotov snapped "I propose we adjourn."

Soviet Press Chief Leonid F. Ilychev confirmed later tonight that Molotov never answered Bidault's question. A French briefing officer had said earlier that Molotov replied "It is not against NATO."

Western officials viewed the Russian minister's tactics as aimed at dragging them into another blind alley debate for Red propaganda purposes.

Austria Discussion Slated

These officials made clear they want no further futile argument on Germany and European security—problems wherein Molotov has sought to clinch Soviet domination on the European continent.

The Big Four shift back tomorrow to discussion of the Austrian independence treaty with little hope it will be concluded here.

Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl, who came here to take part in discussion of the treaty, briefed his government by telephone today. He is expected to present his government's formal answer tomorrow to Molotov's proposal to keep Soviet troops in Austria as long as Germany is divided between East and West.

In a two-hour secret talk this morning, the Big Four failed for the fourth time to agree on how to approach peace negotiations in Asia.

Warren Protest Deadline Is Set

WASHINGTON Feb. 15 (AP)—A Senate Judiciary subcommittee today set a Wednesday night deadline for receiving protests from opponents of the appointment of Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Sen. Langer (R-ND), the subcommittee chairman, said the decision was reached at a closed door meeting of the subcommittee. He said "some California people" have sent word they plan to write or wire the subcommittee in opposition to Warren, now serving under a recess appointment by President Eisenhower.

Langer estimated the number of complaints against the former California governor at beyond the 100 mark. He had mentioned a total of 97 last weekend.

The Senate Judiciary Committee staff will analyze all the complaints, Langer said, "to see if there is any substance to any of them" in advance of the subcommittee's next meeting. He said no meeting date has been fixed, but that it will be "as soon as practicable" after Wednesday.

Eisenhower Will Fly To California Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP) — President Eisenhower today made plans for a five-day business-pleasure trip to Palm Springs, Calif., starting Wednesday. The visit had been widely rumored for several days.

The White House said Eisenhower will leave by plane with a group of staff members after his Wednesday afternoon news conference. He plans to return here next Monday.

Ex-POW Sells Gift House, Buys Car, Weds, Re-Enlists

FREDERICKTOWN, Mo., Feb. 15 (AP) — A community-wide campaign that enabled this town to give a new home to a repatriated prisoner of war from Korea four months ago has ended up on a sour note.

Ex-Sgt. Charles E. Clubb sold the house, bought a new car and got married. Then he re-enlisted in the Army.

"It surprised us all the way around," said Mayor William F. Carmack. "Worse yet, the young man only got $2,300 for the place for which our people paid $3,000 before adding an estimated $1,000 in repairs."

There was a parade Oct. 18 when the 26-year-old sergeant and his mother, who never previously had owned their own home, were presented the keys to the house. Nearly the entire town of 5,000 turned out.

"I hope I'll always deserve it," Clubb said in a speech of acceptance.

Clubb now is stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. His mother is living in a two-room apartment.

Among those who have expressed disappointment at the turn of events is Mrs. Loreta Cawood, who was a leader in the drive as head of the American War Mothers here.

"I think I can speak for a lot of people when I say we're keenly disappointed," Mrs. Cawood said. "But I'm glad we did it.

"Fredericktown's spirit is on the record, and they can't take that away from us."

Two French Naval Officers Make Record Ocean Plunge

PARIS, Feb. 15 (AP)—Two French naval officers today dived farther beneath the ocean's surface than man has ever probed before. They plunged their 35-ton bathyscafe more than 2½ miles into the Atlantic off West Africa.

Lt. Cmdr. Georges Houot and engineer Pierre Henri Willm made their second spectacular world record plunge in six months — this time to a depth of 13,288 feet 160 miles off Dakar in the South Atlantic. They beat by 2,949 feet—more than half a mile—the previous record set by Swiss Prof. August Piccard and his son, Jacques, last September in the Tyrrhenian Sea division of the Mediterranean off Naples, Italy.

The Frenchmen spent six hours below the surface today.

Houot and Willm used one of Piccard's old bathyscafes, given to the French by the Belgian navy. It performs something like a free balloon, only in the opposite direction. It operates from a mother ship to which it is not attached, navigating freely when submerged by using small electric motors.

Metal weights held to the bathyscafe's hull by magnets take the strange vessel down. When its navigators are ready to return to the surface, they release the weights. Tons of gasoline in floats, lighter than water, then lift the bathyscafe back up.

Support Slash Due To Reduce Butter Prices

Order Cutting Props Eight Cents Pound Criticized, Endorsed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The government today announced a slash of about eight cents a pound in federal price supports for butter in a move to reduce its cost to housewives, spur sales and head off an increase in the already heavy surplus of dairy products.

The order is expected to bring an eight-cent drop in the price of butter on grocers' shelves.

The Agriculture Department's action, cutting dairy price supports to the legal minimum starting April 1, drew immediate protests from some milk producers and dairy state congressmen.

"It's a pity the Agriculture Department is so barren of ideas it can't come up with something better than this," said Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn).

He said the cut will cost dairy farmers 600 million dollars a year. At least, Humphrey commented, the Agriculture Department should have preserved the status quo until Congress acts on current price support legislation.

The National Milk Producers Federation announced it will ask Congress to limit the cut to nearly three cents a pound. This, it said, would be in line with President Eisenhower's farm message that downward price support adjustments would be gradual, limited to five per cent of parity a year.

A similar sentiment was expressed by Rep. August H. Andresen, second-ranking Republican on the House Agriculture Committee who represents the dairy state of Minnesota. Voicing surprise, Andresen said the cut "will affect the dairy farmers materially."

Sen. Thye (R-Minn) said he fears the Midwest will bear the brunt of the reduction and it will have a "drastic" effect on dairy income.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, supported Secretary of Agriculture Benson's action. He said in the long run he believes dairy farmers will gain as lower prices increase the demand for butter.

Debate on the issue was resumed in the Senate today, with a showdown vote expected to come about Thursday.

There was a preliminary vote on a non-controversial clause of the Bricker version which shed some light on how the Senate stands on the whole complicated question.

By a 62-20 vote, the Senate approved a proposal by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) to make one clause of the proposed Bricker amendment read:

"A provision of a treaty or other international agreement which conflicts with this Constitution shall not be of any force or effect."

French Navy Bathyscafe Dives 13,288 Feet In Atlantic

The French Navy bathyscafe, shown leaving Dakar on the west coast of Africa to make a test dive January 27, yesterday plunged 13,288 feet below the surface of the Atlantic at that port. Two French naval officers, one of them Lt. Comdr. Georges Houot (right), rode the diving bell down, descending farther than man has gone before. The dive passed the record set last Sept. 30 by Prof. Auguste Piccard and his son, Jacques, who reached 10,339 feet. (Story at bottom of page)

Jimmy Roosevelt Says Wife Raided His Office Files

PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 15 (AP)—Jimmy Roosevelt testified today his wife broke into his office files on a Sunday last August and documents have since been missing.

Earlier, as the Roosevelts resumed their temporary support battle, her attorney introduced a torn-up document referring to a $2,500 trust payable on demand to Irene Owens.

The attorney, Arthur Schifferman, told a reporter later that this is Gladys Irene Owens, one of three women named as co-respondents in the separate maintenance suit of Mrs. Romelle Roosevelt, who accuses her husband of misconduct with 12 women. Schifferman said he understands she formerly was employed by one of Roosevelt's insurance firms.

Ring Figures In Case

Another highlight today was reference to a 2.83-carat, $5,000 diamond ring which Jimmy told the court he bought for his wife last November, three months after they separated. But one of her attorneys told newsmen she never received it and it was not her size.

Roosevelt also denied, in answer to question by Schifferman, that he scuttled a multimillion dollar business deal out of jealousy toward his late partner.

The eldest son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was on the stand all day as a hearing on his wife's demand for $3,500 monthly support for herself and three children resumed after a 10-day recess. She asks the sum pending trial of the couple's separate maintenance suits.

Schifferman introduced the torn-up document—reassembled under clear plastic sheets—"for impeachment—to show self-contradictory statements."

"Safeguard," Roosevelt Says

The document, in longhand and signed by Atty. John K. Sloan of Los Angeles, said he was holding in trust $2,500 payable on demand to Irene Owens.

Roosevelt said he placed the $2,500 in trust with Sloan "to try and safeguard some of my possessions which I believed were being tampered with." He said the money was for his use and not someone elses. He added that Sloan has repaid him the entire amount.

He accused his wife of breaking into his office when asked by his attorney, Samuel B. Picone:

"Why did you take the $2,500 and deposit it with Mr. Sloan?"

Roosevelt said he had lost confidence that his wife would not withdraw the entire amount they had in a joint account in New York.

Two Baby Sisters Die In Abandoned Ice Box

MADERA, Calif., Feb. 15 (AP)—An abandoned ice box proved a death trap for two baby sisters today and nearly suffocated their 6-year-old brother as well.

Sheriff W. O. Justice said 3-year-old Billie Jewel Craig and 19-month-old Onvie Gail Craig were found dead and their brother, Terry, almost lifeless in an old ice box behind the family home southeast of here.

Justice quoted Terry as saying he and his two sisters crawled into the box and a third sister, 5-year-old Betty, slammed the door shut. The children were found by their mother, Mrs. John Craig, after a 30-minute search.

Ike Acts To Restore 'Lindy's' Commission

Promotion To Brigadier General Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP) — President Eisenhower proposed today that the reserve commission of Charles A. Lindberg be restored, and that the flier be promoted to brigadier general.

In New York, retired Gen. George Kenney, Lindberg's "boss" during a part of World War II in the Pacific, called the proposal "highly deserved, and a long time coming."

Lindbergh himself had nothing to say. The Air Force said he had not sought the appointment, but had been consulted about it and had agreed to accept it if tendered.

Lindbergh resigned his commission as a colonel in the Army Air Corps reserve in 1941 after becoming "greatly distrubed" at implications by President Franklin D. Roosevelt "concerning my loyalty to my country."

Speeches Irked Roosevelt

Roosevelt, aroused by Lindbergh's 1940-41 speaking campaign against U. S. involvement in a European war, had by inference classed the famed aviator with Civil War Copperheads (men who felt the North could not win).

At a news conference Roosevelt also had said there were appeasers at Valley Forge who urged George Washington to quit on the ground that he could not win against the British.

After the United States entered World War II, Lindbergh offered his services to the secretary of war, and joined aircraft companies as a consultant.

The late Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air Forces during World War II, told reporters Lindbergh provided a great amount of valuable information on German air strength, as the result of a tour he made of German installations before U.S. entry into the war.

Doubled P38's Range

Kenney, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's air chief in the Pacific theater throughout the war, told a reporter Lindbergh singlehandedly brought about the doubling of the range of the top fighter plane of World War II, the Lockheed P38.

Lindbergh taught the P38 pilots "cruise control" — how to 'hoard' precious fuel and dole it out carefully to their engines. Kenney said Lindbergh lived with P38 groups at bases at Port Moresby, Nadzab and Hollandia, in New Guinea, and on the nearby island of Biak.

Boy, 3, Who Never Tasted Food, Dies

OWOSSO, Mich., Feb. 15 (AP)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for three-year-old Rodney Dean Spencer, a boy who never tasted food.

Rodney, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Spencer of Owosso township, was born without an esophagus. A surgeon opened a small hole in his stomach and Rodney was fed through a tube all his life.

Rodney, who spent most of his life in hospitals, died Sunday of bronchial pneumonia.

Young Declares Odds Favor Him In Fight For NYC

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Robert R. Young said today the odds favor him three-to-one as he arrived from Florida to launch his proxy war for control of the mighty New York Central Railroad.

The scrappy, Texas-born financier dangled the hope of huge increases in dividends before the eyes of Central's 44,461 stockholders whose allegiance he seeks.

"New York Central stock," he said, "should be on a $7 to $10-a-year dividend basis and it would be if it had the right kind of management."

Young said the Pere Marquette and Nickel Plate roads which he previously controlled have been paying such dividends and are excellently run.

(Central paid $1 a share in 1953 on its common stock and has paid 50 cents thus far in 1954).

Comment from the Central on Young's remarks was not available immediately.

His first step, Young said, would be to run a newspaper advertisement tomorrow asking Central stockholders to submit their nominations "for anti-Morgan, pro-New York Central Board of Directors."

He reiterated claims that 90 per cent of the stockholders are for him, saying he would wage his fight against "a small clique of banking interests, the same group that brought on the 1929 crash."

Winter Heat Wave Sets More Records

[By The Associated Press]

A winter heat wave spread over the nation from the Mississippi River eastward to the Atlantic Coast Monday, breaking temperature records for February in several cities.

It was warmer in New York City and Chicago than it was in Phoenix, Ariz., and Los Angeles. The two northern cities reported 65 and 69, respectively, while Phoenix had 53 and Los Angeles 56.

At midday temperatures in the northeast quarter of the country were reported mostly in the 60s and 70s. South Bend, Ind., with 65 and Chicago reported all-time highs for February.

State And Local Regimes Emerge As Economy Prop

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—State and local governments, once impoverished but now rich, have suddenly emerged as a spending source which may about compensate for declining federal outlays and so serve as a major prop to the economy.

One of the big worries in Washington for years has been how to keep any significant cut in federal spending from throwing the economy into a nosedive.

No Reservoir Of Demand

The Korea buildup was a guns and butter affair. That is, consumers were able to buy about what they wanted most of the time. So there is not now, as after World War II, a huge reservoir of unsatisfied demand backed by enforced savings.

President Eisenhower's recently submitted budget estimated that federal spending in the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, would be approximately three billion dollars, or 4 per cent, less than the year before. And he forecast an additional drop of 5¼ billions, or 7½ per cent, in the coming fiscal year, which extends from next July 1 to June 30, 1955.

Darling Of Economists

A recent report from the Department of Commerce said rising state and local government spending is at present fully compensating for the decline in federal outlays. And, the President's economic report to Congress said, the further drop in federal spending "will probably be counteracted in large part by a rise in state and local purchases."

With those reports, state and local governments became a darling of government economists, who are now watching the financing, budgets, bank accounts and spending plans of states, counties and municipalities with a respectful attention they have seldom received here.

Teamster Boss Feels He Has Free Hand

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—AFL Teamsters Union President Dave Beck said today he feels he has a free hand in investing the union's 32 million dollar assets despite a union constitutional provision limiting bond holdings to $50,000 in any one company.

Beck, who says his million dollar "Loan" of union money to a Detroit trailer firm is "a damn sound investment," said he knew nothing of a formal protest made by an ousted West Coast union leader that Beck's financial operations violate the union's constitution.

Carrier Guns Sabotaged

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Sabotage incidents reported aboard British naval vessels during the last nine months reached 17 today when the Admiralty disclosed that antiaircraft guns aboard the 36,800-ton aircraft carrier Eagle had been damaged.

Molotov Tries To 'Sell' West In Word Battle

Soviet Minister Put On Defensive As He Attempts To Kill NATO

BERLIN, Feb. 15 (AP)—Russia's V. M. Molotov tonight offered "modifications" of the Soviet proposal for a European security system. But he clung to demands that the European army must be banned, Germany neutralized and American troops sent home.

Molotov fought a four-hour running word battle with the Western ministers at the Berlin Big Four conference in an effort to sell his plan as securing "Europe for the Europeans."

France's Georges Bidault and Britain's Anthony Eden charged the Soviet plan would outlaw the North Atlantic Alliance as a keystone of Western defense. They said they would never agree to this.

Molotov Evades Query

Molotov retorted "The collective security treaty is an alternative project against the EDC (European Defense Community). The EDC is aimed at a rebirth of German militarism."

"It has been said the collective security treaty is aimed against NATO. Let's study this question, let's find out where and how this treaty is directed against any other treaty."

Trying to pin Molotov down, Bidault asked "Isn't the treaty incompatible with NATO? What is your answer?"

Molotov snapped "I propose we adjourn."

Soviet Press Chief Leonid F. Ilychev confirmed later tonight that Molotov never answered Bidault's question. A French briefing officer had said earlier that Molotov replied "It is not against NATO."

Western officials viewed the Russian minister's tactics as aimed at dragging them into another blind alley debate for Red propaganda purposes.

Austria Discussion Slated

These officials made clear they want no further futile argument on Germany and European security—problems wherein Molotov has sought to clinch Soviet domination on the European continent.

The Big Four shift back tomorrow to discussion of the Austrian independence treaty with little hope it will be concluded here.

Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl, who came here to take part in discussion of the treaty, briefed his government by telephone today. He is expected to present his government's formal answer tomorrow to Molotov's proposal to keep Soviet troops in Austria as long as Germany is divided between East and West.

In a two-hour secret talk this morning, the Big Four failed for the fourth time to agree on how to approach peace negotiations in Asia.

Warren Protest Deadline Is Set

WASHINGTON Feb. 15 (AP)—A Senate Judiciary subcommittee today set a Wednesday night deadline for receiving protests from opponents of the appointment of Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Sen. Langer (R-ND), the subcommittee chairman, said the decision was reached at a closed door meeting of the subcommittee. He said "some California people" have sent word they plan to write or wire the subcommittee in opposition to Warren, now serving under a recess appointment by President Eisenhower.

Langer estimated the number of complaints against the former California governor at beyond the 100 mark. He had mentioned a total of 97 last weekend.

The Senate Judiciary Committee staff will analyze all the complaints, Langer said, "to see if there is any substance to any of them" in advance of the subcommittee's next meeting. He said no meeting date has been fixed, but that it will be "as soon as practicable" after Wednesday.

Eisenhower Will Fly To California Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP) — President Eisenhower today made plans for a five-day business-pleasure trip to Palm Springs, Calif., starting Wednesday. The visit had been widely rumored for several days.

The White House said Eisenhower will leave by plane with a group of staff members after his Wednesday afternoon news conference. He plans to return here next Monday.

Ex-POW Sells Gift House, Buys Car, Weds, Re-Enlists

FREDERICKTOWN, Mo., Feb. 15 (AP) — A community-wide campaign that enabled this town to give a new home to a repatriated prisoner of war from Korea four months ago has ended up on a sour note.

Ex-Sgt. Charles E. Clubb sold the house, bought a new car and got married. Then he re-enlisted in the Army.

"It surprised us all the way around," said Mayor William F. Carmack. "Worse yet, the young man only got $2,300 for the place for which our people paid $3,000 before adding an estimated $1,000 in repairs."

There was a parade Oct. 18 when the 26-year-old sergeant and his mother, who never previously had owned their own home, were presented the keys to the house. Nearly the entire town of 5,000 turned out.

"I hope I'll always deserve it," Clubb said in a speech of acceptance.

Clubb now is stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. His mother is living in a two-room apartment.

Among those who have expressed disappointment at the turn of events is Mrs. Loreta Cawood, who was a leader in the drive as head of the American War Mothers here.

"I think I can speak for a lot of people when I say we're keenly disappointed," Mrs. Cawood said. "But I'm glad we did it.

Two French Naval Officers Make Record Ocean Plunge

PARIS, Feb. 15 (AP)—Two French naval officers today dived farther beneath the ocean's surface than man has ever probed before. They plunged their 35-ton bathyscafe more than 2½ miles into the Atlantic off West Africa.

Lt. Cmdr. Georges Houot and engineer Pierre Henri Willm made their second spectacular world record plunge in six months — this time to a depth of 13,288 feet 160 miles off Dakar in the South Atlantic. They beat by 2,949 feet—more than half a mile—the previous record set by Swiss Prof. August Piccard and his son, Jacques, last September in the Tyrrhenian Sea division of the Mediterranean off Naples, Italy.

The Frenchmen spent six hours below the surface today.

Houot and Willm used one of Piccard's old bathyscafes, given to the French by the Belgian navy. It performs something like a free balloon, only in the opposite direction. It operates from a mother ship to which it is not attached, navigating freely when submerged by using small electric motors.

Metal weights held to the bathyscafe's hull by magnets take the strange vessel down. When its navigators are ready to return to the surface, they release the weights. Tons of gasoline in floats, lighter than water, then lift the bathyscafe back up.

Senate Sends Liquor Tax Bill To M'Keldin

Measure Identical To One Vetoed By Governor Is Approved 16 To 9

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — The Maryland Senate passed and sent to the governor tonight a bill to raise the state liquor tax 25 cents to $1.50 a gallon and cut the counties in for one-third of the take.

The vote was 16-9.

The measure is identical with one vetoed by Gov. McKeldin after passage late in the 1953 session of the Legislature.

This one, however, was approved early enough to give the House and Senate a chance in this session to override any veto. If the governor wants to turn thumbs down on it he must do so within six days. Supporters in both Houses claim enough support to put the tax into effect over his veto. They need 18 votes in the Senate and 74 in the House.

On the Senate vote tonight three members counted among supporters were absent—Sens. Dippel (D-Balto 3rd), Preston (Balto-5th) and Kimble (R-Allegany). Kimble's secretary reported he had entered Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland for a medical checkup and expected to leave in about two days.

Those voting for the bill included 14 Democrats and two Republicans, Sens. Fletcher of Prince Georges and Phoebus of Somerset counties. Their counties would make an estimated $136,000 and $10,000 a year under the one-third reversion plan.

Voting against were eight Republicans and Sen. Malkus (D-Dorchester).

Baltimore City and Baltimore County would lose the power to continue a special 50-cent tax now in effect there but this would be offset by the one-third kickback from the state. Also, opponents of the measure contend dropping the total tax there from the present $1.75 to $1.50 would stimulate additional sales in those two biggest whisky consuming subdivisions.

The House continued to hold the vetoed liquor bill of last year in abeyance until Feb. 24.

Instead, it held prolonged debate on bills which Del. Dempsey (D-Balto 3rd) said are designed to "narrow the wide gap of autos running on our highways without insurance."

The delegates pushed and pulled oratorically before they passed bills to require:

1. A motorist to maintain, after an accident, proof of financial responsibility forever, instead of 3 years as now.

2. A mandatory 30-day jail sentence for anyone convicted twice of driving on a revoked or suspended license.

3. Persons under 21 years old to have liability insurance in order to obtain a driver's license.

4. Persons to be 18 years old instead of 16 to obtain a chauffeur's license.

Bill Would Tax Beer, Soft Drinks

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — A potential increase of one cent in the price of a bottle or can of beer, ale and soft drinks is involved among new bills received tonight by the House of Delegates.

Del. King (R-Montgomery) proposed that half a cent tax at the wholesale level be imposed on bottles of beer and soft drinks. Figuring the tax would be passed along, the consumer might be asked to pay a penny more.

The tax would apply to containers on which less than two cents deposit is made. Last year, Del. King was among those who criticized so-called throwaways for being responsible for littering of the highways.

Money received from the bottle tax would be redistributed to the counties on the same basis as the gasoline tax, according to King's bill. The counties share in the gasoline taxes proportionately to the number of miles of state roads within their borders.

Boat Owners Await Fate Of Tax Measure

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—As a bill to scuttle the Maryland boat tax rode the uncertain waves of the legislature, boat-owners wondered today whether they'll be forced to pay up.

There's a measure before the General Assembly to exempt boat from the personal property tax.

The State Tax Commission, meanwhile, has provided county tax supervisors with a list of those receiving gas tax rebates. The tax paid on boat gasoline is returned to the boatman who claims it. Thus, a check could be made on whether he's paying the boat tax, too.

Benson Declares Rigid Farm Prop Loss Could Soar

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson has told Congress that losses under the government farm program "could be staggering" unless the present system of rigid price supports is abandoned.

"We cannot say what the government's eventual loss will be in connection with present inventories and loans" on government-supported commodities, he said.

But with the Commodity Credit Corporation already holding nearly seven billion dollars worth of stored farm produce, and carrying a loss reserve of three-fourths of a billion dollars, Benson said "ultimate losses might be large."

"They could be staggering unless we head in a different direction," he added.

Benson's views were set forth in a defense of the administration's flexible price support program during an embattled, closed-door appearance before the House Appropriations Committee last month. The record was made public today.

Benson said continued high government support of farm prices had only encouraged continued production of crops already in surplus, priced the farmer out of the market in such things as butter and dairy products, and lost export markets by holding prices so far above the world price that foreign buyers stopped buying.

Benson told the committee that it was "unquestionably true" that the prices of basic commodities—except rice—would be somewhat lower today were it not for the support program.

Keys Found To House Smashed By Tornado

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 15 (AP)—Oscar Haeussler of nearby Manchester finally has the keys to his farm home back. Now all he needs is the house itself.

Seven months ago a tornado smashed Haeussler's house and whirled the pieces into the sky. Some were found on the farm of C. E. Mulreed, 18 miles away.

Two weeks ago Mulreed broke open a bale of hay. There was a set of house keys inside. They turned out to be Haeussler's.

Explorers, Hunting Camp Site, Probe Virgin Caverns

CRYSTAL CAVE, Ky., Feb. 15 (AP)—A team of explorers, operating from a base three miles underground, probed virgin caverns today in a search for a new advance camp site for the Crystal Cave speleological expedition.

For seven hours they crawled and climbed through 1,600 feet of passageways but without luck. A new team, which had to rest after making the six-hour trip from the cave entrance, planned to take up the search tonight.

The first crew was unable to find a site sufficiently large, and with an adequate water supply, to accommodate the group which eventually will maintain advance camp No 2.

Joe Lawrence Jr., of Philadelphia, leader of the national speleological (cave study) expedition, emphasized that advance camp No. 2 should not be more than six hours travel, one way, from advance camp No. 1.

This would put the advance post 12 hours from base headquarters near the cave entrance. This would require a 24-hour round trip for crews with the tremendous job of supplying the explorers with food and equipment.

All these supplies must be dragged and pushed through narrow tunnels, with sharp jutting rocks, and carried up and down rock walls along the route.

A party of four men and two women, lugging 250 pounds of equipment from the cave entrance, was stopped by exhaustion last night. On the normal six hour route to camp No. 1, they departed at 9:30 p.m. and still had not appeared at camp No. 1 at 11 a. m. today. Three men were sent back from camp No. 1 to help them in.

Extension Of GI Tax Provision Approved

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee agreed today to extend indefinitely a provision relieving servicemen in combat zones from paying income taxes.

The exemption is due to expire Jan. 1, 1955. Under the new proposal, it would remain in effect so long as the draft is continued.

Authorities said the exemption would apply now to service in Korea, even though no actual fighting is going on there.

The law exempts from income taxes all the service income of enlisted men in combat zones, or men under hospitalization for injuries received in combat zones. It gives officers an exemption of up to $200 monthly.

In 1946, labor strikes hit an all-time high of 4,985 in the United States.

Plan Ends Tax-Filing Chore

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The time may come soon when about 35 million wage earners will be relieved of the chore of filing federal income tax returns—although they still will have to pay their taxes.

A House Appropriations subcommittee disclosed today that T. Coleman Andrews, commissioner of Internal Revenue, has reported considerable progress in a plan under which no tax returns would be required from persons whose entire income is subject to payroll withholding for tax purposes.

Andrews, in testimony given to the subcommittee behind closed doors two weeks ago and just made public, said he thinks the plan can be put into effect next year.

Employers would then file a single report, covering both income taxes and social security taxes. The government would compute the tax and send the taxpayer a bill or a refund.

Those who prefer to make out their own returns would still be permitted to do so, an Internal Revenue spokesman said.

Cadillac

Expect It to Be Copied!
The beautiful new 1954 Cadillac is now in our showroom—and this is an automobile that every American motorist should see . . . and inspect . . . and drive!
They should do this, first of all, because it will give them a better understanding of the things by which to judge the world's motor cars. And they should do this, too, because it will give them a revealing glimpse into the future of automotive design.
For it can be said, with the full support of historic precedent, that much of today's Cadillac will find its way into the cars of tomorrow.
Cadillac's sweeping new lines, its new proportions of glass and steel, and its many superlative new details of design will unquestionably have a profound influence on automotive stylists the world over.
The new roominess of Cadillac's interiors, the new beauty of its appointments, and the new richness of its fabrics and leathers will give the industry completely new standards of comfort and luxury.
And Cadillac's great new power and responsiveness, its wonderful new handling ease and its incredible smoothness of operation are certain to serve as engineering guideposts for years to come.
But imitation is one thing—duplication another. And no amount of imitation could ever produce Cadillac's happy combination of brilliant styling, extraordinary luxury and magnificent performance.
Nor could it bring to another motor car Cadillac's unprecedented acceptance among the world's motorists . . . the feeling of pride that comes to the man who sits behind its wheel . . . or its reputation as the Standard of the World.
These are Cadillac "exclusives"—hard won through decades of motor car leadership, and through undeviating adherence to the highest ideals of automotive production.
We repeat—you ought to come in and see the new 1954 Cadillac. For it is Cadillac's annual report to the nation on the progress of American motor car design—and the news has never been so exciting!
You'll be most welcome at any time.

Measure Identical To One Vetoed By Governor Is Approved 16 To 9

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — The Maryland Senate passed and sent to the governor tonight a bill to raise the state liquor tax 25 cents to $1.50 a gallon and cut the counties in for one-third of the take.

Bill Would Tax Beer, Soft Drinks

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — A potential increase of one cent in the price of a bottle or can of beer, ale and soft drinks is involved among new bills received tonight by the House of Delegates.

Del. King (R-Montgomery) proposed that half a cent tax at the wholesale level be imposed on bottles of beer and soft drinks. Figuring the tax would be passed along, the consumer might be asked to pay a penny more.

The tax would apply to containers on which less than two cents deposit is made. Last year, Del. King was among those who criticized so-called throwaways for being responsible for littering of the highways.

Money received from the bottle tax would be redistributed to the counties on the same basis as the gasoline tax, according to King's bill. The counties share in the gasoline taxes proportionately to the number of miles of state roads within their borders.

Boat Owners Await Fate Of Tax Measure

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—As a bill to scuttle the Maryland boat tax rode the uncertain waves of the legislature, boat-owners wondered today whether they'll be forced to pay up.

There's a measure before the General Assembly to exempt boat from the personal property tax.

The State Tax Commission, meanwhile, has provided county tax supervisors with a list of those receiving gas tax rebates. The tax paid on boat gasoline is returned to the boatman who claims it. Thus, a check could be made on whether he's paying the boat tax, too.

Benson Declares Rigid Farm Prop Loss Could Soar

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson has told Congress that losses under the government farm program "could be staggering" unless the present system of rigid price supports is abandoned.

"We cannot say what the government's eventual loss will be in connection with present inventories and loans" on government-supported commodities, he said.

But with the Commodity Credit Corporation already holding nearly seven billion dollars worth of stored farm produce, and carrying a loss reserve of three-fourths of a billion dollars, Benson said "ultimate losses might be large."

"They could be staggering unless we head in a different direction," he added.

Benson's views were set forth in a defense of the administration's flexible price support program during an embattled, closed-door appearance before the House Appropriations Committee last month. The record was made public today.

Benson said continued high government support of farm prices had only encouraged continued production of crops already in surplus, priced the farmer out of the market in such things as butter and dairy products, and lost export markets by holding prices so far above the world price that foreign buyers stopped buying.

Benson told the committee that it was "unquestionably true" that the prices of basic commodities—except rice—would be somewhat lower today were it not for the support program.

Keys Found To House Smashed By Tornado

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 15 (AP)—Oscar Haeussler of nearby Manchester finally has the keys to his farm home back. Now all he needs is the house itself.

Seven months ago a tornado smashed Haeussler's house and whirled the pieces into the sky. Some were found on the farm of C. E. Mulreed, 18 miles away.

Two weeks ago Mulreed broke open a bale of hay. There was a set of house keys inside. They turned out to be Haeussler's.

Explorers, Hunting Camp Site, Probe Virgin Caverns

CRYSTAL CAVE, Ky., Feb. 15 (AP)—A team of explorers, operating from a base three miles underground, probed virgin caverns today in a search for a new advance camp site for the Crystal Cave speleological expedition.

For seven hours they crawled and climbed through 1,600 feet of passageways but without luck. A new team, which had to rest after making the six-hour trip from the cave entrance, planned to take up the search tonight.

The first crew was unable to find a site sufficiently large, and with an adequate water supply, to accommodate the group which eventually will maintain advance camp No 2.

Joe Lawrence Jr., of Philadelphia, leader of the national speleological (cave study) expedition, emphasized that advance camp No. 2 should not be more than six hours travel, one way, from advance camp No. 1.

This would put the advance post 12 hours from base headquarters near the cave entrance. This would require a 24-hour round trip for crews with the tremendous job of supplying the explorers with food and equipment.

All these supplies must be dragged and pushed through narrow tunnels, with sharp jutting rocks, and carried up and down rock walls along the route.

A party of four men and two women, lugging 250 pounds of equipment from the cave entrance, was stopped by exhaustion last night. On the normal six hour route to camp No. 1, they departed at 9:30 p.m. and still had not appeared at camp No. 1 at 11 a. m. today. Three men were sent back from camp No. 1 to help them in.

Extension Of GI Tax Provision Approved

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee agreed today to extend indefinitely a provision relieving servicemen in combat zones from paying income taxes.

The exemption is due to expire Jan. 1, 1955. Under the new proposal, it would remain in effect so long as the draft is continued.

Authorities said the exemption would apply now to service in Korea, even though no actual fighting is going on there.

The law exempts from income taxes all the service income of enlisted men in combat zones, or men under hospitalization for injuries received in combat zones. It gives officers an exemption of up to $200 monthly.

In 1946, labor strikes hit an all-time high of 4,985 in the United States.

Plan Ends Tax-Filing Chore

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The time may come soon when about 35 million wage earners will be relieved of the chore of filing federal income tax returns—although they still will have to pay their taxes.

A House Appropriations subcommittee disclosed today that T. Coleman Andrews, commissioner of Internal Revenue, has reported considerable progress in a plan under which no tax returns would be required from persons whose entire income is subject to payroll withholding for tax purposes.

Andrews, in testimony given to the subcommittee behind closed doors two weeks ago and just made public, said he thinks the plan can be put into effect next year.

Employers would then file a single report, covering both income taxes and social security taxes. The government would compute the tax and send the taxpayer a bill or a refund.

Those who prefer to make out their own returns would still be permitted to do so, an Internal Revenue spokesman said.

Outdoor power tools are a 200 thousand dollar a year business.

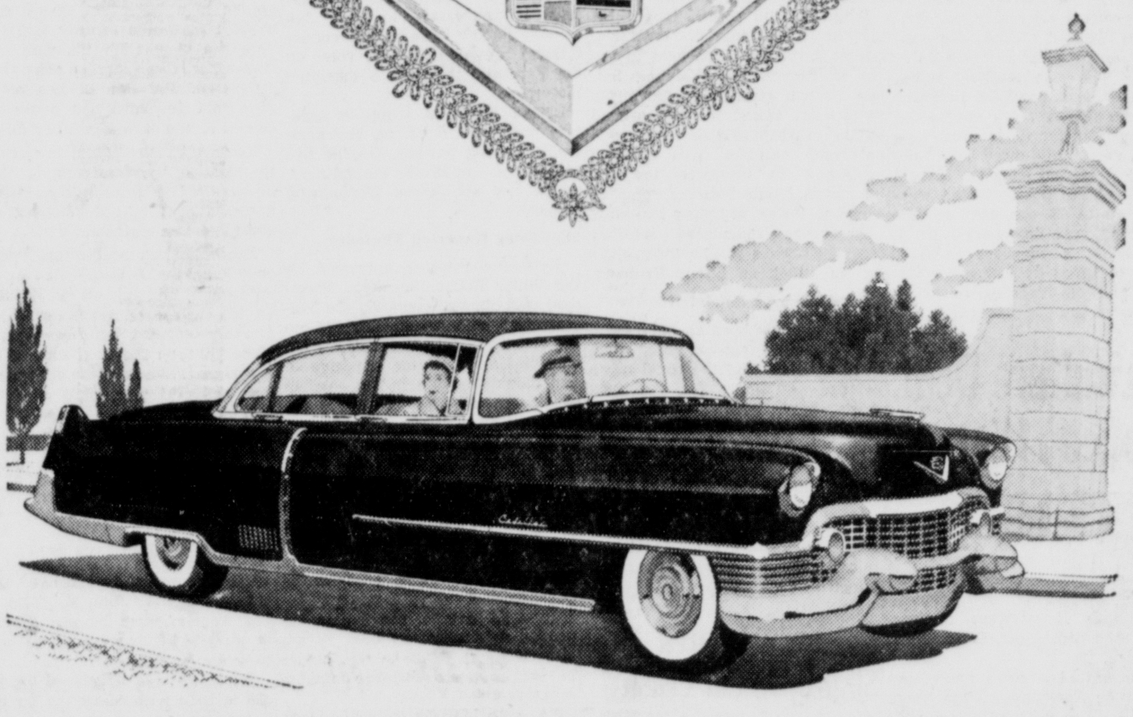
Cadillac



Expect It to Be Copied!

The beautiful new 1954 Cadillac is now in our showroom—and this is an automobile that every American motorist should see . . . and inspect . . . and drive!

They should do this, first of all, because it will give them a better understanding of the things by which to judge the world's motor cars. And they should do this, too, because it will give them a revealing glimpse into the future of automotive design.

For it can be said, with the full support of historic precedent, that much of today's Cadillac will find its way into the cars of tomorrow.

Cadillac's sweeping new lines, its new proportions of glass and steel, and its many superlative new details of design will unquestionably have a profound influence on automotive stylists the world over.

The new roominess of Cadillac's interiors, the new beauty of its appointments, and the new richness of its fabrics and leathers will give the industry completely new standards of comfort and luxury.

And Cadillac's great new power and responsiveness, its wonderful new handling ease and its incredible smoothness of operation are certain to serve as engineering guideposts for years to come.

But imitation is one thing—duplication another. And no amount of imitation could ever produce Cadillac's happy combination of brilliant styling, extraordinary luxury and magnificent performance.

Nor could it bring to another motor car Cadillac's unprecedented acceptance among the world's motorists . . . the feeling of pride that comes to the man who sits behind its wheel . . . or its reputation as the Standard of the World.

These are Cadillac "exclusives"—hard won through decades of motor car leadership, and through undeviating adherence to the highest ideals of automotive production.

We repeat—you ought to come in and see the new 1954 Cadillac. For it is Cadillac's annual report to the nation on the progress of American motor car design—and the news has never been so exciting!

You'll be most welcome at any time.

Iron Curtain Humor Grim And Sometimes Dangerous

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP) — Probably people have joked about their government ever since they set up their first one.

So it's a relief to know the same thing still goes on behind the Iron Curtain, even though the jesting may be grim and dangerous.

Anyone who escapes from a Communist controlled country is asked, among other things, what stories are going the rounds. And some of them, it turns out, aren't too bad.

For example:

A Soviet officer was explaining to a Czech peasant how Russia could deal with the United States.

"We could pack 20 atom bombs in 20 leather suitcases," he said, "and distribute them all over America."

The peasant looked doubtful. "What's the matter?" asked the officer. "Don't you believe we Russians have 20 atom bombs?"

"Oh, I wasn't thinking of that," the peasant said. "I was just wondering where you'd ever find 20 leather suitcases."

Or this:

A couple of friends in Eastern Europe are getting by through paying lip service to communism.

They meet, and one asks the other: "How goes it with you?"

"Like a radish," says t'other friend.

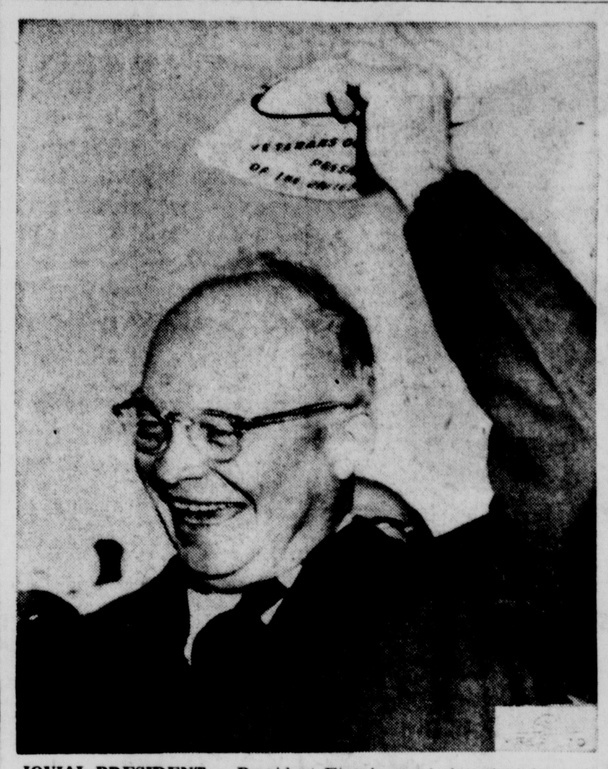
"What do you mean—like a radish?"

"Red outside, white in."

Brush Workers Strike

FREDERICK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Employes of the Ox Fibre Brush Co. went on strike here today, but police said there was little or no picketing.

Officers at the scene said few of the 400 some workers entered the plant, except supervisory help and foremen.



JOVIAL PRESIDENT — President Eisenhower is in a jovial mood as he dofts a Veterans of Foreign Wars cap during a picture-taking session on the White House grounds yesterday. The occasion was a visit to the executive mansion by a group of VFW department commanders, who gave the cap to the President.

Red 'Mata Haris' Work Night Spots

BERLIN, Feb. 15 (AP)—Those pleasant, English-speaking girls in Russian sector night clubs are actually Communist "Mata Haris" in search of information, West Berlin police warned visitors to the Big Four foreign ministers conference tonight.

The warning, issued by Chief of Police Johannes Stumm, was intended principally for hundreds of Western journalists who have made nightly excursions into the East sector.

Police said the band of female spies was recruited by the Soviet zone police weeks before the Big Four met, with just this idea in mind. They were chosen for swivel hips and jaunty airs first, but those with knowledge of English and French also got priority.

The spy band has been spread around the East Press Center, the Budapest and Warsaw restaurants, gay spots in the downtown East sector, and other night centers.

The girl spies are paid an average of 20 to 30 marks (East) a day, or rather a night, for their work. This is about what a medium-placed Red public official earns. Their reports are submitted each morning to the East German security police which in turn coordinates with elements of the Soviet MVD.

Sailors Terrify Apartment House

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—Residents of a Miami apartment house told a harrowing tale today of an attack by two U. S. Navy sailors.

Shortly before midnight, they told police, the sailors entered the apartment house, broke the heavy wooden bannisters off the stairway and used the pieces of wood as battering rams to try and break down the doors into the eight apartments.

Terrified residents stood behind their doors armed with butcher knives and rolling pins while the noise of the battering aroused sleepers all over the neighborhood.

Military and civilian police answering calls from the apartment house arrested Seaman Lavern C. Bickel. His companion escaped.

Police said Bickel could give no reason for the attack on the apartment house.

Mrs. Myrtle T. Bradford, state art director and owner of the apartments, told police "We were terrified." Mrs. Bradford lives alone on the second floor.

Harry J. Farmer, who lives with his wife across the hall from Mrs. Bradford, said he braced himself against his door while the sailors battered at it. He said he had "a rolling pin in one hand and a butcher knife in the other."

Mrs. H. M. Leach said the sailors broke her door off its hinges but she and her husband stood against the door and kept them out.

Italy's Reds To Carry Their Strike To Rome

ROME, Feb. 15 (AP)—Italy's Communist labor leaders will carry their strike war tomorrow to the doorstep of their sworn foe, Premier Mario Scelba, with twin hopes of unseating his shaky new government and boosting pay scales.

Carrying their "winter offensive" into Rome after a barrage of strikes in Northern Italy, members of the Red-dominated General Confederation of Labor will start a 24-hour general walkout at dawn.

A few hours later Christian Democrat Scelba will call his three-party center cabinet into its second meeting to complete its program for survival.

New Atomic Control

New and unexplored areas of the atomic control problem will be opened up if private diplomatic talks on the Eisenhower "Atoms for Peace" plan, now in their beginning stages, are broadened into full-scale negotiations among the governments principally involved. The first round talks between Secretary of State Dulles and Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov at Berlin have not revealed the future direction of Soviet policy, but there are indications that the new Kremlin leadership may be more adroit in its diplomatic handling of the Eisenhower plan than was the Stalin regime in refusing Russian participation in the Marshall plan in 1947.

Hints of a major change in Soviet atomic policy were first detected in Moscow's note of December 21 accepting the President's invitation to take part in "private and diplomatic talks" and advancing a Russian proposal for "unconditional pledges" not to use nuclear weapons in war. Unlike previous Soviet demands for prohibition of atomic weapons, the new proposal did not insist upon destruction of existing stocks of atom bombs, in which the United States is conceded to have numerical superiority. Instead, the Kremlin now proposed an agreement on the lines of the Geneva protocol of 1925. That protocol outlawed use of poison gases and bacteriological weapons in war, while permitting nations to retain such weapons for purposes of defense and retaliation.

In the light of other political-military developments some observers at the foreign ministers' conference in Berlin saw in the new "Geneva formula" a Russian attempt to shift the old debate on atomic control to new ground. For the first time, Russia seemed to be contending that a rough balance of atomic power had been reached in the world—not in terms of equal Soviet and American stockpiles but in terms of the power of retaliation. Under such conditions they could argue that a "cease-and-desist" agreement might hold certain advantages for both sides.

Other countries directly concerned have been taking a closer look at the kinds of questions that would emerge if wider negotiations should grow out of the preliminary talks on the Eisenhower plan and the Soviet counter proposal. These countries include Britain and Canada, partners of the United States in developing the first atomic bomb, France, and nations like Belgium and South Africa which control vital sources of fissionable material. At least three possible situations have been informally discussed, each of which would raise formidable questions.

First, there is the situation that would arise if the Soviet government attempts to reopen the whole political-military problem of weapons control and actively presses its new Geneva formula. In that case, the United States and the western powers would have to review their own past policies on such issues as the use of the veto power in the United Nations and the definition of aggression. For in the absence of any agreed definition, the Soviet proposal could hamper the freedom of nations to retaliate against overt aggression.

* Second, another situation would arise if the Soviet government should actually agree to join the International Atomic Energy proposed by General Eisenhower. In that event, acute security problems would confront the organizers of the atomic pool from the outset.

Third, if Russia should refuse to join in development of atomic energy for peace, the United States and its allies would be faced with the choice of dropping the project altogether, or going ahead alone. Even in the latter situation, many difficult questions would arise in the control and distribution of atomic materials.

The record of past dealings with the problems of atomic control contains much that is obsolete, but also some chapters which are still relevant to separate parts of the problem. Most of the early proposals for dealing with the A-bomb have been outmoded by the rapid advance of weapons development. At the same time, a substantial amount of work carried out by the United Nations in earlier years continues to have a direct bearing on peacetime uses of atomic energy on an international scale.

The Gibbs Award

In American chemical circles, the Gibbs Award is the highest honor that can be achieved. To win it, one must truly be a chemist's chemist. The American Chemical Society will award the Gibbs Award to Dr. Elmer K. Bolton, who retired in 1951 as chemical director of the DuPont Company, in May.

Dr. Bolton's career had its start at a time when the United States, for all its resources, was a have-not nation in certain scientific fields and processes. The story of its emergence into a self-sufficient nation in one commodity — synthetic dyestuffs — makes as fascinating reading as can be found on science fiction bookshelves.

Dr. Bolton's place in the scientific history of those scrambling days during and just after World War I is best pointed up by the accolade given him in the Gibbs Award citation. It calls him the "founder of the technology of the American dyestuffs industry."

By the time Dr. Bolton retired in 1951 his vision and management were reflected in the addition of literally hundreds of different products to the list of those manufactured by DuPont. The Gibbs Award provides the capstone to a career which is illustrious enough without it.

The Spirit Of June 17

Simultaneously with the "Molotov plan" for the solution of the German problem at the foreign ministers' conference, there was to have been a "spontaneous" demonstration of approval from East Germans. This is a thoroughly familiar tactic of the Russians and it would have been routine except for the temper of the East Germans.

The usual springboards for such demonstrations are meetings at the various East German industrial plants, where whole shifts can be herded into some convenient place. The demonstrations of such captive audiences are well organized in advance.

But in instance after instance, according to word which got through to Western authorities, the men who were explaining the Molotov plan were heckled and shouted down. While the incidents appear to have been minor, there is little doubt that Eastern German tempers are short and that the spirit of June 17, the period last summer when a serious rebellion had the Russians on the jump, is far from dead.

How To Keep Well

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Diseases Spread By Animals

There are 86 different diseases transmissible by animals to man. Some come from direct contact with the infected animal whereas others stem from contaminated or infected food, milk, or water. Insects or rodents also play a role in shuttling infection from animals to man. These conditions are known as zoonoses and veterinarians and health officers agree that the problem is best handled by eliminating infection at the source.

According to Dr. Oscar Sussman, 20 of the diseases are due to a virus. Of this group, rabies is best known; it affects all warm blooded animals and usually is passed to man through the bite of a rabid animal. Most of our pets get the virus from stray dogs who in turn have been bitten by rabid strays, wolves, foxes, or other small animals loitering on the fringe of town. For this reason, the war against rabies is now being aimed at the eradication of stray dogs and vaccination of all pets. This is easier and safer than giving the Pastuer treatment to every man, woman, and child who is nipped by a suspected animal.

Other viral diseases contracted from animals and birds are cowpox (milkmaid's hands) from cows; sleeping sickness from horses; lymphocytic choriomengitis (an influenza-like disease) from the common house mouse, and psittacosis from parrots, parkeets, pigeons, and chickens. Some of these organisms are picked up via direct contact; others, through the bite of a flea or tick that initially lived on an animal and then lit on a man. There also are a large number of rickettsial infections such as typhus, Rocky mountain spotted fever, rickettsialpox, and Q fever. The majority are new in the United States and the carrier is a tick that has sucked the blood of infected cattle, sheep, goats, dogs, or a wild animal.

There also are close to 20 bacterial maladies that affect man and animals. The list includes anthrax and glanders, a disease of horses. Brucellosis (undulant fever) is present in cattle, swine, goats, and sheep; the disease has become so prevalent in the United States it is of major concern to the medical profession. Plague spreads to man from rats via fleas and tularemia also has become well known, especially among those who hunt wild rabbits.

A number of dysenteries are traceable to bacterial diseases of animals. They are communicated to man by eating eggs, meat, or poultry that has not been cooked sufficiently. Innumerable fungal diseases come from birds, cattle, sheep, dogs, and rodents. The tongue twisting lung disorder coccidiodomycosis, is prevalent in the desert areas of the southwest. Other fungal infections include ringworm, thrush, favus, and actinomycosis. Worm diseases are common and include flukes, tapeworms and round worms; they affect pigs, dogs, cats, cattle horses, monkeys, and wild animals of all types. The best known is trichinosis which develops after eating improperly cooked infested pork. Animals also are respnosible for a group of toxic diseases such as tetanus, botulism, and tick paralysis.

TOMORROW: Duodenal digestion.

LEG CRAMP SUGGESTION

F. K. H. writes: Leg cramps in old people can be easily relieved by giving the affected leg a good stretch with the foot fully extended and then push the foot down with the heel and turn the toes up and down as far as possible.

REPLY

Thank you for the suggestion. Many persons who suffer from nocturnal leg cramps prefer to avoid the cramping entirely by taking a tablet containing quinine or quinidine before going to bed. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on leg cramps.

Speculator Turns Up As Secretary Benson's Consultant; Molotov Ignores Dulles Pleas; Air Force Opposed Sending Mechanics Into Indochina

WASHINGTON — Believe it or not, but Rollis "Speed" Nelson, who was caught speculating on the commodity market while working for the Senate Agriculture Committee, is now a $10,800-a-year consultant to Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

The secret records of the commodity market show that Nelson was speculating in soybeans in 1950 at exactly the same time he was surveying world market conditions for the Senate Agriculture Committee. This not only gave him access to inside tips, but put him in a position to influence the futures market which is sensitive as a hair trigger to the slightest maneuver of congressional committees.

What is even more shocking, however, is Nelson's close association with Ralph Moore, a shady speculator who was both indicted and suspended from trading on the commodity market after he delivered phony press releases to the Agriculture Department press room in an abortive attempt to influence lard prices.

Moore was a speculating partner of ex-Senator Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma Democrat, during Thomas' heyday on the commodity market. After Thomas was defeated for re-election largely because of his commodity deals, Moore lined up deals for Senator Joe McCarthy and Louie Kung, bank-roll man for the China lobby.

As for Secretary of Agriculture Benson's new consultant, this column can reveal that Nelson, while still a staff member for the Senate Agriculture Committee, lived in the same house with Ralph Moore. It is an interesting coincidence that Moore was also speculating heavily in soybeans in 1950, along with his China lobby friends. Nelson's soybean speculations were at the same time, though no connection can be proved between their soybean accounts. What can be proved however, is that Moore opened an account in cottonseed oil for Nelson shortly after he left the Agriculture Committee.

It was ex-Secretary of Agriculture Charlie Brannan who first sounded the alarm about Nelson. Though the commodity market records are strictly secret, Brannan was so alarmed at finding a speculator on the Senate's Agriculture Committee staff where he could influence market prices, that he tipped off Nelson's sponsor, conscientious Senator Milt Young, North Dakota republican. As a result, Young quietly dropped Nelson.

Afterward, Nelson went into business for himself as a commodity dealer, renting office space from his pal, Ralph Moore.

When questioned by this column, Nelson admitted his speculating past and stated: "I am not in the market now. I sold out the day I came over to the Agriculture Department."

Indochina Worries

The crucial battle to save Indochina is being waged on two diplomatic fronts in addition to the jungles of Laos.

Front No. 1 is Berlin where John Foster Dulles has had two talks with Foreign Minister Molotov in an effort to get him to call off the Indochina rebels. All Dulles has got so far is a Slavic shoulder shrug. And undoubtedly that's all he will get, for the Kremlin is encouraging the Indochina War at this particular time as pressure on the discouraged French to stay out of the United European Army. If the French stay out, they can get peace in Indochina — though how long that peace will last is problematical.

In Berlin also, French Foreign Minister Bidault has given Dulles a blunt warning that the French Chamber of Deputies is almost sure to vote an end of the war within the next three months. Dulles has relayed this warning to the White House, in fact cabled Eisenhower a half-dozen times last week urging that every aid possible be rush to Indochina.

Front No. 2 is in Washington where there's a division of opinion regarding American aid to the French.

Air Force Opposes

Most vigorous supporter of aid to France is dynamic Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who has leaned toward sending American troops; also wants to blockade the China Coast; is also the man who put through the sending of American mechanics to repair American planes.

General Nathan Twining, chief of staff for the Air Force, was opposed to sending these mechanics, but was overruled by Radford and Eisenhower.

The group inside the Pentagon which supports Radford has worked out a plan to send four divisions of U. S. troops to Indochina, along with American artillery, tanks and jet fighters.

But the opposite faction points out that the minute American fighting men show up in the Indochinese jungles, Chinese Communists are certain to intervene—as they did in Korea, and all-out war would explode.

Meanwhile, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have urgently warned the President that Indochina must be saved from the Communists or all of Southeast Asia, including rice, rubber, tin, will eventually fall under the Kremlin's wing. The President has ordered an emergency revaluation study chiefly to see whether the gloomy warning should be as gloomy as indicated. Actually the present atmosphere is one of frustration.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Bipartisan Government

Our system of government differs from that of most European countries in that it is based on a strictly two-party system — one in power, one in opposition.

In such a country as France, there are numerous small parties. When it is necessary to "form a government," a phrase not usable in this country where the President is elected, the prospective Premier negotiates among the various parties, allocating seats in his Cabinet, and when he is assured of enough votes in the National Assembly to produce a majority, he takes office. In the Communist countries, only one party exists and the government represents that party.

Efforts to produce a bipartisan government in the United States have failed in time of war as well as peace. The closest to it was the bipartisan coalition during the Truman administration led by Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Harry F. Byrd. This, however, never produced a union of parties; actually it represented a split in each party.

Prior to General Eisenhower's nomination, there was something of an idea that he might be nominated by both parties. Nothing came of that because it is unnatural in our political system. Instead, the Democratic party came under the control of the ADA group. The quarrels in the Democratic convention and during the election campaign disappeared in the present session of Congress. The Democrats are not split between a pro-Eisenhower and anti-Eisenhower clique. The Democratic party is united in its intent upon winning the 1954 congressional election.

The Republicans are split between those supporters of the President who feel, as he apparently does, that there is still a prospect of a bipartisan coalition in support of the President's legislative program and those who believe that if they hit hard, they may win enough seats in the 1954 campaign to have a working majority in the Congress.

The Lincoln birthday week has developed into a campaigning operation among Republicans to win elections. The celebrations are now scattered over a week or so and the Republican National Committee provides distinguished speakers. This year, for instance, the largest number of requests were for the presence of Senator McCarthy.

At these meetings, held in every part of the country, the audience has no desire to listen to stuffed-shirt speeches. They want inspirational speeches to stir their souls and to give them the opportunity to cheer and shout. It is a wonderful occasion for Republican party members, just as the Jackson Day dinners do the same for the Democrats. The speakers of both parties attack the other party. Why Sam Rayburn and Stuart Symington should suddenly become sensitive about this kind of speech-making is a little surprising, because they have done plenty of it themselves in the course of their careers.

The issue raised is that some Republicans called all Democrats traitors, which, of courses, never happened. It must be assumed that what really got under their skins is that Sherman Adams, the President's chief-of-staff, used the phrase, "Fear Deal." Politically, it is a devastsating phrase. It could win an election. Nobody has done better with words since Franklin D. Roosevelt died and Sam Rosenman and Robert Sherwood ceased to coin telling, fighting, annihilating phrases.

It is impossible to believe, however, that Sherman Adams did not consult his associates about this phrase, "Fear Deal." Speeches such as he delivered are generally gone over by the White House entourage, particularly the speechwriters. It is too good a phrase for Adams to have kept to himself.

Furthermore, nobody has been fired for coining the phrase, "Fear Deal," and Adams is still in the White House after he gave it to the public. The Democrats did not apologize for their phrase, "Princes of Plenty," or for their defamation of the character of President Hoover.

It seems to me that our statesmen do not laugh enough. Stuart Symington, who will probably run for president against President Eisenhower, is a gay person, delightful to the eye and ear. It would be just too bad if the people ever came to believe that as Symington advances in influence and power, he grows stuffy. Even if the times are tough, this country would be better off if we were more gay and if serious-minded men took themselves less seriously. If the Democrats are not careful, they will get Harry Truman again because, at any rate, he can laugh.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

New Fact Of Life

WASHINGTON

The Russian air industry is now producing two new heavy bomber types capable of round trip strikes at American targets, carrying atomic or hydrogen bombs. These are the Tupolev 200 and the Ilyushin 38.

This highly significant fact of international life has been suspected for some time. The probability that one of these new bombers had passed the prototype stage was reported in this space last summer. Now it is confirmed, however, that both bombers are in active production, and are already being flown by regular formations of the Soviet strategic air army.

The news is a depressing commentary on Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson's contention that Soviet military preparations are 'not offensive" in character. It proves that the Soviets are pressing the development of offensive weapons with great energy. The secretary was talking through his hat.

The existence of these new bombers radically changes the whole air-atomic balance. Until now the TU-4, an improved version of the B-29 crudely comparable to our B-50, has been the workhorse of the Soviet strategic air army. The TU-4 is entirely capable of striking any American target, but it cannot do the round trip from Soviet air bases to American targets and back again.

Have American Parallels

Thus the strategic air army is essentially a one shot air force, so long as it must mainly depend upon the TU-4. Expert opinion is unanimous that the Soviet air crews are trained to fly one-way missions, and that the Soviet high command will order one way missions, if need be. Nonetheless, it was and is a severe handicap to have a one shot air force. The importance of the new bomber types is that they will give the Soviet air planners the power to strike and strike again.

Both the new Soviet bombers have their American parallels. The Tupolev-200 is the size of our giant B-36, with a wing span above 230 feet and a length of 200 feet overall. Its enormous size indicates great range. It is powered by six turbo-prop engines. The quality of these engines, plus certain features of the airframe design, give positive evidence of superior speed.

It is thought to fly at more than 450 miles an hour and above 50,000 feet. These are substantially better performance characteristics than the best the B-36 can boast. Because the engines are turboprops. The new Russian intercontinental giants can also attack efficiently at very low altitude, "on the deck," where existing radar detection systems are seriously deficient.

The Ilyushin-38 is a somewhat smaller and more compact aircraft with sharply swept back wings and a speed estimated at close to 500 miles per hour. Four turbo-prop engines provide its present power plant. But its aerodynamic characteristics suggest that it has been designed to permit substitution of jet engines for turbo-props when the time comes.

Even now, this bomber has many of the qualities of the American B-52, which is not yet in active production. When and if the jet-turbo-prop substitution is made, the comparison will be exact.

In Squadron Formations

To conclude this collection of disturbing data, both the Tupolev-200 and the Ilyushin-38 are equipped with radar bomb-sights. The Pentagon's merchants of complacency used to claim the Russians would never make radar bomb-sights.

When first reported, the Ilyushin-38 was known as "Type 31" while the Tupolev-200 was commonly called the TUG-75. (Besides the brilliant Tupolev, who built the TU-4, another famous Russian air designer, Gurevich, collaborated in the development of the Tupolev 200). The early reports of both bombers were rejected as inherently incredible by the same merchants of complacency who swore the Russians would never learn to bomb by night and in bad weather.

Now, however, the existence of both these bombers is somewhat glumly accepted even by the Pentagon's civilian overlords, who have learned some hard lessons in recent months. The new Soviet bombers are already in squadron formations.

No operating unit of the American Strategic Air Command will get new bombers of comparable range, speed and weight for many more months. The hope of SAC for the present is the B-47, a superb aircraft but a medium range bomber. And the number of operating squadrons which have exchanged their B-50s for B-47s is still very small.

In short the Soviets may soon be able to claim parity with the United States, in point of equipment at least, in the great military specialty which has always been supposed to justify our neglect of other forms of armed strength. In these circumstances, it is plain dishonest for the Pentagon to go on smugly boasting about American air-atomic striking power, without at least uttering a warning word or two now and then about Soviet air-atomic striking power.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Many people are writing in to ask what the Bricker Amendment controversy is all about. It seems they can't find out from a reading of the conflicting views and comments contained in the press dispatches because the whole thing appears to them to be a legalistic controversy and they want to know what's back of it all.

Certainly it is confusing to find, for instance, so eminent an organization as the American Bar Association after several years of study advocating a change in the Constitution and yet to hear from individual lawyers of prominence that somebody has started a conspiracy to hamper President Eisenhower in his conduct of foreign policy.

It is, of course, a controversy over the meaning of treaties and whether by merely signing an agreement with a foreign government a president can commit the citizens of the United States to a course of action that normally would require both houses of Congress to bring about only by the passage of a law.

No Partisan Affair

But back of the Bricker Amendment controversy is something deeper. Senator George of Georgia, a Democrat, who has held the important posts of chairman of the Senate Relations Committee and chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and who is widely regarded as an able constitutional lawyer stated the issue in its simplest form to the United States Senate the other day. He said that he did not want "any president to make an agreement with Turkey that will preclude me from killing a cat in my back alley at night." Then he shouted:

"Neither do I want him to negotiate an agreement with India that will preclude me from butchering a cow in my own barnyard."

These are blunt words but they certainly should dispose of the smear argument spread throughout this country and repeated by so respectable a newspaper as the London Times that the controversy over the Bricker Amendment is just a piece of Republican isolationism and that it is merely a fight between Mr. Eisenhower and some "reactionary" elements in the Republican party.

It takes a two-thirds majority to get a constitutional amendment adopted by the Senate and anybody who reports the news from the national capital objectively would know that the 64 senators who showed their intention several months ago to support a change along the lines of the Bricker Amendment or a substitute wouldn't be doing so if it was just a partisan Republican affair.

Nor is it accurate to spread the fiction that this is just a fight between President Eisenhower and his party or that it somehow concerns only Mr. Eisenhower's conduct of foreign policy. For the truth is the abuse of the treaty power has been going on for many years and if not remedied will go on long after Mr. Eisenhower ceases to be president. Perhaps the clearest explanation of why the Bricker Amendment has gotten so much momentum at the "grass roots" in both parties in the last four years was given to the Senate recently by Senator Bricker himself. He said:

"Most of the opponents of this resolution seek to elevate treaty law above domestic constitutional law. They seek to codify all fundamental human rights — civil, political, economic, social, and cultural — in a law superior to that of sovereign nations. . .

"Most of the opposition to this treaty-control amendment comes from those who yearn for the domination of a supra-national government. Some of them would surrender national sovereignty immediately; others would destroy it gradually by means of United Nations treaties and by less formal agreements. Some would organize a supra-state on a global scale while others would first establish a regional government."

Want To Close Loophole

The cry against a "world government" to be established through an all-powerful international body in which the United States can be outvoted and its Constitution sabotaged has been raised throughout the country by various local organizations. The opponents disavow any such purpose and vigorously denounce any such objective. But the fact is that the Supreme Court has ruled in one case that treaties can upset domestic law and the effort now is to close that loophole.

There are some who call themselves "liberals" who say the Constitution is good enough as it is and shouldn't be changed. But it's been changed 23 times against the advice of the so-called "reactionaries" who always want to let things alone.

It is significant that Senator George of Georgia has come forward with a substitute for the Bricker Amendment, and it doesn't differ too much from the Bricker proposal. If the Georgia senator in his amendment specified that treaties as well as executive agreements were not to be given the status of internal law unless sanctioned by action of Congress, the Ohio Republican and the Georgia Democrat would be rather close together.

The basic object is to prevent a future president from agreeing to some action by one of the numerous subsidiary bodies of the United Nations which would take away constitutional rights. The average person looking on wonders what harm can come from saying in the Constitution it self that this cannot be done.

New Atomic Control

New and unexplored areas of the atomic control problem will be opened up if private diplomatic talks on the Eisenhower "Atoms for Peace" plan, now in their beginning stages, are broadened into full-scale negotiations among the governments principally involved. The first round talks between Secretary of State Dulles and Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov at Berlin have not revealed the future direction of Soviet policy, but there are indications that the new Kremlin leadership may be more adroit in its diplomatic handling of the Eisenhower plan than was the Stalin regime in refusing Russian participation in the Marshall plan in 1947.

Hints of a major change in Soviet atomic policy were first detected in Moscow's note of December 21 accepting the President's invitation to take part in "private and diplomatic talks" and advancing a Russian proposal for "unconditional pledges" not to use nuclear weapons in war. Unlike previous Soviet demands for prohibition of atomic weapons, the new proposal did not insist upon destruction of existing stocks of atom bombs, in which the United States is conceded to have numerical superiority. Instead, the Kremlin now proposed an agreement on the lines of the Geneva protocol of 1925. That protocol outlawed use of poison gases and bacteriological weapons in war, while permitting nations to retain such weapons for purposes of defense and retaliation.

In the light of other political-military developments some observers at the foreign ministers' conference in Berlin saw in the new "Geneva formula" a Russian attempt to shift the old debate on atomic control to new ground. For the first time, Russia seemed to be contending that a rough balance of atomic power had been reached in the world—not in terms of equal Soviet and American stockpiles but in terms of the power of retaliation. Under such conditions they could argue that a "cease-and-desist" agreement might hold certain advantages for both sides.

Other countries directly concerned have been taking a closer look at the kinds of questions that would emerge if wider negotiations should grow out of the preliminary talks on the Eisenhower plan and the Soviet counter proposal. These countries include Britain and Canada, partners of the United States in developing the first atomic bomb, France, and nations like Belgium and South Africa which control vital sources of fissionable material. At least three possible situations have been informally discussed, each of which would raise formidable questions.

First, there is the situation that would arise if the Soviet government attempts to reopen the whole political-military problem of weapons control and actively presses its new Geneva formula. In that case, the United States and the western powers would have to review their own past policies on such issues as the use of the veto power in the United Nations and the definition of aggression. For in the absence of any agreed definition, the Soviet proposal could hamper the freedom of nations to retaliate against overt aggression.

Second, another situation would arise if the Soviet government should actually agree to join the International Atomic Energy proposed by General Eisenhower. In that event, acute security problems would confront the organizers of the atomic pool from the outset.

Third, if Russia should refuse to join in development of atomic energy for peace, the United States and its allies would be faced with the choice of dropping the project altogether, or going ahead alone. Even in the latter situation, many difficult questions would arise in the control and distribution of atomic materials.

The record of past dealings with the problems of atomic control contains much that is obsolete, but also some chapters which are still relevant to separate parts of the problem. Most of the early proposals for dealing with the A-bomb have been outmoded by the rapid advance of weapons development. At the same time, a substantial amount of work carried out by the United Nations in earlier years continues to have a direct bearing on peacetime uses of atomic energy on an international scale.

Most of our pets get the virus from stray dogs who in turn have been bitten by rabid strays, wolves, foxes, or other small animals loitering on the fringe of town. For this reason, the war against rabies is now being aimed at the eradication of stray dogs and vaccination of all pets. This is easier and safer than giving the Pastuer treatment to every man, woman, and child who is nipped by a suspected animal.

Other viral diseases contracted from animals and birds are cowpox (milkmaid's hands) from cows; sleeping sickness from horses; lymphocytic choriomengitis (an influenza-like disease) from the common house mouse, and psittacosis from parrots, parkeets, pigeons, and chickens. Some of these organisms are picked up via direct contact; others, through the bite of a flea or tick that initially lived on an animal and then lit on a man. There also are a large number of rickettsial infections such as typhus, Rocky mountain spotted fever, rickettsialpox, and Q fever. The majority are new in the United States and the carrier is a tick that has sucked the blood of infected cattle, sheep, goats, dogs, or a wild animal.

There also are close to 20 bacterial maladies that affect man and animals. The list includes anthrax and glanders, a disease of horses. Brucellosis (undulant fever) is present in cattle, swine, goats, and sheep; the disease has become so prevalent in the United States it is of major concern to the medical profession. Plague spreads to man from rats via fleas and tularemia also has become well known, especially among those who hunt wild rabbits.

A number of dysenteries are traceable to bacterial diseases of animals. They are communicated to man by eating eggs, meat, or poultry that has not been cooked sufficiently. Innumerable fungal diseases come from birds, cattle, sheep, dogs, and rodents. The tongue twisting lung disorder coccidiodomycosis, is prevalent in the desert areas of the southwest. Other fungal infections include ringworm, thrush, favus, and actinomycosis. Worm diseases are common and include flukes, tapeworms and round worms; they affect pigs, dogs, cats, cattle horses, monkeys, and wild animals of all types. The best known is trichinosis which develops after eating improperly cooked infested pork. Animals also are respnosible for a group of toxic diseases such as tetanus, botulism, and tick paralysis.

TOMORROW: Duodenal digestion.

LEG CRAMP SUGGESTION

F. K. H. writes: Leg cramps in old people can be easily relieved by giving the affected leg a good stretch with the foot fully extended and then push the foot down with the heel and turn the toes up and down as far as possible.

REPLY

Thank you for the suggestion. Many persons who suffer from nocturnal leg cramps prefer to avoid the cramping entirely by taking a tablet containing quinine or quinidine before going to bed. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on leg cramps.

There are many theories on how shock therapy works but, to my knowledge, the exact mechanism is not known. The method is most valuable in severe depressions and less so in the paranoidal personality.

Speculator Turns Up As Secretary Benson's Consultant; Molotov Ignores Dulles Pleas; Air Force Opposed Sending Mechanics Into Indochina

WASHINGTON — Believe it or not, but Rollis "Speed" Nelson, who was caught speculating on the commodity market while working for the Senate Agriculture Committee, is now a $10,800-a-year consultant to Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

The secret records of the commodity market show that Nelson was speculating in soybeans in 1950 at exactly the same time he was surveying world market conditions for the Senate Agriculture Committee. This not only gave him access to inside tips, but put him in a position to influence the futures market which is sensitive as a hair trigger to the slightest maneuver of congressional committees.

What is even more shocking, however, is Nelson's close association with Ralph Moore, a shady speculator who was both indicted and suspended from trading on the commodity market after he delivered phony press releases to the Agriculture Department press room in an abortive attempt to influence lard prices.

Moore was a speculating partner of ex-Senator Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma Democrat, during Thomas' heyday on the commodity market. After Thomas was defeated for re-election largely because of his commodity deals, Moore lined up deals for Senator Joe McCarthy and Louie Kung, bank-roll man for the China lobby.

As for Secretary of Agriculture Benson's new consultant, this column can reveal that Nelson, while still a staff member for the Senate Agriculture Committee, lived in the same house with Ralph Moore. It is an interesting coincidence that Moore was also speculating heavily in soybeans in 1950, along with his China lobby friends. Nelson's soybean speculations were at the same time, though no connection can be proved between their soybean accounts. Wh can be proved however, is that Moore opened an account in cottonseed oil for Nelson shortly after he left the Agriculture Committee.

It was ex-Secretary of Agriculture Charlie Brannan who first sounded the alarm about Nelson. Though the commodity market records are strictly secret, Brannan was so alarmed at finding a speculator on the Senate's Agriculture Committee staff where he could influence market prices, that he tipped off Nelson's sponsor, conscientious Senator Milt Young, North Dakota Republican. As a result, Young quietly dropped Nelson.

Afterward, Nelson went into business for himself as a commodity dealer, renting office space from his pal, Ralph Moore.

When questioned by this column, Nelson admitted his speculating past and stated: "I am not in the market now. I sold out the day I came over to the Agriculture Department."

Indochina Worries

The crucial battle to save Indochina is being waged on two diplomatic fronts in addition to the jungles of Laos.

Front No. 1 is Berlin where John Foster Dulles has had two talks with Foreign Minister Molotov in an effort to get him to call off the Indochina rebels. All Dulles has got so far is a Slavic shoulder shrug. And undoubtedly that's all he will get, for the Kremlin is encouraging the Indochina War at this particular time as pressure on the discouraged French to stay out of the United European Army. If the French stay out, they can get peace in Indochina — though how long that peace will last is problematical.

In Berlin also, French Foreign Minister Bidault has given Dulles a blunt warning that the French Chamber of Deputies is almost sure to vote an end of the war within the next three months. Dulles has relayed this warning to the White House, in fact cabled Eisenhower a half-dozen times last week urging that every aid possible be rush to Indochina.

Front No. 2 is in Washington where there's a division of opinion regarding American aid to the French.

Air Force Opposes

Most vigorous supporter of aid to France is dynamic Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who has leaned toward sending American troops; also wants to blockade the China Coast; is also the man who put through the sending of American mechanics to repair American planes.

General Nathan Twining, chief of staff for the Air Force, was opposed to sending these mechanics, but was overruled by Radford and Eisenhower.

The group inside the Pentagon which supports Radford has worked out a plan to send four divisions of U. S. troops to Indochina, along with American artillery, tanks and jet fighters.

But the opposite faction points out that the minute American fighting men show up in the Indochinese jungles, Chinese Communists are certain to intervene—as they did in Korea, and all-out war would explode.

Meanwhile, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have urgently warned the President that Indochina must be saved from the Communists or all of Southeast Asia, including rice, rubber, tin, will eventually fall under the Kremlin's wing. The President has ordered an emergency revaluation study chiefly to see whether the gloomy warning should be as gloomy as indicated. Actually the present atmosphere is one of frustration.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Bipartisan Government

Our system of government differs from that of most European countries in that it is based on a strictly two-party system — one in power, one in opposition.

In such a country as France, there are numerous small parties. When it is necessary to "form a government," a phrase not usable in this country where the President is elected, the prospective Premier negotiates among the various parties, allocating seats in his Cabinet, and when he is assured of enough votes in the National Assembly to produce a majority, he takes office. In the Communist countries, only one party exists and the government represents that party.

Efforts to produce a bipartisan government in the United States have failed in time of war as well as peace. The closest to it was the bipartisan coalition during the Truman administration led by Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Harry F. Byrd. This, however, never produced a union of parties; actually it represented a split in each party.

Prior to General Eisenhower's nomination, there was something of an idea that he might be nominated by both parties. Nothing came of that because it is unnatural in our political system. Instead, the Democratic party came under the control of the ADA group. The quarrels in the Democratic convention and during the election campaign disappeared in the present session of Congress. The Democrats are not split between a pro-Eisenhower and anti-Eisenhower clique. The Democratic party is united in its intent upon winning the 1954 congressional election.

The Republicans are split between those supporters of the President who feel, as he apparently does, that there is still a prospect of a bipartisan coalition in support of the President's legislative program and those who believe that if they hit hard, they may win enough seats in the 1954 campaign to have a working majority in the Congress.

The Lincoln birthday week has developed into a campaigning operation among Republicans to win elections. The celebrations are now scattered over a week or so and the Republican National Committee provides distinguished speakers. This year, for instance, the largest number of requests were for the presence of Senator McCarthy.

At these meetings, held in every part of the country, the audience has no desire to listen to stuffed-shirt speeches. They want inspirational speeches to stir their souls and to give them the opportunity to cheer and shout. It is a wonderful occasion for Republican party members, just as the Jackson Day dinners do the same for the Democrats. The speakers of both parties attack the other party. Why Sam Rayburn and Stuart Symington should suddenly become sensitive about this kind of speech-making is a little surprising, because they have done plenty of it themselves in the course of their careers.

The issue raised is that some Republicans called all Democrats traitors, which, of courses, never happened. It must be assumed that what really got under their skins is that Sherman Adams, the President's chief-of-staff, used the phrase, "Fear Deal." Politically, it is a devastsating phrase. It could win an election. Nobody has done better with words since Franklin D. Roosevelt died and Sam Rosenman and Robert Sherwood ceased to coin telling, fighting, annihilating phrases.

It is impossible to believe, however, that Sherman Adams did not consult his associates about this phrase, "Fear Deal." Speeches such as he delivered are generally gone over by the White House entourage, particularly the speechwriters. It is too good a phrase for Adams to have kept to himself.

Furthermore, nobody has been fired for coining the phrase, "Fear Deal," and Adams is still in the White House after he gave it to the public. The Democrats did not apologize for their phrase, "Princes of Plenty," or for their defamation of the character of President Hoover.

It seems to me that our statesmen do not laugh enough. Stuart Symington, who will probably run for president against President Eisenhower, is a gay person, delightful to the eye and ear. It would be just too bad if the people ever came to believe that as Symington advances in influence and power, he grows stuffy. Even if the times are tough, this country would be better off if we were more gay and if serious-minded men took themselves less seriously. If the Democrats are not careful, they will get Harry Truman again because, at any rate, he can laugh.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

New Fact Of Life

WASHINGTON

The Russian air industry is now producing two new heavy bomber types capable of round trip strikes at American targets, carrying atomic or hydrogen bombs. These are the Tupolev 200 and the Ilyushin 38.

This highly significant fact of international life has been suspected for some time. The probability that one of these new bombers had passed the prototype stage was reported in this space last summer. Now it is confirmed, however, that both bombers are in active production, and are already being flown by regular formations of the Soviet strategic air army.

The news is a depressing commentary on Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson's contention that Soviet military preparations are 'not offensive" in character. It proves that the Soviets are pressing the development of offensive weapons with great energy. The secretary was talking through his hat.

The existence of these new bombers radically changes the whole air-atomic balance. Until now the TU-4, an improved version of the B-29 crudely comparable to our B-50, has been the workhorse of the Soviet strategic air army. The TU-4 is entirely capable of striking any American target, but it cannot do the round trip from Soviet air bases to American targets and back again.

Have American Parallels

Thus the strategic air army is essentially a one shot air force, so long as it must mainly depend upon the TU-4. Expert opinion is unanimous that the Soviet air crews are trained to fly one-way missions, and that the Soviet high command will order one way missions, if need be. Nonetheless, it was and is a severe handicap to have a one shot air force. The importance of the new bomber types is that they will give the Soviet air planners the power to strike and strike again.

Both the new Soviet bombers have their American parallels. The Tupolev-200 is the size of our giant B-36, with a wing span above 230 feet and a length of 200 feet overall. Its enormous size indicates great range. It is powered by six turbo-prop engines. The quality of these engines, plus certain features of the airframe design, give positive evidence of superior speed.

It is thought to fly at more than 450 miles an hour and above 50,000 feet. These are substantially better performance characteristics than the best the B-36 can boast. Because the engines are turbo-props. The new Russian intercontinental giants can also attack efficiently at very low altitude, "on the deck," where existing radar detection systems are seriously deficient.

The Ilyushin-38 is a somewhat smaller and more compact aircraft with sharply swept back wings and a speed estimated at close to 500 miles per hour. Four turbo-prop engines provide its present power plant. But its aerodynamic characteristics suggest that it has been designed to permit substitution of jet engines for turbo-props when the time comes.

Even now, this bomber has many of the qualities of the American B-52, which is not yet in active production. When and if the jet-turbo-prop substitution is made, the comparison will be exact.

In Squadron Formations

To conclude this collection of disturbing data, both the Tupolev-200 and the Ilyushin-38 are equipped with radar bomb-sights. The Pentagon's merchants of complacency used to claim the Russians would never make radar bomb-sights.

When first reported, the Ilyushin-38 was known as "Type 31" while the Tupolev-200 was commonly called the TUG-75. (Besides the brilliant Tupolev, who built the TU-4, another famous Russian air designer, Gurevich, collaborated in the development of the Tupolev 200). The early reports of both bombers were rejected as inherently incredible by the same merchants of complacency who swore the Russians would never learn to bomb by night and in bad weather.

Now, however, the existence of both these bombers is somewhat glumly accepted even by the Pentagon's civilian overlords, who have learned some hard lessons in recent months. The new Soviet bombers are already in squadron formations.

No operating unit of the American Strategic Air Command will get new bombers of comparable range, speed and weight for many more months. The hope of SAC for the present is the B-47, a superb aircraft but a medium range bomber. And the number of operating squadrons which have exchanged their B-50s for B-47s is still very small.

In short the Soviets may soon be able to claim parity with the United States, in point of equipment at least, in the great military specialty which has always been supposed to justify our neglect of other forms of armed strength. In these circumstances, it is plain dishonest for the Pentagon to go on smugly boasting about American air-atomic striking power, without at least uttering a warning word or two now and then about Soviet air-atomic striking power.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Many people are writing in to ask what the Bricker Amendment controversy is all about. It seems they can't find out from a reading of the conflicting views and comments contained in the press dispatches because the whole thing appears to them to be a legalistic controversy and they want to know what's back of it all.

Certainly it is confusing to find, for instance, so eminent an organization as the American Bar Association after several years of study advocating a change in the Constitution and yet to hear from individual lawyers of prominence that somebody has started a conspiracy to hamper President Eisenhower in his conduct of foreign policy.

It is, of course, a controversy over the meaning of treaties and whether by merely signing an agreement with a foreign government a president can commit the citizens of the United States to a course of action that normally would require both houses of Congress to bring about only by the passage of a law.

No Partisan Affair

But back of the Bricker Amendment controversy is something deeper. Senator George of Georgia, a Democrat, who has held the important posts of chairman of the Senate Relations Committee and chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and who is widely regarded as an able constitutional lawyer stated the issue in its simplest form to the United States Senate the other day. He said that he did not want "any president to make an agreement with Turkey that will preclude me from killing a cat in my back alley at night." Then he shouted:

"Neither do I want him to negotiate an agreement with India that will preclude me from butchering a cow in my own barnyard."

These are blunt words but they certainly should dispose of the smear argument spread throughout this country and repeated by so respectable a newspaper as the London Times that the controversy over the Bricker Amendment is just a piece of Republican isolationism and that it is merely a fight between Mr. Eisenhower and some "reactionary" elements in the Republican party.

It takes a two-thirds majority to get a constitutional amendment adopted by the Senate and anybody who reports the news from the national capital objectively would know that the 64 senators who showed their intention several months ago to support a change along the lines of the Bricker Amendment or a substitute wouldn't be doing so if it was just a partisan Republican affair.

Nor is it accurate to spread the fiction that this is just a fight between President Eisenhower and his party or that it somehow concerns only Mr. Eisenhower's conduct of forcign policy. For the truth is the abuse of the treaty power has been going on for many years and if not remedied will go on long after Mr. Eisenhower ceases to be president. Perhaps the clearest explanation of why the Bricker Amendment has gotten so much momentum at the "grass roots" in both parties in the last four years was given to the Senate recently by Senator Bricker himself. He said:

"Most of the opponents of this resolution seek to elevate treaty law above domestic constitutional law. They seek to codify all fundamental human rights — civil, political, economic, social, and cultural — in a law superior to that of sovereign nations. . .

"Most of the opposition to this treaty-control amendment comes from those who yearn for the domination of a supra-national government. Some of them would surrender national sovereignty immediately; others would destroy it gradually by means of United Nations treaties and by less formal agreements. Some would organize a supra-state on a global scale while others would first establish a regional government."

Want To Close Loophole

The cry against a "world government" to be established through an all-powerful international body in which the United States can be outvoted and its Constitution sabotaged has been raised throughout the country by various local organizations. The opponents disavow any such purpose and vigorously denounce any such objective. But the fact is that the Supreme Court has ruled in one case that treaties can upset domestic law and the effort now is to close that loophole.

There are some who call themselves "liberals" who say the Constitution is good enough as it is and shouldn't be changed. But it's been changed 23 times against the advice of the so-called "reactionaries" who always want to let things alone.

It is significant that Senator George of Georgia has come forward with a substitute for the Bricker Amendment, and it doesn't differ too much from the Bricker proposal. If the Georgia senator in his amendment specified that treaties as well as executive agreements were not to be given the status of internal law unless sanctioned by action of Congress, the Ohio Republican and the Georgia Democrat would be rather close together.

The basic object is to prevent a future president from agreeing to some action by one of the numerous subsidiary bodies of the United Nations which would take away constitutional rights. The average person looking on wonders what harm can come from saying in the Constitution it self that this cannot be done.

Octogenarian Defies Court Decisions To Give Up Home

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—The home of 89-year-old Henry Herzinger is the lone structure standing in the path of a multimillion dollar redevelopment program.

Forty-two other buildings around him have been pulled down. His alone stands amid the rubble that marks an otherwise barren block.

Despite pleas, financial offers and court decisions, Herzinger says he wants to "stay forever."

"This is my home," he points out.

Homeless cats pad up to a saucer of milk on a rear step. Nearby is his garden. And here Herzinger wants to stay.

But there is the ever-haunting fact that he must leave.

Herzinger's home stands in the way of progress.

When the city first said it needed his property two years ago, Herzinger, through attorneys, began the battle. He fought the city's condemnation proceedings in 1952. A trial jury awarded him $13,000.

He took his plight to the Court of Appeals, Maryland's highest. And again he lost. But Herzinger, a slightly rotund gentleman with a nondescript mustache and glasses that perch halfway down his nose, stayed on.

Last December, after depositing the price of the property with the court, the Redevelopment Commission advised Herzinger it soon would have to take over the land.

A moving van was offered to help him move out. Herzinger remained.

But time seems now to have run out on Herzinger. The commission says it has granted a final postponement—until March 18th. After that . . .

"I have a place in the country," the octogenarian observed. "But I don't want to live in the country. "This is my home."

Alabama Fugitive Held In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—John W. Thomas, 47-year-old Alabaman who escaped from Kilby State Prison in Montgomery, Ala., last Friday, was being held for return there today.

Thomas was arrested by Anne Arundel County and Baltimore city police this morning when he got off of a bus at a downtown station.

Alabama authorities learned Thomas had made his way to Greenville, N.C., after his escape and boarded a bus there for Baltimore.

Thomas has served three years of a life term for rape.

Railroad Authorized To Abandon Trackage

State Opposes Delay In Trial Of Mayor's Son

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro today asked Youth Court to deny defense attorney Joseph Sherbow's motion for a nine-month delay in the trial of Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro, 20-year-old son of Baltimore's mayor.

A grand jury has indicted the youth on charges he lied under oath during the trial in which he was found innocent of a charge of statutory rape.

Sherbow has charged that news accounts of the impending perjury trial have prejudiced his client's chances of getting a fair trial.

Sodaro's brief answer to the Sherbow motion was that the reasons stated in the petition for delay were "legally insufficient."

The issue is scheduled to be argued orally tomorrow morning.

The defense has asked that the following newsmen be summoned:

The Associated Press, through Max Fullerton or his designated representative; Oliver Morrison, United Press bureau manager in Baltimore; Herbert Cahan, WAAM-TV program director; Robert Jones, WFBR manager; L. Waters Milbourne, WCAO; Thomas White, WBAL; Charles Roeder, WCBM; Anna R. Suter, WITH, and David Stickle, WMAR-TV.

Boy Who Robbed For "Boss" Sent To Reform School

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—A 14-year-old Negro boy, who played a modified version of Oliver Twist to an older man's Fagin, was sentenced to 10 years in the State Reformatory today for 16 burglaries.

Juvenile Court gave up on the child and relinquished his case to Youth Court because of the magnitude of the offenses and because the youngster was so "proud of his ability to steal and to elude the police," a court officer said.

The boy has escaped six times from Boy's Village and once from Pine Street Police Station by picking the lock of his cell door with a bed spring.

Like Oliver Twist and others in the Charles Dickens novel he turned his loot over to a "boss man."

Little Calvin E. Lee's "boss man," Steven McTabb, 50-year-old Negro storekeeper, was given four years in the House of Correction and a fine of $500 last January on charges of contributing to the delinquency of young Lee and others. Lee said he sold his loot to McTabb.

A 16-year-old friend of Lee's who took part in at least one of the burglaries, was sentenced to not more than five years. Officers testified the second youth, Edward Ray, had 23 prior convictions, mostly as a juvenile.

Man, 85, Accused Of Killing His Son

TOWSON, Md., Feb. 15 (AP)—An 85-year-old father was in jail here today on a charge of fatally shooting his 40-year-old son.

Baltimore County State's Attorney said James Quickly, a Negro from Sweetair, about 10 miles northeast of Baltimore, was the oldest man ever to be so charged in Maryland.

Police said a family quarrel yesterday led to the shooting of the son, Lloyd.

Police said the father told them an argument developed and the son picked up a stick of wood. In the house at the time was Quickly's wife, also 85, and he said he was afraid she might get hurt.

The two men went outside, Quickly carrying a gun, police said. There the argument continued and the son was shot.

Quickly, father of nine, is a church sexton and grave digger, and is widely respected in the neighborhood, residents said.

In 1953, the United States sold more than a billion dollars worth of gold abroad and imported none.

Attorney Appointed For Accused Slayer

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—William C. Thomas, 32-year-old Negro charged with the murder, rape and robbery of a 67-year-old spinster storekeeper, made no reply to the charges at a hearing today because of a court ordered postponement.

Judge Emory H. Niles did not take a plea from Thomas when he noted the man had no lawyer. The judge appointed U. Theodore Hayes to represent Thomas.

The victim of the rape-murder, Miss Della Honeyman, operated a grocery store which was a favorite meeting place of neighborhood children.

Ohio, a state of the United States since 1803, was officially admitted to the union in 1953 when Congress corrected a technical omission in the original legislation.

Octogenarian Defies Court Decisions To Give Up Home

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—The home of 89-year-old Henry Herzinger is the lone structure standing in the path of a multimillion dollar redevelopment program.

Forty-two other buildings around him have been pulled down. His alone stands amid the rubble that marks an otherwise barren block.

Despite pleas, financial offers and court decisions, Herzinger says he wants to "stay forever."

"This is my home," he points out.

Homeless cats pad up to a saucer of milk on a rear step. Nearby is his garden. And here Herzinger wants to stay.

But there is the ever-haunting fact that he must leave.

Herzinger's home stands in the way of progress.

When the city first said it needed his property two years ago, Herzinger, through attorneys, began the battle. He fought the city's condemnation proceedings in 1952. A trial jury awarded him $13,000.

He took his plight to the Court of Appeals, Maryland's highest. And again he lost. But Herzinger, a slightly rotund gentleman with a nondescript mustache and glasses that perch halfway down his nose, stayed on.

Last December, after depositing the price of the property with the court, the Redevelopment Commission advised Herzinger it soon would have to take over the land.

A moving van was offered to help him move out. Herzinger remained.

But time seems now to have run out on Herzinger. The commission says it has granted a final postponement—until March 18th. After that . . .

"I have a place in the country," the octogenarian observed. "But I don't want to live in the country.

"This is my home."

Alabama Fugitive Held In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—John W. Thomas, 47-year-old Alabaman who escaped from Kilby State Prison in Montgomery, Ala., last Friday, was being held for return there today.

Thomas was arrested by Anne Arundel County and Baltimore city police this morning when he got off of a bus at a downtown station.

Alabama authorities learned Thomas had made his way to Greenville, N.C., after his escape and boarded a bus there for Baltimore.

Thomas has served three years of a life term for rape.

Railroad Authorized To Abandon Trackage

The company said the segment, in Washington County, did insufficient business to warrant its continuance.

State Opposes Delay In Trial Of Mayor's Son

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro today asked Youth Court to deny defense attorney Joseph Sherbow's motion for a nine-month delay in the trial of Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro, 20-year-old son of Baltimore's mayor.

A grand jury has indicted the youth on charges he lied under oath during the trial in which he was found innocent of a charge of statutory rape.

Sherbow has charged that news accounts of the impending perjury trial have prejudiced his client's chances of getting a fair trial.

Sodaro's brief answer to the Sherbow motion was that the reasons stated in the petition for delay were "legally insufficient."

The issue is scheduled to be argued orally tomorrow morning.

The defense has asked that the following newsmen be summoned:

Spain Gets First Load Of U. S. War Materials

CARTAGENA, Spain, Feb. 15 (AP)—The freighter Northwestern Victory arrived today with the first load of U. S. war materials for Spain's armed forces under the new Washington-Madrid aid-for-bases pact.

The cargo included tanks, trucks, rifles, electronic equipment, and aviation parts. Dunn called it the "first concrete step in a new relationship between our two nations."

Boy Who Robbed For "Boss" Sent To Reform School

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—A 14-year-old Negro boy, who played a modified version of Oliver Twist to an older man's Fagin, was sentenced to 10 years in the State Reformatory today for 16 burglaries.

Juvenile Court gave up on the child and relinquished his case to Youth Court because of the magnitude of the offenses and because the youngster was so "proud of his ability to steal and to elude the police," a court officer said.

The boy has escaped six times from Boy's Village and once from Pine Street Police Station by picking the lock of his cell door with a bed spring.

Like Oliver Twist and others in the Charles Dickens novel he turned his loot over to a "boss man."

Little Calvin E. Lee's "boss man," Steven McTabb, 50-year-old Negro storekeeper, was given four years in the House of Correction and a fine of $500 last January on charges of contributing to the delinquency of young Lee and others. Lee said he sold his loot to McTabb.

A 16-year-old friend of Lee's who took part in at least one of the burglaries, was sentenced to not more than five years. Officers testified the second youth, Edward Ray, had 23 prior convictions, mostly as a juvenile.

Man, 85, Accused Of Killing His Son

TOWSON, Md., Feb. 15 (AP)—An 85-year-old father was in jail here today on a charge of fatally shooting his 40-year-old son.

Baltimore County State's Attorney said James Quickly, a Negro from Sweetair, about 10 miles northeast of Baltimore, was the oldest man ever to be so charged in Maryland.

Police said a family quarrel yesterday led to the shooting of the son, Lloyd.

Police said the father told them an argument developed and the son picked up a stick of wood. In the house at the time was Quickly's wife, also 85, and he said he was afraid she might get hurt.

The two men went outside. Quickly carrying a gun, police said. There the argument continued and the son was shot.

Quickly, father of nine, is a church sexton and grave digger, and is widely respected in the neighborhood, residents said.

In 1953, the United States sold more than a billion dollars worth of gold abroad and imported none.

Attorney Appointed For Accused Slayer

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—William C. Thomas, 32-year-old Negro charged with the murder, rape and robbery of a 67-year-old spinster storekeeper, made no reply to the charges at a hearing today because of a court ordered postponement.

Judge Emory H. Niles did not take a plea from Thomas when he noted the man had no lawyer. The judge appointed U. Theodore Hayes to represent Thomas.

The victim of the rape-murder, Miss Della Honeyman, operated a grocery store which was a favorite meeting place of neighborhood children.

Ohio, a state of the United States since 1803, was officially admitted to the union in 1953 when Congress corrected a technical omission in the original legislation.

Missing Local Woman Is Located In Marshall, Mo.

A 29-year-old former Cumberland bank employe, missing for more than four months, has been located in Marshall, Mo.

Police said Mrs. Louise Rebecca Spevock, who had an apartment at 223 Pear Street before she vanished last October 9, sent a postcard to her ailing mother, Mrs. George E. Evans, of near Romney.

Detective Lt. James E. Van said Mrs. Evans phoned local authorities Saturday afternoon that the daughter told her "not to worry." Mrs. Spevock also stated that she was "in good health and will write again."

Mrs. Spevock worked as a bookkeeper at the Liberty Trust Company prior to her disappearance. A two-week pay check is still being held for her at the bank.

Bank officials said Mrs. Spevock's work had always been satisfactory and her books were in "excellent" order. She underwent an operation at a local hospital about a year ago.

The last fellow-employes heard of her was a note received on the Monday morning after she left, in which she stated she had to go to Baltimore over the weekend and might be late returning. When she failed to report for work in a few days, the bank notified her family.

Later, a local couple returning to Cumberland from Baltimore reported seeing a woman answering Mrs. Spevock's description in a restaurant. Cumberland authorities notified Baltimore police, but she could not be found.

Lt. Van reported Mrs. Spevock was last seen entering a car bearing Indiana license plates.

He said Mrs. Evans, who had been "near collapse" as a result of the disappearance, did not question the handwriting on the postcard she received. The case was marked "closed."

Mrs. Evans asked police to find her daughter on December 11, 1953.

Information on Mrs. Spevock then was sent to the Associated Press in Baltimore for distribution to various other newspapers.

Two Fire Companies Check Grass Blaze

Two local fire companies fought a stubborn grass and brush fire for about an hour yesterday afternoon along Hawthorne Avenue as approximately three acres of land were scorched.

South End firemen were called to the scene at 3:16 p. m. and used their booster pump. About six minutes later Central joined in the fight in the 800-block of Maryland.

They used brooms in extinguishing the flames which scorched the land along the steep hillside where grass and underbrush are thick.

Dr. Frank T. Harrat Heads Medical Group

Dr. Frank T. Harrat, 59 East Main Street, Frostburg, was recently elected president of the Allegany-Garrett Medical Association.

Named to serve with him are Dr. James T. Johnson Jr., Washington Street, vice president; Dr. Leland B. Ransom, Holland Street, secretary; and Dr. Leo H. Ley Jr., Braddock Road, treasurer.

The association meets the first Thursday in each month.

Colorado was practically unknown country when gold was discovered there in 1858.

200 Chickens Die In Fire At Mill Run

Flames destroyed 200 chickens and a coop owned by George Shoemaker, Mill Run, over the weekend.

And when the alarm was received, at about 11 p. m. Saturday, at the fire hall of District 16 volunteer company, the weekly square dance was broken up as firemen rushed to the scene.

Fire Chief Van Malone, who received the call, said the flames spread quickly through the one-story frame building and the chickens, ready for market, all perished. As the volunteer firemen arrived at the Shoemaker property, the roof of the coop was ablaze and collapsed into the burning building, located some 30 feet from the Shoemaker home.

Chief Malone said the 10 men who responded had to travel approximately 12 miles to the blaze. The property is located about a mile off Oldtown Road. Since the company fire truck is being repainted after repair work had been completed, water from a 260-gallon tank on a trailer pulled by a jeep was used in extinguishing the blaze. Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Valley Street Bridge Approach Site Purchased

The Mayor and Council yesterday afternoon authorized the payment of $2,750 to the Buchanan Lumber Company for land and right of way needed for the construction of the new Valley Street Bridge.

Cost of the site, located on the southerly side of the span, is to be charged to the Flood Control account.

Negotiations are under way for the Bowman property, on the North Mechanic Street approach to the bridge.

The city will give the contractor the green light for the construction of the bridge as soon as agreement is reached on the above property.

George McGregor was named a basketball supervisor for the Recreation Department at a salary of $1 an hour, and Neil Grayson was appointed a grade school basketball supervisor, at $4 a session.

Ordered filed was a protest from the Cut Rate Bargain Center, 32 Bedford Street, on the city's allowing organizations to hold rummage sales without securing licenses.

Both Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, and Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, reported the sales were being held by church groups and other non-profit organizations.

City Defers Action On CD Legislation

The Mayor and Council yesterday referred to City Attorney Thomas B. Finan for study the request of William G. Barger, county Civil Defense director, for backing of two bills introduced in the General Assembly.

The first would provide workmen's compensation type of reimbursement for Civil Defense volunteer workers killed or injured prior to an attack.

The second authorizes, but does not require, local governments to appropriate funds needed during CD emergency periods.

Barger said similar approval is sought from the County Commissioners.

The Allegan County Heart Association forwarded to the Mayor and Council a certificate of appreciation for efforts on behalf of the Heart fund drives.

A request from the association for a contribution toward the current campaign was referred to Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan.

Parking meters brought in $542.12 during the week ending February 7, a drop of $2.42 from the preceding week.

Payrolls for the first half of February were approved.

Liquor Board Will Hear Raccosta Case

Frank Raccosta, trading as Queen City Tavern, 10 Queen City Pavement, is scheduled to appear before the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners at 10 o'clock this morning to show cause why his beer license should not be suspended or revoked.

Raccosta was fined $500 in Circuit Court January 20 by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris on a charge of selling beer illegally to a 16-year-old local boy.

The board also is expected to decide what disposition to make in the case of Joseph Spinetta, operator of Lee's Tavern, 60 North Mechanic Street. Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn had reported to the board that many disturbances had occurred at the place. Evidence was presented at the board's meeting February 2.

Donius Receives One Year Term

Louis Donius, city, was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction yesterday in Circuit Court by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris on a charge of violating his parole.

Donius was picked up February 6 at night pushing a lawn mower on Elder Street. Police said the lawn mower had been stolen. At the time of his arrest Donius was under parole from Circuit Court on a larceny charge.

Judge Harris had paroled Donius several months ago on the larceny charge with the provision he leave Cumberland and stay away at least five years. James S. Getty, assistant state's attorney, presented the case before the court.

A pre-sentence investigation is being conducted in the case of two teen-age boys found guilty of assault with intent to rob. The plea of guilty was made before the court by Thomas N. Berry, court-appointed attorney for the youths.

The boys are Charles Russell Calhoun, 17, Paca Street, and John Vincent Green, 15, Henry Street.

They were charged with an attempt to rob Raymond A. Shuck of Flintstone on January 17. Shuck had charged that the boys got into his car when he stopped on Baltimore Avenue because of motor trouble and forced him to transport them all the way to Baltimore at gun-point.

Driver Draws 60-Day Jail Sentence

A 60-day jail term was imposed Saturday in Trial Magistrates Court on Elwood Harden, 306 Decatur Street, who pleaded guilty to three state motor charges including leaving the scene of an accident.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick said the defendant was unable to pay $50.75 for failing to identify himself after the mishap and $75.75 for leaving the scene. Harden also received a suspended fine of $25.75 for reckless driving.

Harden was arrested following a collision January 30 at the intersection of Baltimore and Centre streets.

Another motorist, Robert Allen Logsdon, 18, of Hyndman, had an unauthorized use charge dismissed by Dick. He was given a suspended $10.75 fine for driving without a license.

Lt. James E. Van said Logsdon told him he had been paid a dollar by the owner of a car to drive it to a garage for repairs. When the work was completed, according to Logsdon, he was to have returned the auto and keys to another person as the owner had been called out of town.

Rank's .816 Is Tops Shaffer Reminisces

Major Is Hopeful Jackets' 17-0 Best

By C. V. BURNS

Dick Rank

THE AVERAGE high school basketball player is considered a good foul shot if he can mesh 60 per cent of his free throws, or six out of every ten, during a season.

That's why the record turned in to date by Dick Rank of Allegany deserves special mention.

With the regular season nearing an end, the Camper forward owns the amazing average of .816 and if he can maintain that pace in the three remaining games he probably will have set the highest mark ever credited to a high school player in this area.

Dick has figured in 18 games and in 76 tries he has sent the ball spinning through the hoop 62 times.

In the last ten games he has averaged .850 with 34 conversions in 40 attempts. And in ten of the contests this season he has turned in perfect records at the 15-foot line. His best single game mark is 6 for 6. That was the night the Campers beat LaSalle to clinch the city title. Twice he has meshed 4 for 4 in a game.

Rank's average thus far is a little better than 8 hits in every 10 tries and that's a marvelous exhibition of leather dunking.

DYKE SHAFFER, the big guard who played for many years with the old Keyser Collegians, was talking about topnotch foul shooters the other night, and recalled that Johnny Beckman, the crack shot of the New York Original Celtics of yesteryear, was the best he had ever seen in the pro ranks.

"That guy was so good he could toss them in while looking out in the crowd or with his head down," Shaffer declared. "I remember the night he first played in Keyser and meshed a half dozen in practice without looking at the basket. Then he slammed in about 10 straight during the game. In those days each club had its own foul shooting specialist and Beckman, who hailed from Bogota, N. J., was in a class by himself. I've never seen his equal as a foul thrower."

Dyke says a recent item here about Abe Saperstein of the Globetrotters naming Nat Holman, Homer Stonebraker and Barney Sedran on an all-time all-pro team brought back memories of the days he played against these men.

Shaffer played against Barney Sedran when the latter was with the Canton (Ohio) Oscars. Stonebraker was the ace of Fort Wayne K. of C. teams.

Shaffer agrees with Abe that they were great players but adds that the greatest of them all was Holman.

"I played against Nat at least a half dozen times and there was a basketball perfectionist, if there ever was one," Dyke said. "The guy never wasted any energy, always seemed to do the right thing at the right time and was always in the right spot at the right time. What a player!"

"I SUPPOSE we'll have to win 'em all," remarked Major John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh the other day as he observed his Fort Hill team's 8-10 record with only three more games to play this season.

The "Connecticut Yankee," now in his 26th year of coaching here, has had only one team in the past 25 years that finished the season with a record below the .500 mark. That was in 1945 when the Sentinels won 11 and lost 14.

To finish in the .500 circle this season the Hilltoppers must win their three remaining games with Mt. Savage, Allegany and Ridgeley. That would give them an 11-10 mark for the campaign.

Cavanaugh's big years at Fort Hill were 1939 and 1949 when his teams turned in 31-1 and 25-1 records. He tutored three other quints at Fort Hill that won 21 or more games a season while at Penn Avenue High three of his seven teams racked up 22 or more victories a season.

The Major's teams have won 74 per cent of their games over the 26-year grind and that's a very respectable record. They've engaged in 648 games, winning 479 and losing 168.

Walt Bowers, handling the reins at Allegany, also has had his lean seasons during his 28 years in the driver's seat. In 1929, 1938 and 1951 his teams fell below .500 each year by the margin of a single game, 13-14, 11-12 and 10-11.

ROD HUNDLEY, ace of the West Virginia University Freshmen, who will be unveiled to fans of this section when the Morgantown quint plays at Potomac State Thursday night, has scored 545 points this season for a team whose record is 13 wins and 3 losses.

In a recent game against Staunton Military Academy Hot Rod chucked in 46 tallies.

SPEAKING of records how about that Johnstown High quint that has bagged 20 straight.

Mel Henry's Hagerstown High team is also in the grove with 10 in a row and Martinsburg's Bulldogs are now boasting a string of ten wins.

THE CHALLENGE recently hurled by Tom McGeady and Ed McKay at any two-man bowling combination in the area has been accepted by Cecil Grimes and Lou Bell. They're slated to tangle in a six-game match Saturday night. Three games will be rolled on the Savoy alleys and three on the Capitol lanes.

IF PIEDMONT goes through its P.V.C. schedule with a 14-0 record it will be the best mark in the West Virginia circuit since 1951 when Jonathan Paugh's Moorefield Yellow Jackets racked up 17 without a loss.

Rube Meadows Rites

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Services will be held here Wednesday for Bernard Ford (Rube) Meadows, a one-time friend and teammate of Babe Ruth, who died at his Baltimore home yesterday.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—(INS)—The ring is likely to produce more tears than laughs, more tragedy than comedy. And yet— ....

There was the night many years ago when Al Weill, Rocky Marciano's manager, had Charley Pilkington, a good lightweight, fighting the main event in one of the small New York clubs.

Pilkington stripped, donned ring shoes and socks and a large loose bathrobe and sat on a dressing table while his handlers taped his hands. This was in the days before fighters wore any protective gear.

The semi-final ended in a quick knockout and, of course, there was a hurried call for the main eventers.

Pilkington and his handlers rushed out; gloves were donned while the announcer was doing his stuff, the fighters were instructed in the middle of the ring by the referee and then rushed back to their corners, whipping off their bath robes as they went.

Pilkington's opponent was all right but poor Pilkington stood as nude as the day he was born. You can imagine the howl that went up from the fans.

And there was the night more than 25 years ago when we were covering the metropolitan amateur boxing championships in the then new Madison Square Garden.

The three round bouts were run off with clock work precision before a packed house.

Then came a bout between two flyweights. One was a tall skinny kid who towered at least a full head above his chunky little opponent.

We were sitting beside the late Damon Runyon. We had been betting a quarter on each corner and Damon this time drew the little fellow.

"Somebody ought to get that kid a new pair of trunks," said Damon. "They look awful tight to me."

Well, the gong sounded and the little fellow rushed half way across the ring to meet his opponent.

Then tragedy struck. Those tight tights split from the middle of the belt in front to the middle of the rear. The fans almost fell out of their seats laughing.

The little fellow, desperation in his eyes, put one glove in front, the other in the rear while the tall skinniy kid and the referee just stood there laughing their heads off.

Finally, a big Irish cop hopped into the ring, took off his coat, wrapped it around the little fellow and carried him out.

And the decision? A technical knockout, believe it or not, without a single blow being struck.

We remember it so well because Runyon didn't want to pay off on that one because, he argued, the decision should have been "no contest."

Keyser Tourney Semi-Finals Are Set Wednedsay

P.V.C. Junior High Games Open At 7:30

KEYSER, Feb. 15 — Keyser will play Moorefield at 7:30 p. m. and Elk Garden will oppose Petersburg in the semi-finals of the Potomac Valley Conference's junior high school basketball tournament Wednesday at the Keyser High School gymnasium.

Winners will clash Saturday afternoon in the second game of a doubleheader. Wednesday night's losers will collide on Saturday's consolation game at 1:30 o'clock.

Keyser defeated Piedmont, 51-24, Moorefield won over Keyser's 8th Graders, 32-30, Elk Garden downed Fort Ashby, 67-11 and Petersburg defeated the West Virginia School for the Deaf 62-33 in opening round games last Saturday.

Newhouser Will Essay Comeback

Veteran To Receive Tryout With Indians

DETROIT, Feb. 15 (AP) — Lefty Harold (Hal) Newhouser is going to try a pitching comeback with the Cleveland Indians at 32.

He announced this today, seven months after both he and the Detroit Tigers agreed he was through after 15½ seasons and 200 American League victories. He lost 147 games.

Then, Hal said: "This is the end. I'm through as a pitcher. I'm convinced I haven't got it any more."

Today, his tune was different: "I know the Indians have one of the best pitching staffs in the majors, with fellows like Bob Feller, Mike Garcia and Bob Lemon, but I hope to make the grade—preferably as a starting pitcher, but if not, as a reliefer."

Every other major league club waived on the lanky Newhouser following his Detroit release, when he could have been claimed for $10,000. But along with him then, they'd have had to pick up a $30,000-plus contract that could have been shaved only 25 per cent this year.

Santee Runs 4:04.9 Mile

Hangs Up All-Time Dirt Track Record

EAST LANSING, Mich., Feb. 15 (AP) — Kansas cowboy Wes Santee ran the fastest competitive indoor mile in history tonight, 4:04.9, but it will only be recognized as an all-time world indoor record for dirt track.

The current recognized world indoor mark is 4:05.3, set by Gil Dodds on Madison Square Garden's 11-lap board track in 1948.

When told of Santee's race in a triangular meet here among Kansas, Michigan State and Illinois, Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the National Amateur Athletic Union, which passes on all such records, said:

"Dodds' record will still be recoganized as the board track record. We have to list separate records because some places don't have board tracks and other places don't have dirt tracks. We couldn't have one standard with the two kinds of tracks."

Kentucky Bags 19th

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 15 (AP)—Unbeaten Kentucky, paced by Cliff Hagan's 26-point performance, defeated Mississippi State, 81-49, tonight for its 19th straight basketball victory.

Rank's .816 Is Tops • • • Shaffer Reminisces

Major Is Hopeful • • • Jackets' 17-0 Best

By C. V. BURNS

THE AVERAGE high school basketball player is considered a good foul shot if he can mesh 60 per cent of his free throws, or six out of every ten, during a season.

Dick Rank

That's why the record turned in to date by Dick Rank of Allegany deserves special mention.

With the regular season nearing an end, the Camper forward owns the amazing average of .816 and if he can maintain that pace in the three remaining games he probably will have set the highest mark ever credited to a high school player in this area.

Dick has figured in 18 games and in 76 tries he has sent the ball spinning through the hoop 62 times.

In the last ten games he has averaged .850 with 34 conversions in 40 attempts. And in ten of the contests this season he has turned in perfect records at the 15-foot line. His best single game mark is 6 for 6. That was the night the Campers beat LaSalle to clinch the city title. Twice he has meshed 4 for 4 in a game.

Rank's average thus far is a little better than 8 hits in every 10 tries and that's a marvelous exhibition of leather dunking.

DYKE SHAFFER, the big guard who played for many years with the old Keyser Collegians, was talking about topnotch foul shooters the other night, and recalled that Johnny Beckman, the crack shot of the New York Original Celtics of yesteryear, was the best he had ever seen in the pro ranks.

"That guy was so good he could toss them in while looking out in the crowd or with his head down," Shaffer declared. "I remember the night he first played in Keyser and meshed a half dozen in practice without looking at the basket. Then he slammed in about 10 straight during the game. In those days each club had its own foul shooting specialist and Beckman, who hailed from Bogota, N. J., was in a class by himself. I've never seen his equal as a foul thrower."

Dyke says a recent item here about Abe Saperstein of the Globetrotters naming Nat Holman, Homer Stonebraker and Barney Sedran on an all-time all-pro team brought back memories of the days he played against these men.

Shaffer played against Barney Sedran when the latter was with the Canton (Ohio) Oscars. Stonebraker was the ace of Fort Wayne K. of C. teams.

Shaffer agrees with Abe that they were great players but adds that the greatest of them all was Holman.

"I played against Nat at least a half dozen times and there was a basketball perfectionist, if there ever was one," Dyke said. "The guy never wasted any energy, always seemed to do the right thing at the right time and was always in the right spot at the right time. What a player!"

"I SUPPOSE we'll have to win 'em all," remarked Major John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh the other day as he observed his Fort Hill team's 8-10 record with only three more games to play this season.

The "Connecticut Yankee," now in his 26th year of coaching here, has had only one team in the past 25 years that finished the season with a record below the .500 mark. That was in 1945 when the Sentinels won 11 and lost 14.

To finish in the .500 circle this season the Hilltoppers must win their three remaining games with Mt. Savage, Allegany and Ridgeley. That would give them an 11-10 mark for the campaign.

Cavanaugh's big years at Fort Hill were 1939 and 1949 when his teams turned in 31-1 and 25-1 records. He tutored three other quints at Fort Hill that won 21 or more games a season while at Penn Avenue High three of his seven teams racked up 22 or more victories a season.

The Major's teams have won 74 per cent of their games over the 26-year grind and that's a very respectable record. They've engaged in 648 games, winning 479 and losing 168.

Walt Bowers, handling the reins at Allegany, also has had his lean seasons during his 28 years in the driver's seat. In 1929, 1938 and 1951 his teams fell below .500 each year by the margin of a single game, 13-14, 11-12 and 10-11.

ROD HUNDLEY, ace of the West Virginia University Freshmen, who will be unveiled to fans of this section when the Morgantown quint plays at Potomac State Thursday night, has scored 545 points this season for a team whose record is 13 wins and 3 losses.

In a recent game against Staunton Military Academy Hot Rod chucked in 46 tallies.

SPEAKING of records how about that Johnstown High quint that has bagged 20 straight.

Mel Henry's Hagerstown High team is also in the grove with 10 in a row and Martinsburg's Bulldogs are now boasting a string of ten wins.

THE CHALLENGE recently hurled by Tom McGeady and Ed McKay at any two-man bowling combination in the area has been accepted by Cecil Grimes and Lou Bell. They're slated to tangle in a six-game match Saturday night. Three games will be rolled on the Savoy alleys and three on the Capitol lanes.

IF PIEDMONT goes through its P.V.C. schedule with a 14-0 record it will be the best mark in the West Virginia circuit since 1951 when Jonathan Paugh's Moorefield Yellow Jackets racked up 17 without a loss.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 15 (AP)—Undefeated Floyd Patterson scored his 10th straight victory tonight by outpunching Yvon Durelle, former Canadian light-heavyweight champion, in an eight-rounder at the Eastern Parkway Arena. Patterson weighed 167½, Durelle 170¾.

The 19-year-old Brooklyn Negro was a 4-1 favorite. Although he won a unanimous decision he was far from impressive.

The votes, all for Patterson, were: Referee Abe Simon, 5-2-1, and Judge Joe Eppy and Leo Burnbaum each 5-3. The AP score card had Patterson in front 6-2.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—(INS)—The ring is likely to produce more tears than laughs, more tragedy than comedy. And yet— ....

There was the night many years ago when Al Weill, Rocky Marciano's manager, had Charley Pilkington, a good lightweight, fighting the main event in one of the small New York clubs.

Pilkington stripped, donned ring shoes and socks and a large loose bathrobe and sat on a dressing table while his handlers taped his hands. This was in the days before fighters wore any protective gear.

The semi-final ended in a quick knockout and, of course, there was a hurried call for the main eventers.

Pilkington and his handlers rushed out; gloves were donned while the announcer was doing his stuff, the fighters were instructed in the middle of the ring by the referee and then rushed back to their corners, whipping off their bath robes as they went.

Pilkington's opponent was all right but poor Pilkington stood as nude as the day he was born. You can imagine the howl that went up from the fans.

And there was the night more than 25 years ago when we were covering the metropolitan amateur boxing championships in the then new Madison Square Garden.

The three round bouts were run off with clock work precision before a packed house.

Then came a bout between two flyweights. One was a tall skinny kid who towered at least a full head above his chunky little opponent.

We were sitting beside the late Damon Runyon. We had been betting a quarter on each corner and Damon this time drew the little fellow.

"Somebody ought to get that kid a new pair of trunks," said Damon. "They look awful tight to me."

Well, the gong sounded and the little fellow rushed half way across the ring to meet his opponent.

Then tragedy struck. Those tight tights split from the middle of the belt in front to the middle of the rear. The fans almost fell out of their seats laughing.

The little fellow, desperation in his eyes, put one glove in front, the other in the rear while the tall skinniy kid and the referee just stood there laughing their heads off.

Finally, a big Irish cop hopped into the ring, took off his coat, wrapped it around the little fellow and carried him out.

And the decision? A technical knockout, believe it or not, without a single blow being struck.

We remember it so well because Runyon didn't want to pay off on that one because, he argued, the decision should have been "no contest."

Keyser Tourney Semi-Finals Are Set Wednesday

P.V.C. Junior High Games Open At 7:30

KEYSER, Feb. 15 — Keyser will play Moorefield at 7:30 p. m. and Elk Garden will oppose Petersburg in the semi-finals of the Potomac Valley Conference's junior high school basketball tournament Wednesday at the Keyser High School gymnasium.

Winners will clash Saturday afternoon in the second game of a doubleheader. Wednesday night's losers will collide on Saturday's consolation game at 1:30 o'clock.

Keyser defeated Piedmont, 51-24, Moorefield won over Keyser's 8th Graders, 32-30, Elk Garden downed Fort Ashby, 67-11 and Petersburg defeated the West Virginia School for the Deaf 62-33 in opening round games last Saturday.

Newhouser Will Essay Comeback

Veteran To Receive Tryout With Indians

DETROIT, Feb. 15 (AP) — Lefty Harold (Hal) Newhouser is going to try a pitching comeback with the Cleveland Indians at 32.

He announced this today, seven months after both he and the Detroit Tigers agreed he was through after 15½ seasons and 200 American League victories. He lost 147 games.

Then, Hal said: "This is the end. I'm through as a pitcher. I'm convinced I haven't got it any more."

Today, his tune was different: "I know the Indians have one of the best pitching staffs in the majors, with fellows like Bob Feller, Mike Garcia and Bob Lemon, but I hope to make the grade—preferably as a starting pitcher, but if not, as a reliefer."

Every other major league club waived on the lanky Newhouser following his Detroit release, when he could have been claimed for $10,000. But along with him then, they'd have had to pick up a $30,000-plus contract that could have been shaved only 25 per cent this year.

Santee Runs 4:04.9 Mile

Hangs Up All-Time Dirt Track Record

EAST LANSING, Mich., Feb. 15 (AP) — Kansas cowboy Wes Santee ran the fastest competitive indoor mile in history tonight, 4:04.9, but it will only be recognized as an all-time world indoor record for dirt track.

The current recognized world indoor mark is 4:05.3, set by Gil Dodds on Madison Square Garden's 11-lap board track in 1948.

When told of Santee's race in a triangular meet here among Kansas, Michigan State and Illinois, Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the National Amateur Athletic Union, which passes on all such records, said:

"Dodds' record will still be recoganized as the board track record. We have to list separate records because some places don't have board tracks and other places don't have dirt tracks. We couldn't have one standard with the two kinds of tracks."

Kentucky Bags 19th

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 15 (AP)—Unbeaten Kentucky, paced by Cliff Hagan's 26-point performance, defeated Mississippi State, 81-49, tonight for its 19th straight basketball victory.

His average is 17.8 points a game. If Deahl bags the scoring title the honor will go to a Moorefield player for the third straight season. A passenger, Lou Paulic of Chicago, Ill., was injured slightly in the forced landing. Paulic's face was bruised and scratched, but he was treated and released from a hospital here.

Vejar, formerly ranked fifth among the world's welterweight fighters, cracked:

"This is one fight I didn't get paid for."

The boxer is a private at nearby Fort Benning. He was transferred to the post hospital where his condition was reported as good.

West Virginia Announces Hunting And Fishing Dates

Limit On Trout Is Cut From 10 To Eight Daily

Gun Season On Deer Opens Nov. 29; Turkey Season To Be Split

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 15 (AP)—A cut in the daily creel limit on trout was the only major change from last year in fishing regulations and opening hunting dates set today by the Conservation Commission.

Bag limits and closing dates of hunting seasons will be set by the commission at its April meeting.

In most cases, the commission attempted to follow closely the recommendations made by sportsmen's groups at eight regional meetings held earlier this year.

At the close of the all-day meeting, the commission went into an executive session which Conservation Director Carl J. Johnson said would deal with land matters.

Limit Drops To Eight

The season on rainbow, brown and brook trout was set for April 24 through Sept. 6. The daily limit on all species was dropped from 10 to 8 in streams and 6 to 5 in impoundments. As last year, there is no minimum length for trout which can be kept.

The season limit on trout remains at 60.

Harry Van Meter chief of the fish management division, said he thought the reduction would have little effect on the percentage of stocked fish taken from the streams.

At present, he said only about 25 to 30 per cent of the trout stocked are taken by fishermen, many of the remainder dying as temperatures rise.

Deer Season Opens Nov. 29

Among hunting dates established, deer drew the heaviest discussion. The commission finally settled on Monday, Nov. 29 for the opening of the gun season on deer—the date Chief C. O. Handley of the game division said most hunters favored.

A split season on bow and arrow hunting of deer will run from Sept. 15 to Oct. 16 inclusive and reopen Nov. 11.

Gill recommended that deer of either sex be fair game again this year and that the three-day season be extended to six days. Both factors will not be determined until the April meeting.

Opening and closing dates—Nov. 11 through 13—were set for hunting of ring-necked pheasant because it was a short season. These other opening dates were established today:

Oppose Split Season

Squirrel, turkey and grouse—Oct. 1-16 and reopen Nov. 11. Handley noted "quite a lot of opposition" to the split season.

Rabbit, hare, quail—Nov. 11.

Raccoon, opossum and skunk—Nov. 1.

Black Bear—Nov. 1.

Red Fox—State-wide continuous open season except in Doddridge and Wayne counties where foxes may be chased for sport only. Clay County formerly with Doddridge and Wayne, was moved into the open category.

Woodchuck — Continuous open season except 30 counties where hunting will open July 1. Wood and Wyoming were added to those limited hunting counties.

Fishing Season Set

These fishing seasons were set by the commission, generally unchanged from a year ago:

Smallmouth, largemouth and spotted bass—June 12, 1954, to March 12, 1955; minimum length of nine inches; creel limit, all species, of eight daily and 60 for the season.

All fish besides trout and bass—Open year round with no creel limit.

Kryhoski And Heard Sign With Orioles

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles today received signed contracts from first baseman Dick Kryhoski and Jehosie Heard, 29-year-old southpaw pitcher who won 16 and lost 12 with Portland of the Pacific Coast League last season.

They brought to 27 the number of Orioles players signed for the 1954 season.

Kryhoski, counted on by Manager Jimmie Dykes to start at first base this season, batted .278 for the St. Louis Browns in 1953. Playing in 104 games, he drove in 50 runs and hit 16 home .

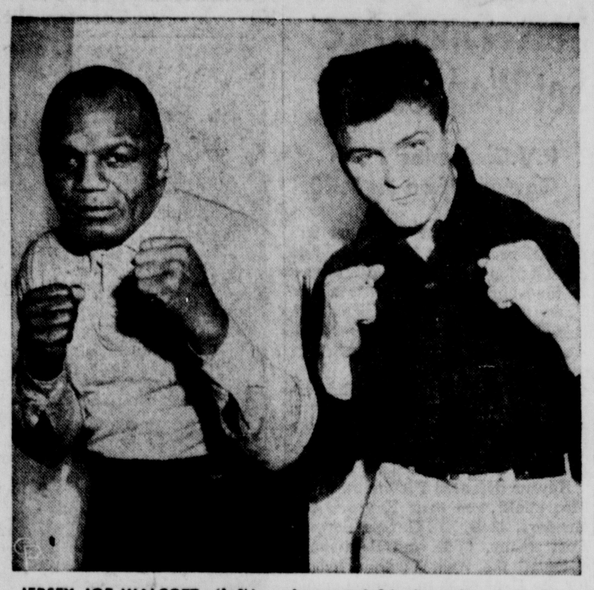
Al Demao Retires As Active Player

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Al Demao, one of the National Football League's better centers for the past eight years, retired today as an active player for the Washington Redskins.

A 34-year-old who formerly played for Duquesne University, Demao told a farewell luncheon gathering that he had enjoyed playing for the Redskins and that the club ownership and the fans "have all been nice to me."

He has entered private business in Washington.

JERSEY JOE AND JERSEY JACK



JERSEY JOE WALCOTT, (left) ex-heavyweight champion, has given up any hope of returning to the ring again but has come up with a young fellow tabbed as an outstanding prospect. The youth is "Jersey Jack" Leonard, a former GI who is 22, weighs 200 pounds and will be seen in action in Philadelphia Feb. 24. (International)

Colleges To Renew Efforts To Get "No Raiding" Pact

Showdown Is Sought With Major Leagues

HAMILTON, N.Y., Feb. 15 (AP)—College baseball men, turned down once more in their efforts to effect a "no raiding" agreement with the major leagues, will try again next July. If they don't succeed then, they're ready to put up a heck of a fight against the pros.

In the furore over the players' pensions, it wasn't publicized that the colleges received another turndown at the Jan. 30 meetings of the National and American Leagues. They submitted a resolution calling upon professional baseball to refrain from signing or negotiating with college players once they had commended their sophomore year.

The National League voted 5-3 against the resolution while American tabled it until the July meeting—an action regarded as encouraging by Colgate's Eppy Barnes.

Barnes, chairman of the National Collegiate A. A. Baseball Committee, said today that baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick and the two league presidents, Warren Giles and Will Harridge, had assured him they were in favor of such a resolution and feel that something must be done to promote baseball on the college level.

Plan To Take Action

If the July effort fails to produce an agreement, Barnes is prepared to recommend certain countermeasures to the NCAA. They are:

1. Submit the resolution to the American Council on Education to try to have all the college presidents endorse the move.

2. Issue a public statement that scouts and representatives of professional baseball teams no longer are welcome on college campuses.

3. Request that baseball be treated similarly to college football and basketball under draft procedures.

4. Revive the program of asking state legislatures to pass lawss restricting contract agreements with under-age players.

Steps 2 and 4 of the proposed counter-attack may have considerable effect on the pros. Hitherto college coaches generally have been pleased to show off their talented youngsters to the scouts. But they moaned long and loudly when those scouts signed not only the stars but a lot of fair ball players to help populate minor league benches.

Likened To Minors

Now the collegians liken themselves to the minor leagues, which have suffered from "raids" that took away their top talent, displeased the fans and killed off the gate receipts.

A NCAA survey in 1948, covering 205 colleges, showed that 9,189 students had played ball that year under 377 coaches at a cost of $1,750,000. And 139 were prematurely signed by the pros; only five ever reached the majors.

Eastern Open Golf Tourney Set May 20-23

Dates Are Earliest In 5-Year History

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP) — The Eastern Open Golf Tournament, formerly the last stop on the pros' summer circuit, will be held May 20-23 this year, the earliest in its five-year history.

Committee chairman Tom O'Donnell announced the dates today. He said the June 3-6 dates originally requested were given by the Professional Golfers Association to the sponsors of the Western Open, who have seniority.

The committee expects to draw more "name" stars for the event this year than formerly because of the earlier playing arrangement. Last September's tournament was the final on the circuit and came only three weeks before the Ryder Cup matches. Consequently it failed to attract a number of top shotmakers.

O'Donnell says he also expects better playing conditions since the grass at Mount Pleasant golf course will not be scorched and burned from the summer sun.

Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla. is the defending champion. Previous tournaments were won by Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff and Sammy Snead.

Charles Cops Hickok Award For January

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP) — Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight champion, today was named the January winner in the competition for the Hickok pro athlete of the year award.

Charles' sensational knockout of Bob Satterfield before a national TV audience earned him the edge over Bob Cousey, star of the Boston Celtics basketball team.

Neil Johnston, leading scorer of the pro basketball league with Philadelphia, was third and the veteran golfer Dutch Harrison was fourth. Jockey Willie Shoemaker finished fifth among the 15 athletes to receive first place votes in the wide open competition.

A horse named Landlocked was flown from South Carolina to Hialeah for a special race and won it.

West Virginia Announces Hunting And Fishing Dates

Limit On Trout Is Cut From 10 To Eight Daily

Gun Season On Deer Opens Nov. 29; Turkey Season To Be Split

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 15 (AP)—A cut in the daily creel limit on trout was the only major change from last year in fishing regulations and opening hunting dates set today by the Conservation Commission.

Bag limits and closing dates of hunting seasons will be set by the commission at its April meeting.

In most cases, the commission attempted to follow closely the recommendations made by sportsmen's groups at eight regional meetings held earlier this year.

At the close of the all-day meeting, the commission went into an executive session which Conservation Director Carl J. Johnson said would deal with land matters.

Limit Drops To Eight

The season on rainbow, brown and brook trout was set for April 24 through Sept. 6. The daily limit on all species was dropped from 10 to 8 in streams and 6 to 5 in impoundments. As last year, there is no minimum length for trout which can be kept.

The season limit on trout remains at 60.

Harry Van Meter chief of the fish management division, said he thought the reduction would have little effect on the percentage of stocked fish taken from the streams.

At present, he said only about 25 to 30 per cent of the trout stocked are taken by fishermen, many of the remainder dying as temperatures rise.

Deer Season Opens Nov. 29

Among hunting dates established, deer drew the heaviest discussion. The commission finally settled on Monday, Nov. 29 for the opening of the gun season on deer—the date Chief C. O. Handley of the game division said most hunters favored.

A split season on bow and arrow hunting of deer will run from Sept. 15 to Oct. 16 inclusive and reopen Nov. 11.

Gill recommended that deer of either sex be fair game again this year and that the three-day season be extended to six days. Both factors will not be determined until the April meeting.

Opening and closing dates—Nov. 11 through 13—were set for hunting of ring-necked pheasant because it was a short season. These other opening dates were established today:

Oppose Split Season

Squirrel, turkey and grouse—Oct. 1-16 and reopen Nov. 11. Handley noted "quite a lot of opposition" to the split season.

Rabbit, hare, quail—Nov. 11.

Raccoon, opossum and skunk—Nov. 1.

Black Bear—Nov. 1.

Red Fox—State-wide continuous open season except in Doddridge and Wayne counties where foxes may be chased for sport only. Clay County formerly with Doddridge and Wayne, was moved into the open category.

Woodchuck — Continuous open season except 30 counties where hunting will open July 1. Wood and Wyoming were added to those limited hunting counties.

Fishing Season Set

These fishing seasons were set by the commission, generally unchanged from a year ago:

Smallmouth, largemouth and spotted bass—June 12, 1954, to March 12, 1955; minimum length of nine inches; creel limit, all species, of eight daily and 60 for the season.

All fish besides trout and bass—Open year round with no creel limit.

Kryhoski And Heard Sign With Orioles

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles today received signed contracts from first baseman Dick Kryhoski and Jehosie Heard, 29-year-old southpaw pitcher who won 16 and lost 12 with Portland of the Pacific Coast League last season.

They brought to 27 the number of Orioles players signed for the 1954 season.

Kryhoski, counted on by Manager Jimmie Dykes to start at first base this season, batted .278 for the St. Louis Browns in 1953. Playing in 104 games, he drove in 50 runs and hit 16 home .

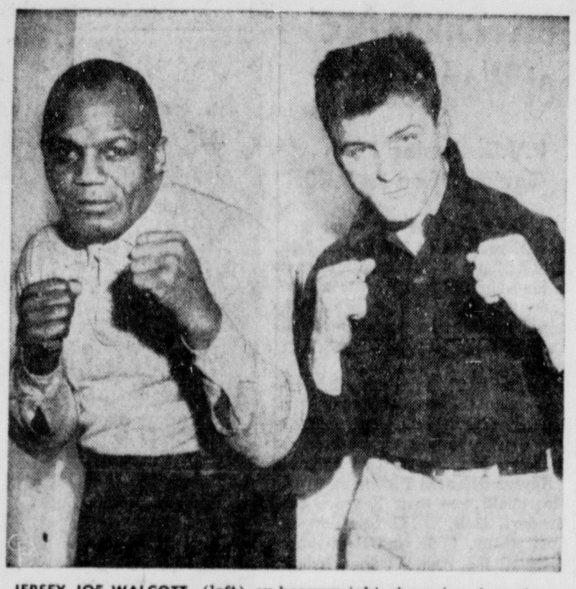
Al Demao Retires As Active Player

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Al Demao, one of the National Football League's better centers for the past eight years, retired today as an active player for the Washington Redskins.

A 34-year-old who formerly played for Duquesne University, Demao told a farewell luncheon gathering that he had enjoyed playing for the Redskins and that the club ownership and the fans "have all been nice to me."

He has entered private business in Washington.

JERSEY JOE AND JERSEY JACK



JERSEY JOE WALCOTT, (left) ex-heavyweight champion, has given up any hope of returning to the ring again but has come up with a young fellow tabbed as an outstanding prospect. The youth is "Jersey Jack" Leonard, a former GI who is 22, weighs 200 pounds and will be seen in action in Philadelphia Feb. 24. (International)

Colleges To Renew Efforts To Get "No Raiding" Pact

Showdown Is Sought With Major Leagues

HAMILTON, N.Y., Feb. 15 (AP)—College baseball men, turned down once more in their efforts to effect a "no raiding" agreement with the major leagues, will try again next July. If they don't succeed then, they're ready to put up a heck of a fight against the pros.

In the furore over the players' pensions, it wasn't publicized that the colleges received another turndown at the Jan. 30 meetings of the National and American Leagues. They submitted a resolution calling upon professional baseball to refrain from signing or negotiating with college players once they had commended their sophomore year.

The National League voted 5-3 against the resolution while American tabled it until the July meeting—an action regarded as encouraging by Colgate's Eppy Barnes.

Barnes, chairman of the National Collegiate A. A. Baseball Committee, said today that baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick and the two league presidents, Warren Giles and Will Harridge, had assured him they were in favor of such a resolution and feel that something must be done to promote baseball on the college level.

Plan To Take Action

If the July effort fails to produce an agreement, Barnes is prepared to recommend certain countermeasures to the NCAA. They are:

1. Submit the resolution to the American Council on Education to try to have all the college presidents endorse the move.

2. Issue a public statement that scouts and representatives of professional baseball teams no longer are welcome on college campuses.

3. Request that baseball be treated similarly to college football and basketball under draft procedures.

4. Revive the program of asking state legislatures to pass lawss restricting contract agreements with under-age players.

Steps 2 and 4 of the proposed counter-attack may have considerable effect on the pros. Hitherto college coaches generally have been pleased to show off their talented youngsters to the scouts. But they moaned long and loudly when those scouts signed not only the stars but a lot of fair ball players to help populate minor league benches.

Likened To Minors

Now the collegians liken themselves to the minor leagues, which have suffered from "raids" that took away their top talent, displeased the fans and killed off the gate receipts.

A NCAA survey in 1948, covering 205 colleges, showed that 9,189 students had played ball that year under 377 coaches at a cost of $1,750,000. And 139 were prematurely signed by the pros; only five ever reached the majors.

Potomac State Hosts Bobcats

KEYSER, W. Va., Feb. 15—Potomac State College's floormen will be out to atone for a 58-50 setback when they conclude their season series with Frostburg State Teachers College here Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The game will be Potomac's 21st of the season. The Catamounts have won five and lost 15.

Frostburg comes here with a losing streak of four games and a season record of 4-10.

Baseball Briefs

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians announced today that second baseman Bob Avila and outfielder Al Smith have come to terms, bringing to 25 the number of players signed for the coming season.

Avila hit .286 in 141 games last year. Brought up from the Tribe's American Association farm club, the Indianapolis Indians, Smith batted .240 in 47 games last season.

The Indians did not make pay terms public.

DETROIT, Feb. 15 (AP) — First baseman Walt Dropo signed his 1954 baseball contract with the Detroit Tigers today. He was the 32nd to agree, leaving only 11 still to sign before spring practice starts March 1.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (AP) — Lefty Paul Minner, who had a 12-15 pitching record last season, today became the 36th Chicago Cub player signed for 1954.

TOKYO, Feb. 15 (AP) — Three American baseball stars — Lefty O'Doul, Joe DiMaggio and Bobby Brown—today began coaching the Osaka team of the Japanese Central League, Kyodo News Service said.

O'Doul, manager of the Pacific Coast League San Diego team, supervised the pitching, ex-Yankee DiMaggio handled the batting and Brown, another former Yank, the fielding.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (AP)—Vito Valentinetti, rookie righthanded pitcher, today signed a 1954 Chicago White Sox playing contract, leaving only Minnie Minoso, the team's star outfielder, yet to come to terms.

Valentinetti, the 38th player signed, had 12-6 for Waterloo, Ia., in 1950 and 3-2 for Colorado Springs in 1951 before entering the service.

He was discharged last August and appeared in five games for Charleston of the American Association without a victory.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP) — Outfielders Jim (Dusty) Rhodes and Harvey Gentry and Pitcher Harry Nicholas signed their contracts today with the New York Giants. Thirty Giants now are signed.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15 (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics and Philadelphia Phillies signed a pair of catchers today. The Athletics announced that Joe Astroth came to terms after a two hour conference with General Manager Earle Mack. He received a slight increase over last year for his .296 in batting average.

Mike Sandlock, the veteran receiver obtained by the Phillies from the Pittsburgh Pirates, mailed in his signed pact. Sandlock hit .231 for the Pirates in 69 games.

Michaels Named Grid Aide At N. C. State

RALEIGH, N.C., Feb. 15 (AP) — Earle Edwards today called on an old friend and associate at Penn State to assist him in his job of building up the football fortunes of North Carolina State College.

Dr. H. A. Fisher, chairman of the State College Athletic Council, announced the appointment of Al Michaels, a backfield coach at Penn State, as an assistant to Edwards. Michaels was the first assistant to be named by Edwards since he arrived here last week.

West Virginia Lists Nine Football Tilts

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 15 — Fordham and William and Mary replace Waynesburg and Virginia Tech on the 1954 West Virginia University football schedule announced today by Director of Athletics Roy M. Hawley.

Fordham returns to the card, at Morgantown on Nov. 6, for the first time since 1950 and holds an 8-2-1 edge over West Virginia in the all-time series.

William and Mary, a completely new opponent, has been scheduled for a home-and-home series beginning Nov. 13 at Williamsburg, Va. The 1955 game will be played at Morgantown.

Sept. 25, Washington and Lee at Charleston; Oct. 2, South Carolina at Columbia; Oct. 9, George Washington at home; Oct. 16, Penn State at State College; Oct. 23, VMI at Bluefield; Oct. 30, Pitt at home; Nov. 6, Fordham at home; Nov. 13, William and Mary at Williamsburg, and Nov. 20, North Carolina State at home.

Eastern Open Golf Tourney Set May 20-23

Dates Are Earliest In 5-Year History

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP) — The Eastern Open Golf Tournament, formerly the last stop on the pros' summer circuit, will be held May 20-23 this year, the earliest in its five-year history.

Committee chairman Tom O'Donnell announced the dates today. He said the June 3-6 dates originally requested were given by the Professional Golfers Association to the sponsors of the Western Open, who have seniority.

The committee expects to draw more "name" stars for the event this year than formerly because of the earlier playing arrangement. Last September's tournament was the final on the circuit and came only three weeks before the Ryder Cup matches. Consequently it failed to attract a number of top shotmakers.

O'Donnell says he also expects better playing conditions since the grass at Mount Pleasant golf course will not be scorched and burned from the summer sun.

Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla. is the defending champion. Previous tournaments were won by Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff and Sammy Snead.

Charles Cops Hickok Award For January

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP) — Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight champion, today was named the January winner in the competition for the Hickok pro athlete of the year award.

Charles' sensational knockout of Bob Satterfield before a national TV audience earned him the edge over Bob Cousey, star of the Boston Celtics basketball team.

Neil Johnston, leading scorer of the pro basketball league with Philadelphia, was third and the veteran golfer Dutch Harrison was fourth. Jockey Willie Shoemaker finished fifth among the 15 athletes to receive first place votes in the wide open competition.

A horse named Landlocked was flown from South Carolina to Hialeah for a special race and won it.

Major League Ball Teams Start Workouts Soon

THE ANNUAL spring training sessions of the major league teams are about to begin with pitchers and catchers reporting during the last week in February and all due on deck by March 1. This spring 12 of the major clubs will train in Florida and four in Arizona. Additions in Florida are the Pirates, who did their 1953 training at Havana, Cuba and the White Sox, who formerly trained in the west and now will do their chores at Tampa. (International)

Health Authorities Combating Hepatitis In Grantsville Area

Gamma Globulin Used To Check Serious Malady

Students, Teachers Given Inoculations

GRANTSVILLE—State and county authorities have been cooperating here in combating an outbreak of hepatitis which last week reached epidemic-like proportions.

Authorities believe there are 60 or more cases in this community and at nearby Jennings, mostly among school children, although some older people and several pre-school-aged children have been ill.

About 400 students, teachers and other employes at Grantsville Elementary School have been inoculated with gamma globulin, and health officials hope that this may serve as a preventative.

Started After Holidays

According to Alonzo P. Fike of Accident, county sanitarian for the health department, the outbreak of a jaundice-like condition was first reported shortly after the Christmas holidays when a teacher and a couple of students became ill. However, in the past several days, the situation became much worse, and the disease was taking heavy toll among school children.

Grantsville, he explains, has no full-time physician. However, Dr. John Whitehill of Salisbury, Pa., maintains office hours in the community each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Whitehill began reporting more and more cases of the ailment, and consulted with Fike and other officials. Fike said Dr. Whitehill has been doing an excellent job in coping with the situation.

Fike contacted Dr. Perry Prather, assistant director of the Maryland State Department of Health in Baltimore, told him of the situation, and 400 units of gamma globulin were dispatched to Grantsville.

Organized Inoculation Center

The county sanitarian said the county health nurse, Mrs. Melda Trexler, of Accident, has also been active in this situation. She began immediately, along with Dr. Whitehill and two former health nurses who reside here, Mrs. Joseph F. Fahey and Mrs. Mildred Beachy, to set up and organize the inoculation center.

By the time the gamma globulin arrived, everything was ready for the task. About 360 children, 11 teachers, two cafeteria workers and the school janitor were inoculated.

Health authorities and medical authorities believe the epidemic is in check, and that a more serious outbreak will not occur.

They point out that this disease which has stricken so many people in the area, is a form of hepatitis, resulting from a possible virus infection. Hepatitis, they explain, is inflamation of the liver, and is then accompanied, in its more serious forms, with a yellow or jaundice-like condition.

Six Weeks Required

First symptoms are upset stomach, nausea, headaches, and sometimes symptoms of a common cold.

The disease can come from contaminated food, water, milk, or by individual contact. The virus can be spread by coughing. One physician said that it could be spread by small children who have the virus in their spitum. They put their fingers in their mouths, then handle books and other objects which are later handled by other children who also put their fingers in their mouths.

This type of indirect personal contact is a spreader. Sneezing, coughing and spitting are also means of spreading the virus.

Officials said the gamma globulin was used to help build up resistance to the virus, and also to prevent the possible infection of the students by other, more deadly virus. Health officials are hopeful that the gamma globulin will fill the need, but a six-weeks period must pass before they can be certain.

Now Under Control

Townspeople are aware of the situation. Housewives, restaurants and others are being especially careful. The town's water supply has been checked and it is found satisfactory.

Dr. Whitehill, who has given his time to the program of inoculation and prevention without charge, and Mrs. Trexler, together with Mrs. Fahey and Mrs. Beachy, are assisting in every way they can. Residents who need advice or suggestions should contact those in charge of the program, and should be assured that the epidemic is now under control.

It was also indicated that there were some cases of hepatitis in the Bloomington area, and in Cumberland, physicians there said several have occurred. In none of these places, however, did the outbreak reach the proportions noted in Grantsville and Jennings.

McCoole Youth Sentenced In Traffic Case

Unauthorized Use Charge Dismissed

WESTERNPORT — An accused parolee, Henry Dennis, 19, McCoole, was given a 60-day jail sentence yesterday in Westernport on three state motor charges resulting from a police chase.

Magistrate Carl Shaffer sentenced Dennis to 30 days on one charge and 15 days each in default of $25.75 fines on the two other charges.

Another charge of unauthorized use was dimissed when the owner of an alleged stolen car used by Dennis did not press the count.

State Police said Dennis, an employe of a used car lot and tavern near McCoole, was paroled from West Virginia in 1951 on an unauthorized use count. Later he was paroled for larceny, they added.

When his jail term expires, he will be turned over to West Virginia authorities for prosecution.

Dennis was reported to have stolen a car belonging to Nick Landis, operator of the used car lot and tavern, early yesterday. Police Officer Burza Hanlin and Officer Richard Householder, of Westernport, got a call about 2:30 a. m. of a disturbance in an alley in the rear of Main Street, Westernport.

When police arrived at the scene, Dennis reportedly drove away in the car. The police noted the auto had no license tags and gave chase, following Dennis down Route 135 toward McCoole. Dennis stopped at Reeves Auto Parts but, when he saw the authorities pull up, he continued down the highway.

When he came nearer to McCoole, Dennis stopped the car and ran into a wooded section along the road, police said. They nabbed him after a short chase and took him to the Westernport jail.

Health Authorities Combating Hepatitis In Grantsville Area

Gamma Globulin Used To Check Serious Malady

Students, Teachers Given Inoculations

GRANTSVILLE—State and county authorities have been cooperating here in combating an outbreak of hepatitis which last week reached epidemic-like proportions.

Authorities believe there are 60 or more cases in this community and at nearby Jennings, mostly among school children, although some older people and several pre-school-aged children have been ill.

About 400 students, teachers and other employes at Grantsville Elementary School have been inoculated with gamma globulin, and health officials hope that this may serve as a preventative.

Started After Holidays

According to Alonzo P. Fike of Accident, county sanitarian for the health department, the outbreak of a jaundice-like condition was first reported shortly after the Christmas holidays when a teacher and a couple of students became ill. However, in the past several days, the situation became much worse, and the disease was taking heavy toll among school children.

Grantsville, he explains, has no full-time physician. However, Dr. John Whitehill of Salisbury, Pa., maintains office hours in the community each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Whitehill began reporting more and more cases of the ailment, and consulted with Fike and other officials. Fike said Dr. Whitehill has been doing an excellent job in coping with the situation.

Fike contacted Dr. Perry Prather, assistant director of the Maryland State Department of Health in Baltimore, told him of the situation, and 400 units of gamma globulin were dispatched to Grantsville.

Organized Inoculation Center

The county sanitarian said the county health nurse, Mrs. Melda Trexler, of Accident, has also been active in this situation. She began immediately, along with Dr. Whitehill and two former health nurses who reside here, Mrs. Joseph F. Fahey and Mrs. Mildred Beachy, to set up and organize the inoculation center.

By the time the gamma globulin arrived, everything was ready for the task. About 360 children, 11 teachers, two cafeteria workers and the school janitor were inoculated.

Health authorities and medical authorities believe the epidemic is in check, and that a more serious outbreak will not occur.

They point out that this disease which has stricken so many people in the area, is a form of hepatitis, resulting from a possible virus infection. Hepatitis, they explain, is inflamation of the liver, and is then accompanied, in its more serious forms, with a yellow or jaundice-like condition.

Six Weeks Required

First symptoms are upset stomach, nausea, headaches, and sometimes symptoms of a common cold.

The disease can come from contaminated food, water, milk, or by individual contact. The virus can be spread by coughing. One physician said that it could be spread by small children who have the virus in their spitum. They put their fingers in their mouths, then handle books and other objects which are later handled by other children who also put their fingers in their mouths.

This type of indirect personal contact is a spreader. Sneezing, coughing and spitting are also means of spreading the virus.

Officials said the gamma globulin was used to help build up resistance to the virus, and also to prevent the possible infection of the students by other, more deadly virus. Health officials are hopeful that the gamma globulin will fill the need, but a six-weeks period must pass before they can be certain.

Now Under Control

Townspeople are aware of the situation. Housewives, restaurants and others are being especially careful. The town's water supply has been checked and it is found satisfactory.

Dr. Whitehill, who has given his time to the program of inoculation and prevention without charge, and Mrs. Trexler, together with Mrs. Fahey and Mrs. Beachy, are assisting in every way they can. Residents who need advice or suggestions should contact those in charge of the program, and should be assured that the epidemic is now under control.

It was also indicated that there were some cases of hepatitis in the Bloomington area, and in Cumberland, physicians there said several have occurred. In none of these places, however, did the outbreak reach the proportions noted in Grantsville and Jennings.

McCoole Youth Sentenced In Traffic Case

Unauthorized Use Charge Dismissed

WESTERNPORT — An accused parolee, Henry Dennis, 19, McCoole, was given a 60-day jail sentence yesterday in Westernport on three state motor charges resulting from a police chase.

Magistrate Carl Shaffer sentenced Dennis to 30 days on one charge and 15 days each in default of $25.75 fines on the two other charges.

Another charge of unauthorized use was dimissed when the owner of an alleged stolen car used by Dennis did not press the count.

State Police said Dennis, an employe of a used car lot and tavern near McCoole, was paroled from West Virginia in 1951 on an unauthorized use count. Later he was paroled for larceny, they added.

When his jail term expires, he will be turned over to West Virginia authorities for prosecution.

Dennis was reported to have stolen a car belonging to Nick Landis, operator of the used car lot and tavern, early yesterday. Police Officer Burza Hanlin and Officer Richard Householder, of Westernport, got a call about 2:30 a. m. of a disturbance in an alley in the rear of Main Street, Westernport.

When police arrived at the scene, Dennis reportedly drove away in the car. The police noted the auto had no license tags and gave chase, following Dennis down Route 135 toward McCoole. Dennis stopped at Reeves Auto Parts but, when he saw the authorities pull up, he continued down the highway.

When he came nearer to McCoole, Dennis stopped the car and ran into a wooded section along the road, police said. They nabbed him after a short chase and took him to the Westernport jail.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15 (INS)—This is hard to believe. After all Shelly's squabbles with Vittorio Gassman, she's going to stay in Italy and make another picture. That is, half of it will be made in Italy and half of it in America. She'll bring her baby here while she's working.

She has an option on Sam Ross' novel "This Too Is Love," but the title will be changed to "The Deal." She has a releasing arrangement, a director and a producer, and will have Jack Palance as her co-star. Gabriele Ferzetti, French actor, has another important role.

Meanwhile, Shelley and Vittorio are working in "Mambo," each being painfully polite.

Vittorio returns to America in June for a picture and he plans to bring his theater company to the U. S. A. to tour with "Hamlet."

Kirk Douglas is going to pull a Burt Lancaster and an Ida Lupino this summer and turn producer on a movie he won't star in.

He'll go to Tokyo to produce "Strange Harvest," an original by Sy Bartlett and Bill Schoor about an Army officer who returns to Japan on his honeymoon only to discover that he is the father of an illegitimate child by a Japanese girl.

The star Kirk wants is Henry Fonda—whom he's sure not to get—so pick another, Kirk.

Kirk is producing this film for his Bryna Company which he organized some time ago.

The Alan Ladds, who have been away from Hollywood for almost two years (they left Labor Day of 1952), sail for home February 28. While in Europe Alan made "Paratrooper," "Hell Below Zero," "Black Knight," and "Saskatchewan" in Canada.

He has been in Europe 18 months and left long before the law went into effect eliminating full tax exemption.

Columbia releases all of the Europe-made films which Cubby Broccoli and Irving Allen make, so it seems pretty likely that Alan will make his first American picture at Columbia.

For a brief moment or two it looked as if Dean Martin might join the brigade of Marilyn Monroe and Marlon Brando and take a walk out

Dean read the scrip of "Big Top" and found that after the first 20 pages he was among the missing. Jerry Lewis carried on alone.

Jerry didn't like the idea any better than Dean, so Hal Wallis was given the sad story and in less time than it takes to write this, Hal had the script changed and now the story is equally divided between Martin and Lewis.

Chatter in Hollywood:

All of a sudden we've been hearing about Joan Weldon, young Warner actress, being here and there with Laurence Harvey and other escorts. But I'm told none of them means a thing to her.

The man in her life is Enrique Corcuera, son of a wealthy sugar king with interests in Cuba and Mexico. The diamond broach Joan is wearing was given her by Enrique, who is taking her to meet his family in Acapulco very soon. He wants her to meet his family before an engagement is announced.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The $90,000 Kathryn Grayson is earning for her three weeks at the Sahara in Las Vegas after taxes, goes into an educational fund for her five-year-old daughter Pattie Kate.

Nat King Cole's nine-year-old daughter, Carol, saw her father perform for the first time in a cafe, at Ciro's, closing night.

Long distance negotiations are going on between Jerry Wald and Sir Ralph Richardson for the role of Potifar in "Joseph and His Brethren."

The Joe DiMaggio-Marilyn Monroe marriage could be held responsible for the hit of the Victor record, "Hold 'Em Joe," recorded by Singer Harry Belafonte.

Tyrone Power and Linda Christian will not go to Rio or Mexico. They'll stay right at home and take their vacation at Palm Springs and Las Vegas.

In New York, Conrad Hilton, who has been beauing pretty blonde Virginia Warren around, took her to an opening.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

To avoid appearing vulgar or overdressed, cultivate a "clothes sense"!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"Clothes sense" is a most valuable social and business asset. Since clothes play a major part in the first impression that a woman makes, it is only practical wisdom to devote considerable thought to their choice. The difference between being dowdy or frumpily attired and looking smartly chic can be the difference that limits or advances one's goal.

Undoubtedly, an awareness of the roles clothes play but a lack of clothes sense cause many women to suffer from "fashionitis." Even the woman whose taste is usually impeccable falls victim to an "attack" of it now and then.

First With Latest

The woman whose appearance usually suffers most from this affliction is the one who is first with the latest in fashion. She is not happy, nor does she feel well-dressed unless she is wearing the-very-latest thing.

But the woman with clothes sense never forgets that to be conspicuous is not smart at all. Attracting too much attention always raises the possibility of being over-dressed rather than well-dressed. It is not difficult to ascertain whether the attention you receive is admiring — or whether it is the stare that accompanies shock.

Good clothes sense always results in chic. It is a matter of choosing what suits your type, selecting from fashion what is most becoming and what contributes to making your visual presentation of yourself as beautiful as possible. But, there is another principle of dress that good clothes sense will never allow you to violate — suitability.

When In Doubt

When in doubt as to whether you should wear an evening dress or a dinner dress choose the dinner dress. When in doubt as to whether you should wear a wool or a dressy afternoon dress, wear the wool. It is possible to appear chic even though one is under-dressed and that is exactly what many a celebrity chooses. But in being over-dressed, one risks the possibility of being thought vulgar, not only in appearance but as a person as well!

There's an important and fine distinction between putting fashion to work for you — and adapting your personality to fashion!

Your Name's In The Pot

We promised to give you bedside bulletins on the coffee situation. We are keeping an ear to the grounds.

We are the world's greatest combusters of coffee any place. We drink 64 per cent of all the coffee there was.

And just to show how independent we are we don't raise one solitary bean in the United States. We do grow an ersatz gimmick called chicory. Which tastes like your foot's asleep.

Now for the history of coffee without cream or sugar. It was imported from Arabia to Holland in 1616. The Dutch treated the West Indies to the brown bean in 1726. The French have been brewing coffee since 1666 and still don't know how.

Nate Canopus, a student from Crete, boiled coffee at Oxford in 1641. Nate was stroke oar on the eight-spooned debating team. He drank it to stay awake. After 313 years of experimenting it is still compulsory to dump English coffee ten miles at sea.

The far-north Mackenzie District of Canada has 40 to 50 inches of snow a year, only about half that of the Canadian Great Lakes area says the National Geographic Society.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15 (INS)—This is hard to believe. After all Shelly's squabbles with Vittorio Gassman, she's going to stay in Italy and make another picture. That is, half of it will be made in Italy and half of it in America. She'll bring her baby here while she's working.

She has an option on Sam Ross' novel "This Too Is Love," but the title will be changed to "The Deal." She has a releasing arrangement, a director and a producer, and will have Jack Palance as her co-star. Gabriele Ferzetti, French actor, has another important role.

Meanwhile, Shelley and Vittorio are working in "Mambo," each being painfully polite.

Vittorio returns to America in June for a picture and he plans to bring his theater company to the U. S. A. to tour with "Hamlet."

Kirk Douglas is going to pull a Burt Lancaster and an Ida Lupino this summer and turn producer on a movie he won't star in.

He'll go to Tokyo to produce "Strange Harvest," an original by Sy Bartlett and Bill Schoor about an Army officer who returns to Japan on his honeymoon only to discover that he is the father of an illegitimate child by a Japanese girl.

The star Kirk wants is Henry Fonda—whom he's sure not to get—so pick another, Kirk.

Kirk is producing this film for his Bryna Company which he organized some time ago.

The Alan Ladds, who have been away from Hollywood for almost two years (they left Labor Day of 1952), sail for home February 28. While in Europe Alan made "Paratrooper," "Hell Below Zero," "Black Knight," and "Saskatchewan" in Canada.

He has been in Europe 18 months and left long before the law went into effect eliminating full tax exemption.

Columbia releases all of the Europe-made films which Cubby Broccoli and Irving Allen make, so it seems pretty likely that Alan will make his first American picture at Columbia.

For a brief moment or two it looked as if Dean Martin might join the brigade of Marilyn Monroe and Marlon Brando and take a walk out

Dean read the scrip of "Big Top" and found that after the first 20 pages he was among the missing. Jerry Lewis carried on alone.

Jerry didn't like the idea any better than Dean, so Hal Wallis was given the sad story and in less time than it takes to write this, Hal had the script changed and now the story is equally divided between Martin and Lewis.

Chatter in Hollywood:

All of a sudden we've been hearing about Joan Weldon, young Warner actress, being here and there with Laurence Harvey and other escorts. But I'm told none of them means a thing to her.

The man in her life is Enrique Corcuera, son of a wealthy sugar king with interests in Cuba and Mexico. The diamond broach Joan is wearing was given her by Enrique, who is taking her to meet his family in Acapulco very soon. He wants her to meet his family before an engagement is announced.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The $90,000 Kathryn Grayson is earning for her three weeks at the Sahara in Las Vegas after taxes, goes into an educational fund for her five-year-old daughter Pattie Kate.

Nat King Cole's nine-year-old daughter, Carol, saw her father perform for the first time in a cafe, at Ciro's, closing night.

Long distance negotiations are going on between Jerry Wald and Sir Ralph Richardson for the role of Potifar in "Joseph and His Brethren."

The Joe DiMaggio-Marilyn Monroe marriage could be held responsible for the hit of the Victor record, "Hold 'Em Joe," recorded by Singer Harry Belafonte.

Tyrone Power and Linda Christian will not go to Rio or Mexico. They'll stay right at home and take their vacation at Palm Springs and Las Vegas.

In New York, Conrad Hilton, who has been beauing pretty blonde Virginia Warren around, took her to an opening.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

To avoid appearing vulgar or overdressed, cultivate a "clothes sense"!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"Clothes sense" is a most valuable social and business asset. Since clothes play a major part in the first impression that a woman makes, it is only practical wisdom to devote considerable thought to their choice. The difference between being dowdy or frumpily attired and looking smartly chic can be the difference that limits or advances one's goal.

Undoubtedly, an awareness of the roles clothes play but a lack of clothes sense cause many women to suffer from "fashionitis." Even the woman whose taste is usually impeccable falls victim to an "attack" of it now and then.

First With Latest

The woman whose appearance usually suffers most from this affliction is the one who is first with the latest in fashion. She is not happy, nor does she feel well-dressed unless she is wearing the-very-latest thing.

But the woman with clothes sense never forgets that to be conspicuous is not smart at all. Attracting too much attention always raises the possibility of being over-dressed rather than well-dressed. It is not difficult to ascertain whether the attention you receive is admiring — or whether it is the stare that accompanies shock.

Good clothes sense always results in chic. It is a matter of choosing what suits your type, selecting from fashion what is most becoming and what contributes to making your visual presentation of yourself as beautiful as possible. But, there is another principle of dress that good clothes sense will never allow you to violate — suitability.

When In Doubt

When in doubt as to whether you should wear an evening dress or a dinner dress choose the dinner dress. When in doubt as to whether you should wear a wool or a dressy afternoon dress, wear the wool. It is possible to appear chic even though one is under-dressed and that is exactly what many a celebrity chooses. But in being over-dressed, one risks the possibility of being thought vulgar, not only in appearance but as a person as well!

There's an important and fine distinction between putting fashion to work for you — and adapting your personality to fashion!

Your Name's In The Pot

We promised to give you bedside bulletins on the coffee situation. We are keeping an ear to the grounds.

We are the world's greatest combusters of coffee any place. We drink 64 per cent of all the coffee there was.

And just to show how independent we are we don't raise one solitary bean in the United States. We do grow an ersatz gimmick called chicory. Which tastes like your foot's asleep.

Now for the history of coffee without cream or sugar. It was imported from Arabia to Holland in 1616. The Dutch treated the West Indies to the brown bean in 1726. The French have been brewing coffee since 1666 and still don't know how.

Nate Canopus, a student from Crete, boiled coffee at Oxford in 1641. Nate was stroke oar on the eight-spooned debating team. He drank it to stay awake. After 313 years of experimenting it is still compulsory to dump English coffee ten miles at sea.

The far-north Mackenzie District of Canada has 40 to 50 inches of snow a year, only about half that of the Canadian Great Lakes area says the National Geographic Society.

Radio And Television

Dream Houses, Weather And Wit

Eric Hodgins has been — let's see now — a chemical engineer, editor of a children's magazine, advertising space salesman, general manager of a news magazine, best-selling author ("Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House"), a member of the President's Material Policy Commission, a member of "Fortune" magazine's board of editors and, most recently, a radio commentator of rare charm and discernment on CBS (10 p. m. EST Thursdays.)

John Crosby

Hodgins' little fifteen minute talks which he calls "A Minority of One," are the closest thing to an essay you're likely to find on the air. He takes a single subject — say, house-building or left-handeness or the weather or absent-mindedness — and just runs on about it, revealing a definite point of view and a surprising erudition.

Hodgins' misadventures with houses is well known, "Blandings" having been made into a successful movie, but it's comforting to know, as he revealed in one of his talks, that he's still having them. "The force that impels a man to build a house is a woman. The man has married the woman, or vice versa, and since the nest-building instinct resides in the female, the next thing you know you have a house." From that launching point, Hodgins will go on to muse gently about the practice of building Cape Cod houses, which were designed to keep you warm, in the hottest parts of Texas, or building ranch houses, which were designed to keep you cool, in the coldest parts of Maine or of building split-level houses, designed for perching on hills, in Iowa where they have to build the hills to put them on.

I liked his story about the unpaintable walls, his latest mishap with houses, in which a painter suggested he take all the panelling off his walls and turn them backside. "The idea of turning the whole house inside out like a sock is intelligently interesting," he commented, "but so is the idea of turning the Empire State Building on its side and adding four propellers to the stern."

Kinsey, Hodgins reports cheerfully, has picked only the second most universal topic of conversation. The first is the weather about which Hodgins has lots of information. He points out that when Gen. MacArthur was about to enter Japan he began his occupation proclamation with the words: "Weather permitting."

"Weather permitting," comments Hodgins, "he would come ashore and start being Conqueror day after tomorrow; otherwise he would postpone. There wasn't even any talk about God willing. This was a practical operation."

Out of the "U. S. Yearbook of Agriculture" (Hodgins reads the darndest things), he plucks the information: "Man, during his geologically brief existence on earth, has never known a normal climate. We are now at the tail end of an ice age in a period of violence as great as any the earth has known. This was news to me. I had always thought the dinosaurs had it worse." I had thought so, too.

Even the language for portsiders

Maryland Building Shows Increase

RICHMOND, Feb. 15 (AP)—Despite declines in Frederick and Cumberland, three other Maryland cities registered enough increase in building permit values last month to give the five cities a jump of 62 per cent over January, 1953.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported permits in Baltimore were up from $5,249,825 in January, 1953, to $8,587,205 last month. Hagerstown nearly tripled its 1953 figure with $146,685 this year compared to $49,115 the previous January. Building permits in Salisbury rose from $80,180 to $167,520.

Frederick showed a drop from $92,450 to $12,050. Cumberland registered a slighter decline, from $16,950 in January, 1953, to $13,650 last month.

Dream Houses, Weather And Wit

Eric Hodgins has been — let's see now — a chemical engineer, editor of a children's magazine, advertising space salesman, general manager of a news magazine, best-selling author ("Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House"), a member of the President's Material Policy Commission, a member of "Fortune" magazine's board of editors and, most recently, a radio commentator of rare charm and discernment on CBS (10 p. m. EST Thursdays.)

John Crosby

Hodgins' little fifteen minute talks which he calls "A Minority of One," are the closest thing to an essay you're likely to find on the air. He takes a single subject — say, house-building or left-handeness or the weather or absent-mindedness — and just runs on about it, revealing a definite point of view and a surprising erudition.

Hodgins' misadventures with houses is well known, "Blandings" having been made into a successful movie, but it's comforting to know, as he revealed in one of his talks, that he's still having them. "The force that impels a man to build a house is a woman. The man has married the woman, or vice versa, and since the nest-building instinct resides in the female, the next thing you know you have a house." From that launching point, Hodgins will go on to muse gently about the practice of building Cape Cod houses, which were designed to keep you warm, in the hottest parts of Texas, or building ranch houses, which were designed to keep you cool, in the coldest parts of Maine or of building split-level houses, designed for perching on hills, in Iowa where they have to build the hills to put them on.

I liked his story about the unpaintable walls, his latest mishap with houses, in which a painter suggested he take all the panelling off his walls and turn them backside. "The idea of turning the whole house inside out like a sock is intelligently interesting," he commented, "but so is the idea of turning the Empire State Building on its side and adding four propellers to the stern."

Kinsey, Hodgins reports cheerfully, has picked only the second most universal topic of conversation. The first is the weather about which Hodgins has lots of information. He points out that when Gen. MacArthur was about to enter Japan he began his occupation proclamation with the words: "Weather permitting."

"Weather permitting," comments Hodgins, "he would come ashore and start being Conqueror day after tomorrow; otherwise he would postpone. There wasn't even any talk about God willing. This was a practical operation."

Out of the "U. S. Yearbook of Agriculture" (Hodgins reads the darndest things), he plucks the information: "Man, during his geologically brief existence on earth, has never known a normal climate. We are now at the tail end of an ice age in a period of violence as great as any the earth has known. This was news to me. I had always thought the dinosaurs had it worse." I had thought so, too.

Maryland Building Shows Increase

RICHMOND, Feb. 15 (AP)—Despite declines in Frederick and Cumberland, three other Maryland cities registered enough increase in building permit values last month to give the five cities a jump of 62 per cent over January, 1953.

In Memoriam

In memory of Ronald Kesecker, who gave his life in Italy 10 yrs. ago today.
Somewhere on the distant battlefront,
where the souls of men are tried
In the hell of the gun and screaming shell, a boy of mine has died.
Somewhere in the lull of the battle storm, midst the wounded and the dead
He was lain in the arms of the earth with a cross above his head.
The neutral sun with a healing ray,
looks down on a battered earth,
On broken men who curse the day when war first had it's birth.
The heavens weep as they wash away the stain of the strife and blood;
The wild winds moan for a better day of quiet peace and good.
The snowflakes, frozen tears of God, a silent cover lay,
With tender touch on the sleeping sod, and the scars of the battle day.
Mother & Father.

We take this manner in which to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our neighbors and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Mattie Minnick. In Memoriam

In memory of Ronald Kesecker, who gave his life in Italy 10 yrs. ago today.
Somewhere on the distant battlefront,
where the souls of men are tried
In the hell of the gun and screaming shell, a boy of mine has died.
Somewhere in the lull of the battle storm, midst the wounded and the dead
He was lain in the arms of the earth with a cross above his head.
The neutral sun with a healing ray,
looks down on a battered earth,
On broken men who curse the day
when war first had it's birth.
The heavens weep as they wash away
the stain of the strife and blood;
The wild winds moan for a better day of quiet peace and good.
The snowflakes, frozen tears of God,
a silent cover lay,
With tender touch on the sleeping sod,
and the scars of the battle day.

Mother & Father.

Card of Thanks

We take this manner in which to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our neighbors and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Mattie Minnick. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars for the funeral.

Strong Currents Of Buying, Selling Buffet Stock Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Stock Market was hammered roughly today by a strong cross-currents of buying and selling that finally resolved into a lower close.

New York Central was the star. Robert R. Young arrived in New York with new blasts against the management of the railroad which he seeks to control, and buying orders poured into the New York Stock Exchange from all quarters.

The governors of the New York Stock Exchange stepped in to prevent the stock from opening until buying and selling orders were matched. It took nearly two hours and 20 minutes to find a supply of stock to meet demand.

Central opened on a block of 65,000 shares up ⅞ at 26, a new 1953-54 high mark. Trading thereafter was heavy, but the stock never got above its opening price. It was up ⅛ at 25¼ at the close with 140,000 shares traded, the most active stock on the board.

Brokers surmise that the present demand is coming from speculators and others who believe that the price will go still higher if and when a proxy battle really gets underway.

Alleghany Corp., which is a Young holding company, was the second most active issue up ¼ at 4½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents at $114.50 with the industrial component down 80 cents, the railroads off 30 cents, and the utilities off 10 cents.

The list was composed of 1,167 individual issues of which 362 advanced and 510 declined, with 59 new highs and 5 new lows for 1953-54 touched during the day.

Radio And Television

is unfair, says Hodgins. "The words SINISTER and GAUCHE are the Latin and French respectively for LEFT and they have come to mean EVIL and AWKWARD. But the right-handed world compliments itself by describing cleverness with the words DEXTROUS and ADROIT, Latin and French for RIGHT."

If you can tear yourself away from the TV set for a minute you might try Mr. Hodgins for fifteen minutes Thursday nights. You'll learn some spectacularly useless information and be vastly entertained.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

THEY HELP YOU BID

CERTAINLY your opponents don't want to help you in your bidding, guiding your side into the most productive contract possible in the cards dealt you. Most especially they don't wish to take you out of an ordinary game contract and thereby cause you to read the distribution so that you realize a slam is within reach. Exactly that develops, though, on rare occasions. And the culprit—that is, from the viewpoint of his partner, though nice chap from your angle—regrets the whole matter.

If you can tear yourself away from the TV set for a minute you might try Mr. Hodgins for fifteen minutes Thursday nights. You'll learn some spectacularly useless information and be vastly entertained.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Stock Market was hammered roughly today by a strong cross-currents of buying and selling that finally resolved into a lower close.

New York Central was the star. Robert R. Young arrived in New York with new blasts against the management of the railroad which he seeks to control, and buying orders poured into the New York Stock Exchange from all quarters.

The governors of the New York Stock Exchange stepped in to prevent the stock from opening until buying and selling orders were matched. It took nearly two hours and 20 minutes to find a supply of stock to meet demand.

Central opened on a block of 65,000 shares up ⅞ at 26, a new 1953-54 high mark. Trading thereafter was heavy, but the stock never got above its opening price. It was up ⅛ at 25¼ at the close with 140,000 shares traded, the most active stock on the board.

Brokers surmise that the present demand is coming from speculators and others who believe that the price will go still higher if and when a proxy battle really gets underway.

Alleghany Corp., which is a Young holding company, was the second most active issue up ¼ at 4½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents at $114.50 with the industrial component down 80 cents, the railroads off 30 cents, and the utilities off 10 cents.

The list was composed of 1,167 individual issues of which 362 advanced and 510 declined, with 59 new highs and 5 new lows for 1953-54 touched during the day.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

THEY HELP YOU BID

CERTAINLY your opponents don't want to help you in your bidding, guiding your side into the most productive contract possible in the cards dealt you. Most especially they don't wish to take you out of an ordinary game contract and thereby cause you to read the distribution so that you realize a slam is within reach. Exactly that develops, though, on rare occasions. And the culprit—that is, from the viewpoint of his partner, though nice chap from your angle—regrets the whole matter.

Non-Essential Use Of Water Banned

Hosing, Car Washing Is Prohibited

Faced with a prolonged drought and diminishing water supplies, the City of Cumberland yesterday imposed a strict ban on use of water for hosing down pavements and for washing cars.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said it will be necessary to restrict the use of water to essential purposes only until enough rain comes to replenish the water supplies.

At present, he added, the city has about a 20-day supply of water left, without resorting to pumping water over the face of Lake Gordon, or taking more water from Lake Koon. All of the water in Lake Koon could be used, of course, but not without endangering the important fish life, and supplies there would last only a few days.

Use Is Restricted

In a brief statement, Edwards pointed out that "it is with sincere regret that for reasons of the long prolonged drought and the gradual diminishing of water in Lakes Gordon and Koon, it becomes necessary to restrict the use of water for other than essential purposes.

"The use of hose and washing of cars is strictly prohibited," he added.

Commissioner Edwards appealed to all citizens to "use good judgement" in using water.

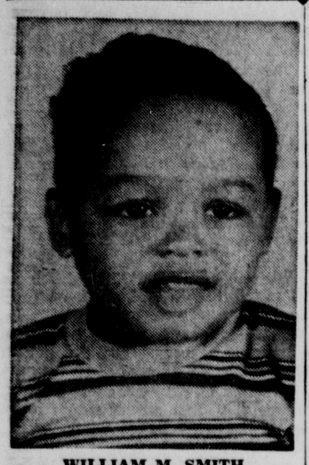
A few inches of rain will put the city out of danger, but until the rains arrive, he added, all citizens should cooperate by saving as much water as possible.

Water Use Increases

Last week, the Greater Cumberland area used an average of 13,598,000 gallons of water each day for a total of 95,190,000 gallons. This was almost four million gallons more than was used during the comparable week of last year.

Since last week, when Commissioner Edwards warned that supplies were running low and that conservation was necessary, one lake dropped and the other picked up a bit.

On Sunday, Lake Gordon was seven feet, four inches below the crest—a drop of two feet in a week. Lake Koon, down 38 feet, seven inches on Sunday, had picked up about a foot during the week.



WILLIAM M. SMITH

Cause Of Child's Sudden Death Is Still Unknown

Funeral Tomorrow For Smith Boy, 4

Funeral services for little four-year-old William M. Smith, who died suddenly Sunday after coming home ill from play, will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m. at SS. Peter and Paul Church. Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

The son of Clarence and Francena Carter Smith, 120 South Lee Street, William, affectionately known as "The Professor" by friends and neighbors, succumbed minutes after he was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital Sunday at 6:55 p. m.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said last night that although an autopsy had been performed to determine the exact cause of his death, the final report had not been received by the examiner.

Dr. Deming reported there is some question as to whether death was due to chemical poisoning or to other causes.

Authorities said the boy had been playing with companions near a South Walnut Place house which had been destroyed recently by fire and when he returned home about 5 p. m. he complained of being ill.

Members of the family said he had been eating candy obtained at a neighborhood store shortly before becoming ill, but that they did not think the candy was the immediate cause of his illness as other youngsters in the neighborhood also had eaten some of it, with no ill affects.

Police surmised that the child may have come into contact with chemicals used to extinguish the house blaze which occurred last December. Detective Roy C. Hawse, who investigated, went to the burned-out home and took samples for analysis.

Fire department officials said water and acid-soda chemicals had been used to extinguish the blaze.

Neighbors and members of the family said the little tot always was putting things into his mouth and thought possibly he had picked up something which could have poisoned him, such as rat poison.

One of four children, William was born July 11, 1949. His father is employed at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

Taxi Service Is Curtailed

Taxicab service in Cumberland was crippled yesterday as the result of a dispute between Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL) are the Astor and Yellow Top taxicab companies.

Union officials said the some 50 drivers of the firm reported for work, but refused to take cabs out under the leasing plan proposed by the firms.

Only two cabs were reported operating, and both were driven by officials of the Astor firm. A Yellow Top spokesman said that company offered no service, since there were no drivers.

Independent cabs and several small firms were operating as usual.

A company spokesman reported yesterday that the cab leasing plan proposed by the firms would provide union protection. Published statements had said the drivers would have no protection as is offered under a union contract.

A union spokesman said certain details of a union protection plan had been agreed on, but that a lot of things would be taken away from drivers by the leasing plan. He said the men are "sitting tight."

A Yellow Top official said the firm hopes to have several drivers report for work today.

Seeks Liquor License

Mother Is Given Mental Test; Report Awaited

County authorities are awaiting a report on mental aminations given yesterday in Baltimore to a 23-year-old Bowman's Addition mother whose infant daughter was found dead in a partially-filled bathtub last week.

Mrs. Shirley Alice (Geary) Rephann, who has been confined in the detention room of Allegany County Infirmary, was taken to Baltimore early yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis and a matron from the infirmary.

The report of Dr. Manfred Guttmacher, Baltimore Circuit Court psychiatrist, will be sent to the office of State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher.

The examinations were given by Dr. Guttmacher during the morning and early yesterday afternoon. He said his report was being forwarded to Fletcher and that any information regarding the findings would come from the State's Attorney's Office.

Mrs. Rephann, Deputy Sheriff Lewis and the matron returned to Cumberland about 8:15 p. m. yesterday and the young mother was taken to the infirmary. She has been held in custody without charge since her fourth-month-old child, Karen Gail, was found dead at the Rephann home last Wednesday.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy medical examiner, said death of the child was due to drowning. Yesterday's examinations were authorized by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

The body of the girl was found by her father, a Western Maryland Railway machinist, when he returned from work early Thursday morning. When he saw the child was missing from its crib, he looked through the house and discovered the body in the tub.

Mason To Speak

Magistrate Donald W. Mason will address an assembly of Carver High School Thursday, February 25, at 1:15 p. m. at the school as part of a program of speeches being sponsored by the Allegany County Bar Association's citizenship committee.

Byrd To Address Retail Food Dealers Tomorrow

The Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland will open its meeting to the public following the dinner Wednesday night.

The dinner is set for 7 p. m. at LaVale Fire Hall, and at 8:30 p. m. the event will be opened to persons wishing to hear the meeting's principal speaker, Dr. Harry C. "Curly" Byrd, retiring president of the University of Maryland.

Officers of the organization said they are opening the meeting to the public because of many requests of persons wishing to hear Dr. Byrd. Unfortunately they added, there is not enough space to include everyone for dinner.

Dr. Byrd's talk will mark his first public appearance in Allegany County since he announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Maryland. It will also begin a series of monthly dinner meetings planned by the local organization.

They were Francis A. Warnick, immediate past president of the state group; Luther Hutter Sr., local president; J. Goodloe Jackson, secretary-treasurer; Lynn E. Beightol and Carl A. Winfield.

Business included selection of the Claridge Hotel, Atlantic City, as the site for the state convention May 23 and 24.

B&O Shopcrafts Protest Boast In Gas Rates

80 Persons Attend City Hall Meeting

Members of Federation No. 7, Baltimore and Ohio Shopcrafts, last night unanimously adopted a motion to set up a citizens group to secure at least 20,000 signatures on petitions protesting the current application with the Public Service Commission for rate increase by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company.

Meeting in City Hall Auditorium, the approximately 80 persons who attended heard Thomas B. Finan, city solicitor, outline the stand taken by the Mayor and City Council and by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners in protest to the rate increase of the gas company.

Finan explained how the Public Service Commission regulates the rates charged by the gas concern and how the application for increase would be given a public hearing sometime in March. He noted that when the gas company secured its 22 per cent increase last year it spent $55,000 in presenting its case before the PSC.

Opposition Is Expensive

Finan told the federation that the city and county, to combat the present application for an increase, would have to "fight expert testimony with expert testimony," in order to show the PSC that the rate increase is prohibitive.

This would cost the city, county and state sums of money which at present are not available, he continued. However, Finan said, Joseph Allen, peoples counsel of the PSC, has protested the raise and said that a complete field survey of the gas company assets would have to be made by the city, county and state.

T. L. Ryan, director of information from the general offices of the C&A gas company in Pittsburgh, presented the utility's side of the problem, stating the company is basing its action on what he termed a fair 6 per cent return on its investment, which it figures at approximately $15,000,000 in West Virginia and Maryland.

Ryan pointed out that in 1952 the company had asked for a rate increase to bring in approximately $698,000 more annually in revenues, but had received a 22 per cent hike which gave about a $400,000 increase in income.

Wants Another $425,000

The company is now asking an additional 16 per cent hike in Maryland and 34 per cent in West Virginia to bring in about $425,000 more annually above the increase recently granted.

Ryan pointed out that the gas company, in order to expand its facilities to meet a now greatly increased peak load and to continue in a highly competitive market for new gas fields, had to have a fair income before being able to sell stocks and bonds which would give it the revenue to make the expansion and to explore additional gas fields.

It was pointed out by the federation that gas bills were prohibitive now. One woman exhibited a bill for January 1953 which totaled $23.91, and a bill for January 1954 which totaled $50.41. Ryan noted, however, an increase in over 30,000 cubic feet of gas used in the two bills.

Cite Sales Campaigns

Complaints against the proposed raise were vigorous and one member stated that the public is a victim of a monopoly. It was also noted that a large selling campaign for gas units had been conducted several years ago by the gas concern without any mention that increased work load would also mean an increase in rates.

A. H. Humbertson, chairman, who presided at the meeting told the members the gas company did not have the welfare of the people in mind and said profits made by the expansion of the company should take care of the costs of expansion.

E. W. Valentine moved to set up a committee to secure petitions to be presented the PSC in protest to the raise. Members of the federation said the committee also should survey the gas company's statistical reports to "squeeze the water out of them."

Mayor Roy W. Eves, Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder and County Attorney Gorman E. Getty also were present at the meeting.

Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Margaret S. Price vs. Robert U. Price and Virginia Catherine Gowans vs. David George Gowans.

Cosgrove Must Pay $450 For Boat's Half Interest

Judge Suggests Probe By Stover

An opinion instructing Francis Cosgrove of Frostburg to pay Robert Kerr of McDonald, Pa., $450 for his half interest in "My Holiday," a 17-foot inboard motor boat, was filed yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Judge Harris also concludes his opinion by stating that it is "quite probable" that there is a criminal violation involved in the intricacies of this proceeding. Consequently he is transmitting to Garrett County State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover a copy of the opinion for "appropriate action." He suggests that the parties involved in the boat dispute extend to Stover their full cooperation.

Conversion Charged

In his suit for $1,000 damages Kerr had charged Cosgrove with converting the boat to his own use illegally.

Kerr and Howard Weter, both of Allegheny County, Pa., built the boat at a cost of $1,041, exclusive of labor. By a written agreement dated last July 23 each became liable for one-half the cost for operating the boat and for necessary repairs.

The boat was launched on Deep Creek Lake in Garrett County in the early summer of 1953 and subsequently was involved in a number of changes of ownership. On July 28, 1953, Weter sold the boat and all accessories to Robert McCann for $550. Weter gave McCann a receipt in full for the purchase.

McCann in turn listed the boat for sale with Lester Reynolds and Charles H. Bowman, trading as Bowman and Reynolds Marine Base at McHenry. On August 8, 1953, the base sold the boat to Cosgrove for $900 and gave Cosgrove a bill of sale for the boat.

Kerr did not authorize Weter to sell his (Kerr's) interest in the boat, the judge explains. When he became aware of the situation August 15, 1953, he complained to Cosgrove that he was claiming his interest in the boat. The whereabouts of Weter has been unknown since the sale to McCann.

In his opinion Judge Harris cites the caveat emptor (let the buyer beware) doctrine which prevailed in the young days of this nation.

"By the strong arm of the Federal Trade Commission and by means of other agencies and statutes, both federal and state, the government stands today as a traffic cop in the channels of commerce," Judge Harris wrote.

"Nevertheless, the doctrine of caveat emptor is not quite a dead horse and the buyer must exercise due care to protect himself from the tricks of the avaricious, unscrupulous and perfidious person. A refined and modern caveat emptor still means that purchase is a game of chance and when the customer comes into court he is only right when he meets all the legal requirements," Judge Harris added.

APPOINTED — Lee Silcox, Decatur Street, local funeral director, has accepted appointment as chairman of the Classified Division of the fund campaign of Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross which starts March 1. Silcox is no stranger to Red Cross work, having been First Aid director here for a number of years. He said last night he is proceeding with the organization of his divisions, teams, chairmen and captains.

Vote Planned Next Monday On Five-Day Week

Long Asks Opinion On Radio Net Plan

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long told the Mayor and Council yesterday he will introduce at next Monday's council meeting an order to make permanent the five-day work week in the Police and Fire Department.

The commissioner said that in fairness to Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan, who was absent due to the funeral of his wife yesterday morning, he was waiting until next week to present the order, so it may be acted on by a full council.

The five-day schedule was placed into effect for a trial period by the Mayor and Council last June 28 for members of the Police Department, and shortly afterwards, a schedule which gave an equivalent work week was placed into effect in the Fire Department.

Asks Deferral

The order was brought up by Commissioner Long at a pre-council meeting yesterday afternoon.

Mayor Roy W. Eves suggested that action be deferred until it could be acted upon by the full council.

The mayor said he informed Commissioner Long he could tell the police and firemen he was sure all members are in favor of the five-day wor week, and that there was no doubt of its passage.

Commissioner Long asked Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, to study the legality of a plan outlined by William G. Barger, Allegany County Civil Defense director, for providing a fire-fighting radio net in this county.

Want Radio Service

A two-way radio has been placed in the fire chief's car here, and the department is interested in extending the service to all first-line fire-fighting equipment, the commissioner said.

Barger said the plan under consideration provides for a base station, which would have to be financed locally, and mobile equipment which is eligible for 75 per cent state and federal aid.

So far, 14 volunteer fire companies have indicated willingness to enter the radio net.

The cost would be about $250 for each mobile unit. This sum would include the fire company's share of the mobile unit and $100 toward the cost of the base station located in the vicinity of Cumberland.

Boy, 4, Hurt When Dynamite Cap Explodes

Richard Arbogast, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy E. Arbogast, 209 Maple Street, was injured last evening when a dynamite cap exploded as he and a group of other children were playing.

Police said the Arbogast boy was standing nearby when the cap went off and his left leg below the knee was peppered with fragments. The child was treated in Memorial Hospital last night about 7:30 and released.

Patrolman Robert Gilpin, who investigated a call from the boy's father, said two teenage youths had apparently broken into a powder shed of the Sensabaugh Company at the stone quarry on Oldtown Road and had stolen the caps, bringing several with them into town. It was while they were showing the caps to the group of youngsters that the mishap occurred.

Woman Charges Loss Of House Title By Fraud

Seeks Declaratory Judgment In Court

An 85-year-old Mt. Savage woman, who has lived in the same house there for over 47 years, has filed an equity suit in which she seeks a declaratory judgement in Allegany County Circuit Court setting aside a release and waiver she signed in 1950, unaware that she was giving up title to the house.

The suit was filed for Mrs. Annie Sansom by Attorney Simon F. Reilly against the Mt. Savage Refractories Company. In it she charges that a release and waiver dated October 23, 1950, was obtained through false and fraudulent representations and is a nullity. She asks for a declaratory judgement setting forth the rights and liabilities of the parties and a declaration that the waiver is null and void.

In the bill of complaint, Mrs. Sansom states that her husband, Percy, lost his life in the course of his employment with the Union Mining Company July 21, 1906. In those days there were no provisions in law for compensation as are now provided under the Workmen's Compensation Law.

After her husband's death, Henry Shriver, in a supervisory capacity for the Union Mining Company, assured the complainant that she would be taken care of for loss of her husband, this suit states. As a result, she moved into the property where she still lives. It then was owned by Isaac Mowery. In April 1907 it was purchased by Henry Shriver, who in turn sold the house to the Union Mining Company by deed dated January 24, 1909.

Mrs. Sansom adds that she has held "adverse, actual, hostile, open, exclusive, notorious and continuous" title to the property for more than 46 years. She has never paid any rent, she says, and no demand for rent has ever been made upon her. She has paid taxes and assessments on the property and has spent about $2,500 for repairs in the many years.

After her husband's death the Union Mining Company employed one of her sons, then about 12 years old, and he remained so employed by the company and the Mt. Savage Refractories Company, which acquired the other company's brick plant in Mt. Savage.

This son was Mrs. Sansom's sole support until his death in 1950. After his death she went to the Mt. Savage Refractories Company for advice, she asserts, as she had done before to the Union Mining Company. As a result of information obtained from the complainant in confidence the company was able to "perpetrate a fraud" upon her, she charges, by telling her that her interests would be protected.

Several days later, two women employes of the company came to her home and got her to sign a written instrument, which, she contends, they told her would protect her interests. It was not until July 1953 that she learned that the instrument set forth that the company had legal title to the property. She was to have permissive occupancy for life, but this was not to adverse the defendant's title.

In conclusion, Mrs. Sansom asserts that paper title now rests with the surviving directors of Union Industries, Inc., which forfeited its charter November 9, 1949. Union Industries, Inc. came into existence as a successor to the Union Mining Company. Title is not and never has been in the Mt. Savage Refractories Company, she concludes.

Senator Kimble Undergoes Operation

Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble underwent an emergency operation in Sacred Heart Hospital here last night.

The Allegany County legislator spent the weekend here and was admitted to the hospital for observation yesterday morning after he became ill.

He is expected to be hospitalized for about a week.

Governor McKeldin called from Annapolis last night at 9 o'clock, a half hour before the senator underwent surgery, to extend his best wishes and to report he would stop in to see Senator Kimble Thursday, when he comes to deliver the Lincoln Day address.

Wiley Ford Bridge Replacement Seen

Officials To Confer Here Tomorrow

Steps toward possible construction of a new interstate bridge over the Potomac River at Wiley Ford will be taken at a meeting here Wednesday morning, Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly, said yesterday.

See received the information from Russell H. McCain, chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission, who reported that the meeting of interested parties will be held at the bridge between 10 and 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Canal Involved

Inasmuch as the bridge crosses over the C. and O. Canal, the National Park Service will be represented by Harry Thompson and another National Park official.

Maryland will be represented by Albert L. Grubb, bridge engineer for the SRC, Roland M. Thompson, assistant locations engineer of the SRC, and G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the SRC.

Russell C. Quinn, Keyser, district engineer of the West Virginia State Road Commission, will represent that state. The Army Corps of Engineers also will be represented. Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer, will attend, as will Glenn Morris, president of the South End Businessmen's Association.

Interest in replacing the bridge was created by the businessmen's group who met last month with most members of the delegation and discussed the problem.

Tonnage Limited

At the suggestion of See, Delegate Fred B. Driscoll on February 2 met with McCain in Baltimore and presented the matter for consideration. Wednesday's meeting is the result.

Among other things, it was pointed out that one of the principal reasons for needing a new bridge at this point is that the tonnage limit restricts use of the structure for trucking.

C. N. "JERRY" WILKINSON

C. N. Wilkinson Candidate For Commissioner

Served Two Terms In County Office

Charles N. "Jerry" Wilkinson, DeHaven Road, yesterday announced his candidacy for election to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, subject to the Republican Primary election June 28.

Wilkinson served two previous terms in this office, and at the last general election, lost his party's nomination by 32 votes.

For a number of years, he engaged in the grocery business here, later becoming associated with the Kelly Springfield Tire Company as a truck and auto tire salesman. A few years ago, he and his uncle, Lester Wilkinson, opened a new gasoline service station on North Mechanic Street.

"Jerry," as he is familiarly known, is a son of the late Charles Nice Wilkinson Sr., who was a member of the Maryland State Roads Commission and onetime city tax collector. Like his father, he has always been an active Republican and has taken a wide interest in civic and community affairs.

During his terms in the office of county commissioner, Wilkinson, who was chairman of the board for four years, sponsored and saw to completion the new County Infirmary. He proposed the remodeling plan and renovation of the Union Street County Building after that structure was damaged by fire, and helped in planning the improvement.

He also introduced the proposal for issuing automobile license tags in the county.

During his time as county commissioner, actual construction work on the Lonaconing and Mt. Savage school buildings got under way, after having been delayed due to the war.

He also advocated improvements to more farm-to-market roads and other secondary roads. He met with state and federal road authorities on several occasions in an effort to have more county roads paved and improved by adjustments in federal and state aid programs.

At a time when many people were unemployed in the county, Wilkinson helped labor and civic groups obtain surplus foods and other assistance.

Wilkinson took the lead in helping to obtain a pay raise for school teachers in the state and county, when it was disclosed that teachers were receiving lower pay than any other comparable trade group or profession. Under Wilkinson's proposal, which was adopted, the county teachers were awarded pay raises in excess of the state minimum.

He is a member of Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, South Cumberland Business Men's Association, D.O.K.K., El Fidel Club, Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose, United Commercial Travelers, Knights of Pythias, and of St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

He is married to the former Miss Helen Schenck of Cumberland. They have one daughter, Mrs. Richard Gordon, this city.

Mercury Hits 75 In Spring Weather Here

Possible Showers Forecast Today

A touch of spring fever was felt yesterday by residents of Cumberland and surrounding area as a two-day warm spell continued throughout the state.

The mercury climbed to a high of 75 degrees here, according to Robert R. Golden, official weather observer at Constitution Park. He compared yesterday's summer-like temperature to a similar mark recorded in February of 1949.

In downtown Cumberland the mercury reached 76 degrees at 5 p. m. at the Times and Alleganian office and began dipping toward evening after sundown.

Many shoppers took advantage of the sunny, warm weather and shed topcoats. The balmy breezes may be short-lived, however, since the weatherman forecasts cloudiness today with possible showers in the west portion of the state as another cold front moves in.

Cooler air is expected tomorrow night but the weatherman says there's little likelihood temperatures will drop as low as normal for this time of year.

Passenger Sues Driver In Crash

A woman passenger, injured in an automobile accident in Frostburg last November 6, has filed a $5,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against the man who was driving the car in which she was riding.

Mary E. Friend, 130 Frederick Street, through Attorney Edward J. Ryan, brought suit against Leroy Campbell, 215 Oak Street.

The woman charges in her declaration that she sustained severe cuts and lacerations about the head and fracture of two bones in her right forearm. She said the accident occurred on Bowery Street near College Avenue when Campbell's car struck a pole.

Also placed on the court docket was a $10,000 damage suit by Mary Adams, Consolidation, Frostburg, against the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, Broadway, in Frostburg. Her attorneys are Ryan and William L. Wilson Jr.

Non-Essential Use Of Water Banned

Hosing, Car Washing Is Prohibited

Faced with a prolonged drought and diminishing water supplies, the City of Cumberland yesterday imposed a strict ban on use of water for hosing down pavements and for washing cars.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said it will be necessary to restrict the use of water to essential purposes only until enough rain comes to replenish the water supplies.

At present, he added, the city has about a 20-day supply of water left, without resorting to pumping water over the face of Lake Gordon, or taking more water from Lake Koon. All of the water in Lake Koon could be used, of course, but not without endangering the important fish life, and supplies there would last only a few days.

Use Is Restricted

In a brief statement, Edwards pointed out that "it is with sincere regret that for reasons of the long prolonged drought and the gradual diminishing of water in Lakes Gordon and Koon, it becomes necessary to restrict the use of water for other than essential purposes.

"The use of hose and washing of cars is strictly prohibited," he added.

Commissioner Edwards appealed to all citizens to "use good judgement" in using water.

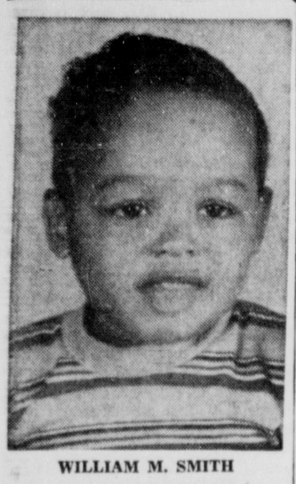
A few inches of rain will put the city out of danger, but until the rains arrive, he added, all citizens should cooperate by saving as much water as possible.

Water Use Increases

Last week, the Greater Cumberland area used an average of 13,598,000 gallons of water each day for a total of 95,190,000 gallons. This was almost four million gallons more than was used during the comparable week of last year.

Since last week, when Commissioner Edwards warned that supplies were running low and that conservation was necessary, one lake dropped and the other picked up a bit.

On Sunday, Lake Gordon was seven feet, four inches below the crest—a drop of two feet in a week. Lake Koon, down 38 feet, seven inches on Sunday, had picked up about a foot during the week.



WILLIAM M. SMITH

Cause Of Child's Sudden Death Is Still Unknown

Funeral Tomorrow For Smith Boy, 4

Funeral services for little four-year-old William M. Smith, who died suddenly Sunday after coming home ill from play, will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m. at SS. Peter and Paul Church. Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

The son of Clarence and Francena Carter Smith, 120 South Lee Street, William, affectionately known as "The Professor" by friends and neighbors, succumbed minutes after he was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital Sunday at 6:55 p. m.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said last night that although an autopsy had been performed to determine the exact cause of his death, the final report had not been received by the examiner.

Dr. Deming reported there is some question as to whether death was due to chemical poisoning or to other causes.

Authorities said the boy had been playing with companions near a South Walnut Place house which had been destroyed recently by fire and when he returned home about 5 p. m. he complained of being ill.

Members of the family said he had been eating candy obtained at a neighborhood store shortly before becoming ill, but that they did not think the candy was the immediate cause of his illness as other youngsters in the neighborhood also had eaten some of it, with no ill affects.

Police surmised that the child may have come into contact with chemicals used to extinguish the house blaze which occurred last December. Detective Roy C. Hawse, who investigated, went to the burned-out home and took samples for analysis.

Fire department officials said water and acid-soda chemicals had been used to extinguish the blaze.

Neighbors and members of the family said the little tot always was putting things into his mouth and thought possibly he had picked up something which could have poisoned him, such as rat poison.

One of four children, William was born July 11, 1949. His father is employed at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

Taxi Service Is Curtailed

Taxicab service in Cumberland was crippled yesterday as the result of a dispute between Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL) are the Astor and Yellow Top taxicab companies.

Union officials said the some 50 drivers of the firm reported for work, but refused to take cabs out under the leasing plan proposed by the firms.

Only two cabs were reported operating, and both were driven by officials of the Astor firm. A Yellow Top spokesman said that company offered no service, since there were no drivers.

Independent cabs and several small firms were operating as usual.

A company spokesman reported yesterday that the cab leasing plan proposed by the firms would provide union protection. Published statements had said the drivers would have no protection as is offered under a union contract.

A union spokesman said certain details of a union protection plan had been agreed on, but that a lot of things would be taken away from drivers by the leasing plan. He said the men are "sitting tight."

A Yellow Top official said the firm hopes to have several drivers report for work today.

Mother Is Given Mental Test; Report Awaited

County authorities are awaiting a report on mental aminations given yesterday in Baltimore to a 23-year-old Bowman's Addition mother whose infant daughter was found dead in a partially-filled bathtub last week.

Mrs. Shirley Alice (Geary) Rephann, who has been confined in the detention room of Allegany County Infirmary, was taken to Baltimore early yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis and a matron from the infirmary.

The report of Dr. Manfred Guttmacher, Baltimore Circuit Court psychiatrist, will be sent to the office of State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher.

The examinations were given by Dr. Guttmacher during the morning and early yesterday afternoon. He said his report was being forwarded to Fletcher and that any information regarding the findings would come from the State's Attorney's Office.

Mrs. Rephann, Deputy Sheriff Lewis and the matron returned to Cumberland about 8:15 p. m. yesterday and the young mother was taken to the infirmary. She has been held in custody without charge since her fourth-month-old child, Karen Gail, was found dead at the Rephann home last Wednesday.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy medical examiner, said death of the child was due to drowning. Yesterday's examinations were authorized by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

The body of the girl was found by her father, a Western Maryland Railway machinist, when he returned from work early Thursday morning. When he saw the child was missing from its crib, he looked through the house and discovered the body in the tub.

Mason To Speak

Magistrate Donald W. Mason will address an assembly of Carver High School Thursday, February 25, at 1:15 p. m. at the school as part of a program of speeches being sponsored by the Allegany County Bar Association's citizenship committee.

B&O Shopcrafts Protest Boast In Gas Rates

80 Persons Attend City Hall Meeting

Members of Federation No. 7, Baltimore and Ohio Shopcrafts, last night unanimously adopted a motion to set up a citizens group to secure at least 20,000 signatures on petitions protesting the current application with the Public Service Commission for rate increase by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company.

Meeting in City Hall Auditorium, the approximately 80 persons who attended heard Thomas B. Finan, city solicitor, outline the stand taken by the Mayor and City Council and by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners in protest to the rate increase of the gas company.

Finan explained how the Public Service Commission regulates the rates charged by the gas concern and how the application for increase would be given a public hearing sometime in March. He noted that when the gas company secured its 22 per cent increase last year it spent $55,000 in presenting its case before the PSC.

Opposition Is Expensive

Finan told the federation that the city and county, to combat the present application for an increase, would have to "fight expert testimony with expert testimony," in order to show the PSC that the rate increase is prohibitive.

This would cost the city, county and state sums of money which at present are not available, he continued. However, Finan said, Joseph Allen, peoples counsel of the PSC, has protested the raise and said that a complete field survey of the gas company assets would have to be made by the city, county and state.

T. L. Ryan, director of information from the general offices of the C&A gas company in Pittsburgh, presented the utility's side of the problem, stating the company is basing its action on what he termed a fair 6 per cent return on its investment, which it figures at approximately $15,000,000 in West Virginia and Maryland.

Ryan pointed out that in 1952 the company had asked for a rate increase to bring in approximately $698,000 more annually in revenues, but had received a 22 per cent hike which gave about a $400,000 increase in income.

Wants Another $425,000

The company is now asking an additional 16 per cent hike in Maryland and 34 per cent in West Virginia to bring in about $425,000 more annually above the increase recently granted.

Ryan pointed out that the gas company, in order to expand its facilities to meet a now greatly increased peak load and to continue in a highly competitive market for new gas fields, had to have a fair income before being able to sell stocks and bonds which would give it the revenue to make the expansion and to explore additional gas fields.

It was pointed out by the federation that gas bills were prohibitive now. One woman exhibited a bill for January 1953 which totaled $23.91, and a bill for January 1954 which totaled $50.41. Ryan noted, however, an increase in over 30,000 cubic feet of gas used in the two bills.

Cite Sales Campaigns

Complaints against the proposed raise were vigorous and one member stated that the public is a victim of a monopoly. It was also noted that a large selling campaign for gas units had been conducted several years ago by the gas concern without any mention that increased work load would also mean an increase in rates.

A. H. Humbertson, chairman, who presided at the meeting told the members the gas company did not have the welfare of the people in mind and said profits made by the expansion of the company should take care of the costs of expansion.

E. W. Valentine moved to set up a committee to secure petitions to be presented the PSC in protest to the raise. Members of the federation said the committee also should survey the gas company's statistical reports to "squeeze the water out of them."

Mayor Roy W. Eves, Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder and County Attorney Gorman E. Getty also were present at the meeting.

Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Margaret S. Price vs. Robert U. Price and Virginia Catherine Gowans vs. David George Gowans.

Byrd To Address Retail Food Dealers Tomorrow

The Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland will open its meeting to the public following the dinner Wednesday night.

The dinner is set for 7 p. m. at LaVale Fire Hall, and at 8:30 p. m. the event will be opened to persons wishing to hear the meeting's principal speaker, Dr. Harry C. "Curly" Byrd, retiring president of the University of Maryland.

Officers of the organization said they are opening the meeting to the public because of many requests of persons wishing to hear Dr. Byrd. Unfortunately they added, there is not enough space to include everyone for dinner.

Dr. Byrd's talk will mark his first public appearance in Allegany County since he announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Maryland. It will also begin a series of monthly dinner meetings planned by the local organization.

Five officers and members of the local group attended a meeting of the state organization Sunday at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore.

They were Francis A. Warnick, immediate past president of the state group; Luther Hutter Sr., local president; J. Goodloe Jackson, secretary-treasurer; Lynn E. Beightol and Carl A. Winfield.

Business included selection of the Claridge Hotel, Atlantic City, as the site for the state convention May 23 and 24.

Cosgrove Must Pay $450 For Boat's Half Interest

Judge Suggests Probe By Stover

An opinion instructing Francis Cosgrove of Frostburg to pay Robert Kerr of McDonald, Pa., $450 for his half interest in "My Holiday," a 17-foot inboard motor boat, was filed yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Judge Harris also concludes his opinion by stating that it is "quite probable" that there is a criminal violation involved in the intricacies of this proceeding. Consequently he is transmitting to Garrett County State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover a copy of the opinion for "appropriate action." He suggests that the parties involved in the boat dispute extend to Stover their full cooperation.

Conversion Charged

In his suit for $1,000 damages Kerr had charged Cosgrove with converting the boat to his own use illegally.

Kerr and Howard Weter, both of Allegheny County, Pa., built the boat at a cost of $1,041, exclusive of labor. By a written agreement dated last July 23 each became liable for one-half the cost for operating the boat and for necessary repairs.

The boat was launched on Deep Creek Lake in Garrett County in the early summer of 1953 and subsequently was involved in a number of changes of ownership. On July 28, 1953, Weter sold the boat and all accessories to Robert McCann for $550. Weter gave McCann a receipt in full for the purchase.

McCann in turn listed the boat for sale with Lester Reynolds and Charles H. Bowman, trading as Bowman and Reynolds Marine Base at McHenry. On August 8, 1953, the base sold the boat to Cosgrove for $900 and gave Cosgrove a bill of sale for the boat.

Kerr did not authorize Weter to sell his (Kerr's) interest in the boat, the judge explains. When he became aware of the situation August 15, 1953, he complained to Cosgrove that he was claiming his interest in the boat. The whereabouts of Weter has been unknown since the sale to McCann.

In his opinion Judge Harris cites the caveat emptor (let the buyer beware) doctrine which prevailed in the young days of this nation.

"By the strong arm of the Federal Trade Commission and by means of other agencies and statutes, both federal and state, the government stands today as a traffic cop in the channels of commerce," Judge Harris wrote.

"Nevertheless, the doctrine of caveat emptor is not quite a dead horse and the buyer must exercise due care to protect himself from the tricks of the avaricious, unscrupulous and perfidious person. A refined and modern caveat emptor still means that purchase is a game of chance and when the customer comes into court he is only right when he meets all the legal requirements," Judge Harris added.

APPOINTED — Lee Silcox, Decatur Street, local funeral director, has accepted appointment as chairman of the Classified Division of the fund campaign of Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross which starts March 1. Silcox is no stranger to Red Cross work, having been First Aid director here for a number of years. He said last night he is proceeding with the organization of his divisions, teams, chairmen and captains.

Vote Planned Next Monday On Five-Day Week

Long Asks Opinion On Radio Net Plan

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long told the Mayor and Council yesterday he will introduce at next Monday's council meeting an order to make permanent the five-day work week in the Police and Fire Department.

The commissioner said that in fairness to Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan, who was absent due to the funeral of his wife yesterday morning, he was waiting until next week to present the order, so it may be acted on by a full council.

The five-day schedule was placed into effect for a trial period by the Mayor and Council last June 28 for members of the Police Department, and shortly afterwards, a schedule which gave an equivalent work week was placed into effect in the Fire Department.

Asks Deferral

The order was brought up by Commissioner Long at a pre-council meeting yesterday afternoon.

Mayor Roy W. Eves suggested that action be deferred until it could be acted upon by the full council.

The mayor said he informed Commissioner Long he could tell the police and firemen he was sure all members are in favor of the five-day work week, and that there was no doubt of its passage.

Commissioner Long asked Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, to study the legality of a plan outlined by William G. Barger, Allegany County Civil Defense director, for providing a fire-fighting radio net in this county.

Want Radio Service

A two-way radio has been placed in the fire chief's car here, and the department is interested in extending the service to all first-line fire-fighting equipment, the commissioner said.

Barger said the plan under consideration provides for a base station, which would have to be financed locally, and mobile equipment which is eligible for 75 per cent state and federal aid.

So far, 14 volunteer fire companies have indicated willingness to enter the radio net.

The cost would be about $250 for each mobile unit. This sum would include the fire company's share of the mobile unit and $100 toward the cost of the base station located in the vicinity of Cumberland.

Woman Charges Loss Of House Title By Fraud

Seeks Declaratory Judgment In Court

An 85-year-old Mt. Savage woman, who has lived in the same house there for over 47 years, has filed an equity suit in which she seeks a declaratory judgement in Allegany County Circuit Court setting aside a release and waiver she signed in 1950, unaware that she was giving up title to the house.

The suit was filed for Mrs. Annie Sansom by Attorney Simon F. Reilly against the Mt. Savage Refractories Company. In it she charges that a release and waiver dated October 23, 1950, was obtained through false and fraudulent representations and is a nullity. She asks for a declaratory judgement setting forth the rights and liabilities of the parties and a declaration that the waiver is null and void.

In the bill of complaint, Mrs. Sansom states that her husband, Percy, lost his life in the course of his employment with the Union Mining Company July 21, 1906. In those days there were no provisions in law for compensation as are now provided under the Workmen's Compensation Law.

After her husband's death, Henry Shriver, in a supervisory capacity for the Union Mining Company, assured the complainant that she would be taken care of for loss of her husband, this suit states. As a result, she moved into the property where she still lives. It then was owned by Isaac Mowery. In April 1907 it was purchased by Henry Shriver, who in turn sold the house to the Union Mining Company by deed dated January 24, 1909.

Mrs. Sansom adds that she has held "adverse, actual, hostile, open, exclusive, notorious and continuous" title to the property for more than 46 years. She has never paid any rent, she says, and no demand for rent has ever been made upon her. She has paid taxes and assessments on the property and has spent about $2,500 for repairs in the many years.

After her husband's death the Union Mining Company employed one of her sons, then about 12 years old, and he remained so employed by the company and the Mt. Savage Refractories Company, which acquired the other company's brick plant in Mt. Savage.

This son was Mrs. Sansom's sole support until his death in 1950. After his death she went to the Mt. Savage Refractories Company for advice, she asserts, as she had done before to the Union Mining Company. As a result of information obtained from the complainant in confidence the company was able to "perpetrate a fraud" upon her, she charges, by telling her that her interests would be protected.

Several days later, two women employes of the company came to her home and got her to sign a written instrument, which, she contends, they told her would protect her interests. It was not until July 1953 that she learned that the instrument set forth that the company had legal title to the property. She was to have permissive occupancy for life, but this was not to adverse the defendant's title.

In conclusion, Mrs. Sansom asserts that paper title now rests with the surviving directors of Union Industries, Inc., which forfeited its charter November 9, 1949. Union Industries, Inc. came into existence as a successor to the Union Mining Company. Title is not and never has been in the Mt. Savage Refractories Company, she concludes.

Boy, 4, Hurt When Dynamite Cap Explodes

Richard Arbogast, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy E. Arbogast, 209 Maple Street, was injured last evening when a dynamite cap exploded as he and a group of other children were playing.

Police said the Arbogast boy was standing nearby when the cap went off and his left leg below the knee was peppered with fragments. The child was treated in Memorial Hospital last night about 7:30 and released.

Patrolman Robert Gilpin, who investigated a call from the boy's father, said two teenage youths had apparently broken into a powder shed of the Sensabaugh Company at the stone quarry on Oldtown Road and had stolen the caps, bringing several with them into town. It was while they were showing the caps to the group of youngsters that the mishap occurred.

Wiley Ford Bridge Replacement Seen

Officials To Confer Here Tomorrow

Steps toward possible construction of a new interstate bridge over the Potomac River at Wiley Ford will be taken at a meeting here Wednesday morning, Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly, said yesterday.

See received the information from Russell H. McCain, chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission, who reported that the meeting of interested parties will be held at the bridge between 10 and 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Canal Involved

Inasmuch as the bridge crosses over the C. and O. Canal, the National Park Service will be represented by Harry Thompson and another National Park official.

Maryland will be represented by Albert L. Grubb, bridge engineer for the SRC, Roland M. Thompson, assistant locations engineer of the SRC, and G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the SRC.

Russell C. Quinn, Keyser, district engineer of the West Virginia State Road Commission, will represent that state. The Army Corps of Engineers also will be represented. Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer, will attend, as will Glenn Morris, president of the South End Businessmen's Association.

Interest in replacing the bridge was created by the businessmen's group who met last month with most members of the delegation and discussed the problem.

Tonnage Limited

At the suggestion of See, Delegate Fred B. Driscoll on February 2 met with McCain in Baltimore and presented the matter for consideration. Wednesday's meeting is the result.

Among other things, it was pointed out that one of the principal reasons for needing a new bridge at this point is that the tonnage limit restricts use of the structure for trucking.

Mercury Hits 75 In Spring Weather Here

Possible Showers Forecast Today

A touch of spring fever was felt yesterday by residents of Cumberland and surrounding area as a two-day warm spell continued throughout the state.

The mercury climbed to a high of 75 degrees here, according to Robert R. Golden, official weather observer at Constitution Park. He compared yesterday's summer-like temperature to a similar mark recorded in February of 1949.

In downtown Cumberland the mercury reached 76 degrees at 5 p. m. at the Times and Alleganian office and began dipping toward evening after sundown.

Many shoppers took advantage of the sunny, warm weather and shed topcoats. The balmy breezes may be short-lived, however, since the weatherman forecasts cloudiness today with possible showers in the west portion of the state as another cold front moves in.

Cooler air is expected tomorrow night but the weatherman says there's little likelihood temperatures will drop as low as normal for this time of year.

Passenger Sues Driver In Crash

Mary E. Friend, 130 Frederick Street, through Attorney Edward J. Ryan, brought suit against Leroy Campbell, 215 Oak Street.

The woman charges in her declaration that she sustained severe cuts and lacerations about the head and fracture of two bones in her right forearm. She said the accident occurred on Bowery Street near College Avenue when Campbell's car struck a pole.

Also placed on the court docket was a $10,000 damage suit by Mary Adams, Consolidation, Frostburg, against the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, Broadway, in Frostburg. Her attorneys are Ryan and William L. Wilson Jr.

C. N. "JERRY" WILKINSON

C. N. Wilkinson Candidate For Commissioner

Served Two Terms In County Office

Charles N. "Jerry" Wilkinson, DeHaven Road, yesterday announced his candidacy for election to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, subject to the Republican Primary election June 28.

Wilkinson served two previous terms in this office, and at the last general election, lost his party's nomination by 32 votes.

For a number of years, he engaged in the grocery business here, later becoming associated with the Kelly Springfield Tire Company as a truck and auto tire salesman. A few years ago, he and his uncle, Lester Wilkinson, opened a new gasoline service station on North Mechanic Street.

"Jerry," as he is familiarly known, is a son of the late Charles Nice Wilkinson Sr., who was a member of the Maryland State Roads Commission and onetime city tax collector. Like his father, he has always been an active Republican and has taken a wide interest in civic and community affairs.

During his terms in the office of county commissioner, Wilkinson, who was chairman of the board for four years, sponsored and saw to completion the new County Infirmary. He proposed the remodeling plan and renovation of the Union Street County Building after that structure was damaged by fire, and helped in planning the improvement.

He also introduced the proposal for issuing automobile license tags in the county.

During his time as county commissioner, actual construction work on the Lonaconing and Mt. Savage school buildings got under way, after having been delayed due to the war.

He also advocated improvements to more farm-to-market roads and other secondary roads. He met with state and federal road authorities on several occasions in an effort to have more county roads paved and improved by adjustments in federal and state aid programs.

At a time when many people were unemployed in the county, Wilkinson helped labor and civic groups obtain surplus foods and other assistance.

Wilkinson took the lead in helping to obtain a pay raise for school teachers in the state and county, when it was disclosed that teachers were receiving lower pay than any other comparable trade group or profession. Under Wilkinson's proposal, which was adopted, the county teachers were awarded pay raises in excess of the state minimum.

He is a member of Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, South Cumberland Business Men's Association, D.O.K.K., El Fidel Club, Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose, United Commercial Travelers, Knights of Pythias, and of St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

He is married to the former Miss Helen Schenck of Cumberland. They have one daughter, Mrs. Richard Gordon, this city.
